DOCTORS TEST MAN'S SANITY IN BAKER CASE

Three Alienists Try for Hours to Determine Suspect's Status.

CAN READ SLIGHTLY; ILLITERACY SCOUTED

Microscopic Scanning of Coat Fails to Show Blood Traces.

CAPTIVE IDENTIFIES SLAIN GIRL'S PICTURE

Pratt and Shelby Answer Plea for Statement Clearing Victim.

Contradictory testimony assembled by authorities in their inquisition of Private Harold L. Brewster was the basis yesterday of a psychological examination of the soldier who has alternately denied and confessed the killing of Mary Baker.

Three Army doctors, who specialize as alienists, sought for four hours to discover whether Brewster's seemingly chaotic mind is sound.

Out of the examination room in the Munitions Building came the report that Brewster is capable of keeping scores at basket ball games and has done so on several occasions.

Can Read to Some Extent.

Doctors who conducted the examination last night declared that while Brewster is not an accomplished reader, nevertheless he is capable of extracting the sense from a story. They denied reports that the man is a positive illiterate.

While his ability to read could have given him some of the facts in connection with the murder yet, authorities declare, he has shown a knowledge of other elements in the crime which were known only to operatives.

Clothes taken from Brewster's quarters at the barracks of Headquarters Company, to which he is attached, failed to reveal any traces of blood, Inspector William S. Shelby yesterday was told by the hygiene laboratory of the United States Public Health Service, which made a microscopic examination of the suit and cap.

Necktie Spot Discounted.

Detectives minimized the belief that a spot on a necktie taken from Brewster might be human blood. Shirts owned by the soldier have also been examined for blood stains without success.

Brewster yesterday assumed a belligerent attitude toward his superiors. In contradiction to his earlier willingness to talk, he now gruffly answers all questions.

A picture of Mary Baker and Olga Skinner, her close friend, was shown to Brewster yesterday and without hesitation he pointed out the Baker girl as the one with whom he had the altercation in the Ellipse.

Miss Baker's Name Cleared.

He gave a new version of the method by which he obtained the gun he said he had with him on the night of the murder. "I reached in my pocket when I needed it and found one there," he said.

Character Is Upheld.

Authorities yesterday upheld the character of the murdered girl in response to a communication from Representative S. O. Bland, of Virginia, to issue a "joint conclusive statement to the public exonerating the girl from reflections that have been cast upon her character.

Written statements were forwarded to Representative Bland. Lieut. Edward J. Kelly said that Mary Baker was a good girl. All the evidence gathered by police tends to show that the girl was the victim of a moronic assassin. Those in charge of the investigation described her as being of a high moral character.

Maj. Pratt said, "It is very easy to damn a woman's character and virtue. It is far from our theory that Mary Baker was not a good girl. All our investigations tend to show that she was of the highest type."

Representative Bland will today receive letter from Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth, Inspector Shelby, Maj. Pratt and the Department of Justice. Those who sent the letters said that it would be discourteous to Mr. Bland to make public their letters before he receives them.

All were emphatic, however, that the letters were in effect a refutation of the aspersions which were cast upon the girl in the early investigation.

U. S. CRUISER PLANS DROPPED LAST FALL

Pringle Tells at Pact Quiz of Program Shift Long Before Parley.

EXPLANATION OF SLASH

By ALBERT W. FOX.

America's abandonment of her cruiser program was brought about by British diplomacy four months before the London Conference began and the naval general board was notified to this effect last September, according to testimony developed before the Senate foreign relations committee yesterday. Prime Minister MacDonald's visit to Washington last fall synchronized with establishment of Anglo-American harmony on the basis of the British demand that the United States Navy be limited in the number of 10,000-ton 8-inch-gun cruisers

Admiral J. R. P. Pringle, president of the Naval War College, was the witness whose testimony clarified several important features of the naval pact. The admiral's view coincides with that of Admirals Jones, Bristol, Chase and others, and it appears to be definitely established that naval opinion, with a few individual exceptions, regards the cruiser program, abandonment of parity and the 5-5-3 ratio, and ambiguities in the treaty as disadvantageous to the United States.

Admiral Pringle, who made an excellent witness and was congratulated by members of the committee, summarized the situation concisely. When he concluded there was no confusion as to apparent conflict between the general board's willingness to accept twenty-one suitable 8-inch-gun cruisers last September and the board's present position in opposition to the treaty program abandoning America's stand respecting this type of craft.

Senators Reed, Robinson and Swanson have sought to show that the general board reduced the number to 21 in September and should therefore not regard a further reduction to 18, or 16 during the life of the treaty.

CURTIS DEFENDS FEE FROM CONTRACTORS

Son of Vice President Says $10,000 Was Accepted for Legal Advice.

RECORDS ARE PROMISED

Chicago, Ill., May 21 (A.P.).—Harry K. Curtis, son of the Vice President of the United States, tonight defended the acceptance of fees from a group of building contractors, maintaining the money, approximately $10,000, was taken for legal advice. Curtis had been summoned to the State attorney's office for questioning concerning informal charges placed before the prosecutor by contractors who said they had paid the young attorney money in exchange for his influence in securing Government contracts.

Concerning the acceptance of the fees, Curtis said: "Last year I was approached by a representative of some building interests and asked if I could secure Government contracts for his clients. I told him 'no.'

"Later he called and asked if I would represent his firms in legal matters, and I assured him I would undertake any legitimate legal work. I received $500 as a retainer. In December it came to my notice that a number of contractors had been told they were to receive work on an '18-22½ per cent cost-plus' basis. I called some of the men into my office and told them flatly they had been misinformed, and if they thought I had not represented them commensurate with the fees they paid me I would return the money. I have since returned almost all of the fees," Curtis said.

Mike Malloy, reputed go-between for the contractors and Curtis, was questioned at length today, and Curtis was excused upon his agreement to furnish the prosecutor's office with a list of his fees and the services rendered for them.

Patrick Roche, chief investigator for the State's attorney, said contractors complained of paying Curtis sums of money, thinking he would be able to secure Government

Man Strolls From Court But Is Recaptured on Run

Prisoner Hears Sentence and Quietly Walks Out on Judge.

Tony Faber, of Benning road northeast near Nineteenth street, listened resignedly yesterday while Judge J. Chew Sheriff ordered him to pay $200 or esrve six months in jail on liquor charges, and then calmly picked up his hat and walked out of the courtroom

Tony's disappearance was not discovered for several minutes and then pandemonium broke loose in the crowded Hyattsville branch of Prince Georges County Police Court. County Policeman Claude Reese and Constables Ralph Brown, Andrew Basch and George Wiseman reached hurriedly for caps and pistol belts and left in search of the mission prisoner.

Several versions were current as to the manner in which Faber quitted

McBride Asserts League Has No Intention of Indorsement.

ASSOCIATION TO BACK FORT IN NEW JERSEY

Robinson, Indiana, Raps Raskob for Activity in Wets' Behalf.

LOBBY COMMITTEE'S REPORT IS ATTACKED

Criticism of Huston for Use of $36,100 Fund Held Entirely Political.

(Associated Press.)

Notice was given yesterday by F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Antisaloon League, that if any wets believe they are going to get home brew from his organization they are doomed to disappointment.

He made this statement before the Senate lobby committee, which is investigating his prohibition activities. It resulted from questioning by Chairman Caraway, of the committee, concerning the league's attitude toward Representative Fort (Republican), New Jersey, a candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination.

Explaining that the New Jersey league had indorsed Mr. Fort's candidacy and that the national league would follow suit, Mr. McBride asserted that Mr. Fort had not said in a recent speech in the House of Representatives that home brew could legally be manufactured.

Caraway Reads From Speech.

Senator Caraway quickly obtained a copy of Mr. Fort's speech, which was widely interpreted as expressing the opinion that home brew could be manufactured legally, and read a portion of it. He quoted Mr. Fort as saying in part:

"Perhaps the act needs clarification on the question of home brew, although nobody has ever been convicted for making it for home use. But, otherwise, it seems to me pretty clearly to fulfill the purposes of its adoption and to satisfy the real wishes of the American people—for the preservation of their industrial system, their prosperity and their homes."

Commenting on the speech, Senator Caraway said, smilingly:

"He says nobody had ever been convicted for home brew, and they ought to be content, if they want beer, with what they made if they were not too lazy to make it."

Sale Held Most Important.

CAPE VERDE ISLANDS GETS MAIL IN CHUTE

Advices Indicate Craft Made Little Speed Against Wind.

SHORTAGE OF WATER CAUSED BY WARMTH

Brazil Officials Preparing Enthusiastic Welcome for Air Liner.

(Associated Press.)

The dirigible Graf Zeppelin, German cruiser of the air, last night was droning across the south Atlantic ever nearer the coast of Brazil, and a message quoted Dr. Hugo Eckener, the commander, as saying the airship would reach Pernambuco some time after 10 o'clock this morning (8 a. m. E. S. T.).

After the Zeppelin passed over Porto Praia, Cape Verde Islands, at noon and dropped a bag of mail she hummed on southwestward toward the next bit of land—St. Paul's Rock, a barren and uninhabited bit of stone jutting out of the ocean.

Successive messages reported her steadily nearing St. Paul's, although one message sent by Dr. Eckener to Rio Janeiro said the ship was making "little speed against strong winds, but all is well." Later advices indicated she had picked up speed.

Warm Welcome Planned.

A great welcome is awaiting the Zeppelin at Pernambuco, where a mooring mast has been erected. The ship later will go to Rio Janeiro for a courtesy visit of several hours and then will turn northward to Havana and Lakehurst, N. J. It left Friedrichshafen Sunday.

Pernambuco, Brazil, May 21 (A.P.). The mighty dirigible Graf Zeppelin tonight had passed the Cape Verde Islands and was heading acros the South Atlantic for this port.

Advices received here late today said the Graf had passed over Sao Thiago of the Cape Verde group and had dropped her mail. She was proceeding satisfactorily.

Will Take on Water.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, the Graf's veteran commander, notified the landing field here that the airship would halt at Pernambuco to take on water before proceeding to Rio Janeiro.

The Zeppelin encountered contrary winds for many hours, which, together with the tropical heat, caused a water shortage. The passengers have been able to have only a sponge bath of cologne water.

At least a three-hour stay will be made here to replenish the water sup-

Business in Washington

By WILLIAM JOHN EYNON,
President Typothetae of Washington (Master Printers Association).

"Keep moving!" the urgent cry of the subway guard, in my opinion is the motto which industry should keep prominently before its vision, even more under present conditions than in times of prosperity.

It must be remembered that the principal factor in prosperity is the buying power of the public, and everything which serves to maintain that buying power is a factor in promoting general prosperity.

The natural reaction in a business man, when business shows signs of falling off, is to to curtail expeditures, personal and business. It is my sincere conviction, however, that such a policy is wrong, particularly when it involves curtailment of payrolls, either by reducing wages or laying off employes.

Every employe who is discharged in a slack season represents diminished purchasing power. His unemployment means that he is unable in many instances to buy merchandise produced in other industries, and it is quite obvious that such a situation intensifies the depression in direct proportion to the number of workers whose incomes are terminated or curtailed.

The employer who continues to employ workers, who keeps his operating expenses up judiciously and who spends money, not extravagantly, but wisely, through any industrial lull may find temporarily money may go out faster than it comes in, but he will find that the part he plays in maintaining the buying power of his workers will be rewarded amply by speeding the return of normal times.

Spending keeps money in circulation, and the definition of prosperity is simply "money in circulation."

We prosper only when the other man buys our goods, and he can buy ours only when we buy his. The present situation is one which, I believe, demands that we spend money in order that the other man may have money with which to buy our merchandise and keep our industries in operation and our employes from starvation.

In Wednesday morning's Post, due to a typographical error, William F. Ham, president of the Potomac Electric Power Co. was quoted as saying "The entire period from 1922 to 1929, in fact, showed tremendous advances in prohibition caused principally by increases in mass production facilities."

What Mr. Ham really said was "The entire period from 1922 to 1929, in fact, showed tremendous advances in production caused principally by increases in mass production facilities."

PINCHOT TAKES LEAD OVER BROWN AS DAVIS OVERWHELMS GRUNDY

Labor Secretary Calls on Hoover, Jubilant Over Victory.

NOMINEE FOR SENATE WILL RESIGN IN JUNE

President's Position on Tariff Brought to Fore by Result.

FIGHT AGAINST BILL GIVEN NEW IMPETUS

White House Veto Deemed Unlikely, Due to Advanced Stage of Measure.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The victory of Secretary of Labor Davis over Senator Grundy in Pennsylvania's senatorial primary was heartening to the administration yesterday, but nevertheless caused the advisers and counselors to wrinkle their brows in an effort to determine just what it means.

President Hoover had taken no part in the campaign, but inasmuch as Senator Grundy had been in open revolt against him and typified a very strong, positive moving force against him, it is only human that he should get a lot of inward satisfaction out of the result, out of the fact that this movement had been checked right in its own high tariff citadel.

But Mr. Hoover will be called upon to sign the very same so-called Grundy tariff bill within the next two weeks after the reputed author has been repudiated in his own State.

Blow at High Tariff Seen.

It is true that Mr. Grundy disavowed the bill in his campaign, but this was simply by way of emphasizing that he would try to get a much higher one in the future.

It is unlikely that the Pennsylvania voters, with whom Senator Reed was once so provoked as to call them dunderheads, turned against Mr. Grundy because he promised not to be content with the present bill. They hardly drew any such fine shades of dictinction as that.

If Senator Grundy's defeat has any national significance it must be that the voters turned definitely against his school of thought, against his high-binding tariff ideas and which, whether he will admit patronage of the pending bill or not, its opponents insist are reflected in it.

There is considerable shakiness hereabouts about the pending bill anyhow and a tremendous press drive is being made to defeat it.

Quick Action Wanted.

It is not believed to be a misstatement to say that if the bill had not gone so far that Mr. Grundy's defeat might endanger it. The attitude on Capitol Hill now seems to be that good or bad or satisfactory, that the sooner the measure is gotten out of the way the better.

It is not wholly impossible, at that, that the Pennsylvania result may have some effect on the lumber item, on which the fate of the bill turns.

But there was more speculation as to what is running through Mr. Hoover's mind and the minds of his counselors. Some of them have given some thought to advising him to veto the bill. He is generally represented as never having thought much of it. There is, indeed, an apprehension in party high councils generally that the pending bill is not going to do the party any good

COMMITTEES FAVOR SIX DISTRICT BILLS

Traction Merger Proposal Is Pigeon-Holed; Pay Raise Meets Approval.

SECOND GIBSON REPORT

House committees approved six measures of local interest yesterday, and consigned a seventh—the traction merger resolution—to a pigeonhole.

The House District committee voted, 11 to 3, to postpone indefinitely action on the merger resolution, and then approved four bills, as follows:

The Senate version of the Capper-Zihlman bill to raise the pay of Washington's policemen and firemen.

The Moore bill creating a commission to study the fiscal relationship between the Federal and District governments and to recommend every two years the sum the former should contribute toward the cost of running the city.

A bill to insure operation of the municipal bathing pools by placing them under the jurisdiction of the Welfare Association of the Department of Public Buildings and Grounds, and a bill to authorize the closing of Center Market after September 1, provided 60 days' notice has been given to the dealers.

The House committee on public buildings and grounds approved the Capper-Crampton park development bill as it was amended by the Senate, and directed Chairman Elliott to ask the House to concur in these amendments. Once this is done, the bill will go to the White House for the President's signature.

The House judiciary committee made a favorable report on the Gibson bill to add two judges to the District Court of Appeals. This is the second Gibson bill to be reported. The first one provides two more judges for the District Supreme Court. Both are expected to be taken up this week or next week.

The merger resolution, which has been favorably reported by the Senate District committee, was voted down in the House District committee on the motion of Representative Hull (Republican), of Wisconsin, who has characterized the proposed consolidation as a stock-selling scheme engineered by the North American Co.

After the vote had been taken, Acting Chairman McLeod announced that he soon would introduce a separate bill providing for a 2-cent fare for

PINCHOT LEADS BROWN 10,000 VOTES, WITH 212 DISTRICTS MISSING

Former Governor's Lead 10,000 Votes, With 212 Districts Missing.

238,000 PLURALITY FOR SENATE WINNER

Gubernatorial Battle So Close Result May Hang on Official Count.

ROBUST WET TICKET POLLS HALF MILLION

Divided Triumph Scored by Vare, Whose Successor Bows to Cabinet Man.

Philadelphia, May 21 (A.P.).—Gifford Pinchot, Independent Republican candidate for governor, led Francis Shunk Brown, backed by the Philadelphia Vare organization, by 10,000 votes on the face of unofficial returns from all but 212 districts in Pennsylvania in yesterday's primary.

Additional scattered returns from rural districts overcame Brown's lead and placed the former governor well in front for his party's nomination for another term.

The late returns swelled the overwhelming plurality of Secretary of Labor James J. Davis over United States Senator Joseph R. Grundy to more than 238,000.

Missing Districts Scattered.

The missing districts were scattered throughout the State and were expected by Pinchot leaders to increase his lead and to make little change in the Grundy-Davis totals.

The totals for governor from 8489 districts out of 8701 gave Pinchot 618,504, Brown 605,454, and Thomas W. Phillips, wet candidate, 260,283.

A total of 8290 districts gave for senator: Davis, 715,139; Senator Grundy, 476,279, and Francis H. Bohlen, running mate of Phillips, 233,877.

Pinchot carried all the 67 counties of the State except Philadelphia, Chester, Delaware, Lackawanna, Lancaster, Lehigh and Erie, which was carried by Phillips.

Pinchot Strong Upstate.

In the upstate counties Pinchot received sufficient support in the unofficial returns to overcome the 187,730-vote handicap he received in the City of Philadelphia. Davis had the advantage of the tremendous Philadelphia vote and succeeded in adding to it upstate, where Grundy's strength was proved far below that of Pinchot.

Brown and Davis, backed by the Vare Republican organization, ran up leads over Pinchot and Grundy of 187,730 and 183,695, respectively, in Philadelphia. While Davis went on to win additional pluralities upstate, Brown's figures slipped steadily backward as the Pinchot vote from rural upstate Pennsylvania became known. In Allegheny County Davis easily carried Pittsburgh, while incomplete returns showed Brown unable to quite hold his own in that metropolitan center.

The success of Davis removes from the United States Senate the man whom Gov. John S. Fisher appointed to take the seat made vacant by the refusal of that body to seat William S. Vare.

Independent Ticket Looms.

Senator Grundy, who leaped into the public eye through his championship of high tariff rates during last year's lobby investigation, campaigned on the basis of the necessity of a continuance of his work for protection of Pennsylvania industry. Mr. Davis also pledged support to a high tariff, but in addition sought the labor vote on his record as Secretary of Labor for the past decade.

While Mr. Pinchot, through large pluralities in rural Pennsylvania, overcame the big Brown lead in Philadelphia on the basis of incomplete returns there was a possibility of revisions of figures. Not only was the race so close on the unofficial returns as to lack conclusiveness, there was the possibility that the party warfare would not end with the primary election.

Reports were current that in the event of a Pinchot victory a wet independent ticket would enter the field at the general election in November. Mr. Pinchot campaigned as a dry. Mr. Brown urged a referendum on the matter of repealing the State enforcement law. The wet ticket demanded repeal of the State enforcement act.

While P. S. Stahlnecker, manager of the Pinchot campaign, claimed victory for Pinchot by 30,000, Bernard J. Myers, of Lancaster, manager of the Davis-Brown forces, declared it would take the official count to decide the result of the race for the gubernatorial nomination.

Myers said that reports from upstate chairmen of the Brown-Davis campaign indicated that Brown could win by 20,000. Samuel S. Salus, State senator and member of the Vare "war board," declined to concede Brown's defeat, but admitted that "it looks like Pinchot."

CAPE VERDE ISLANDS PASSED BY ZEPPELIN

ply. There is a mooring mast here erected especially for the Graf.

Entertainments Are Planned.

City and state officials in Pernambuco are planning a series of entertainments for the Graf's passengers during her stay here at the end of the week after she has visited Rio Janeiro.

Some time early tomorrow morning the dirigible is expected to cross the equator and make its first appearance in the southern hemisphere.

The progress of the Graf today was not unsually fast, but was steady and news of her was received from many sources. Early today she was sighted by the steamship Carnarvon Castle southeast of the Canary Islands and several hours later she was reported by the British steamship Accra about 600 miles northeast of the Cape Verde Islands.

The next report came by way of Hamburg that the Graf was nearing Cape Vincent of the Cape Verde Islands and some time later came word from the Cape Verde group that the Graf had passed overhead.

Mail Dropped by Parachute.

Advices from Porto Praia said that the Zeppelin had arrived in perfect weather. She hovered over the postoffice and droped her mail by means of a small parachute from an altitude of about 600 feet. She then swung around and headed for Brazil.

Natal, Brazil, May 21 (A.P.).—The people of Natal, on the northeastern tip of Brazil, who probably will be the first in South America to catch a glimpse of the Graf Zeppelin, tonight were eagerly awaiting the appearance of the great ship.

The Graf is expected here about noon and an airplane escort will go out to sea several miles to greet the great visitor.

Mechanical Housing Device.

When the Graf Zeppelin touches at the naval air station at Lakehurst, N. J., on completion of her flight from Germany to the Americas, she probably will be housed for the first time by mechanical means.

The Navy Department announced yesterday that after months of experimentation and trial operations, a mechanical mooring system for great lighter-than-air ships has been devised.

Reduced to simplest terms, the system consists of a movable "stub" mooring mast of approximately 60 feet in height. The airship is attached to this mast, and mast and ship are then drawn into the hangar instead of a ground crew of 260 men needed to draw the great ship to the ground, or to "walk" it out of the hangar in cross winds, 60 men suffice to hook it to mechanical devices.

Justices Hayden Johnson, Richard Gord and William W. Millan rendered the opinion, reversing the decision of the lower court. The tenant was represented by Stacy M. Reed, Dr. W. Hagen and Peter G. May, seniors at the university.

DAVIS PLANS TO QUIT CABINET JOB IN JUNE

Defeat of Grundy Hailed as Blow at High Tariff in Own Stronghold.

VETO OF BILL SCOUTED

Veto Held Not Likely.

The thought is not seriously entertained, however, that the President will veto the bill. That is a pretty bold stroke for any President to make.

What is more likely is that he will make that statement which he is said to be planning to issue with the signing of the bill considerably stronger. It has been said all along that when he signed the bill he would issue a statement expressing his disapproval of many of its features but explaining that he would remedy the defects through his flexible power. In the light of Mr. Grundy's downfall he might be emboldened to use very strong denunciatory language.

The Democrat bedevillers around here, however, are planning to have a lot of fun. They are keenly disappointed that Mr. Grundy was defeated, because they considered him a very good issue. With him eliminated they plan to rag the President as much as they can. Already they are planning to call him "Mother Grundy" when he signs the "Grundy" bill. Such is politics.

Davis Calls at White House.

Secretary Davis called at the White House, flushed with his success, in the afternoon. Cynical observers, blind to the romance of life and unmoved by the accomplishment of this man who was once an iron puddler, insisted he had called to congratulate the President on his victory. They had in mind, of course, Mr. Davis' earlier statement that for him to resign from the Cabinet would do Mr. Hoover incalculable harm.

He is going to resign now, however, just as soon as he completes his annual reports, he said. That will be about June.

Those cynics said that the Pennsylvania outcome was a two-headed victory for Mr. Hoover, the elimination of Grundy and the removal of Mr. Davis from his Cabinet. That is just the way the wags around here talk.

Post May Be Hard to Fill.

It is really believed that Mr. Hoover will have some difficulty in filling Mr. Davis' place. He will probably have the same warring labor factions on his hands now that he had when he was making up his original cabinet slate and which necessitated his keeping Mr. Davis then. W. N. Doak, of the Railway Trainmen, was the man slated at that time. Maybe now Mr. Davis, with a Senate berth, will compose the conflicting ambitions in the labor ranks to succeed him. He is a good conciliator.

The Progressives are tickled to death at the Pennsylvania outcome and it is not believed that since Mr. Davis won that any serious corruption will be found by the Senate investigating committee. Somehow the corruption just seems to have been something that would be found if Mr. Grundy had won. It is probably because Mr. Davis was the people's candidate but then Mr. Grundy was for uprighteousness, too.

The victory of Gifford Pinchot in the gubernatorial fight adds to the jubiliation in the Progressive ranks. He is looked upon as one of them, which Mr. Davis, of course, is not, but he was against Mr. Grundy.

McBride Makes Statement.

F. Scott McBride, statement maker for the Antisaloon League, said that the outcome "demonstrates conclusively that the wet issue is not a good one for either State or national candidates."

It is difficult to understand what Mr. McBride was talking about. If there was any prohibition difference between Secretary Davis and Senator Grundy it was that Mr. Davis would have been openly wet had he not been afraid he would have had to get out of the Cabinet, and this explanation was whispered around the Senate in his behalf.

Observers were generally agreed, too, that had Mr. Brown come out openly as a wet he would not have had his trouble with the very dry Gifford Pinchot. For one thing this would have kept the wet ticket out of the field.

Wet Showing Impressive.

Observers were generally impressed with the showing this unorganized wet protest movement made. It came from the highly intelligent class, it is generally believed, not from the organized wards-people who voted for Brown and Davis upon orders and who in Philadelphia are wringing wet.

W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, was in town for a hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission. He was gratified over Davis' success and at the time was confident Pinchot would not overtake Brown. That he did will be a decided jolt to Mr. Atterbury.

Under Pinchot there will certainly be a general reorganization of Pennsylvania politics. Whether he will be able to make such a dent in Mr. Atterbury's authority in view of the solidarity shown by the Philadelphia machine is doubtful, but out in Pittsburgh the House of Mellon seemed a wreck, not that it will have such a hard time getting along with Pinchot, but that its political influence would seem to be nil.

What will become of "Old Joe?" He insisted during the campaign that he would carry on with his high tariff fight. He will prove to be a most redoubtable man, however, if his defeat does not dishearten him. He was a little blushing flower that could not stand the sun.

Soviet Delegation Held for Quizzing

Amtorg Representatives, on Study Tour, Taken to Ellis Island.

New York, May 21 (A.P.).—A group of 35 Russians, representing four Soviet commercial groups, were detained by immigration officials when they arrived today on the liner Paris. All were taken to Ellis Island for questioning.

Commissioner of Immigration Day said that all Russians must undergo a thorough examination before they can be admitted to this country because of the lack of diplomatic relations between the United States and the Soviet.

Decision on their cases will be reached tomorrow. The Russians, brought here under the sponsorship of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, purchasing agent of the Soviet in America, are representatives of Russian factory construction, automobile, electrical and transportation organizations. They intend to study American methods and place orders here for the Soviet government.

PROTEST SILENCED IN CANNON CLEARING

Methodists Vote, 197 to 104, to Bar Charges From Records.

SMITH ELECTED BISHOP

Dallas, Tex., May 21 (A.P.).—G. T. Fitzhugh, of Memphis, Tenn., today was denied the right to protest formally against the exoneration of Bishop James Cannon, jr., of Washington, D. C., on stock market speculation charges by the quadrennial general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

Fitzhugh, Josephus Daniels, of North Carolina, and others of the laymen who signed the accusations against Cannon sought to have a written protest spread upon the journal. Overruling Bishop Collins Denny, presiding officer, who held that it was proper for any member to protest any action, the conference voted 197 to 104 to deny Cannon's accusers any record on their accusations.

The Memphis attorney succeeded, however, in getting his protest read before the conference in which he specified many of the alleged transactions of Cannon and explained his reasons for believing the exonerating report returned by the committee on Episcopacy illegal and irregular under church rule.

Bad Precedent Seen.

The protest stated that the church was establishing a "dangerous precedent" and was putting itself in the position of "doing away with trial if a bishop comes forward with a confession of repentance and a promise to sin no more."

"Extending mercy, however commendable and praiseworthy," he said, "is not within the province of the committee."

"Our church has been placed in the position of condemning stock market transactions in the abstract, and condoning them in the concrete."

The charges lodged by the unofficial "committee of 22" against the bishop were made public for the first time tonight by Fitzhugh.

"Plain Gambling" Alleged.

The accusations alleged that for eight months, from August 14, 1927, to April 30, 1928, he was the patron of "an illicit bucket shop carried on under the name of Kable & Co., the real proprietor of which was Harry Goldhurst, whom Bishop Cannon had known intimately for years, and who is now a confessed felon in Atlanta penitentiary."

The allegations listed transactions reputed to have been made during the period, "involving the sale and pretended urchase of stocks, options and calls, aggregating several hundred thousand dollars, and constituted plain gambling on fluctuations in price, there being no actual bona fide receipt for delivery in actual or intended, but in all cases a settlement based upon the differences in market quotations."

A Frank Smith, of Houston, Tex., was elected to the College of Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church South today, bringing the total number of the college to sixteen. His election, with the adoption of a special committee report on unification of church boards, cleared the calendar of the quadrennial general conference of its two most important subjects.

Chicago Broker Suicide, Is Belief

Body of William Simon Is Found on Highway With Gun Nearby.

Kentland, Ind., May 21 (A.P.).—Unless other evidence is adduced the death of William Simon, 50, Chicago grain broker, will be attributed to suicide, Allen Kenoyer, Newton County coroner, said today. Simons at one time was in business with former Gov. Warren T. McCray.

Relatives of the broker, whose body was found beside a highway in front of his home yesterday morning, at first were inclined to the belief that he had been murdered. They have now accepted the theory that he ended his life, the coroner said. The broker had been depressed over failure to recover completely from injuries suffered in an automobile accident several months ago and also had been deeply immersed in business affairs.

Three wounds found in the body could have been self-inflicted, the coroner declared. The revolver with which they were inflicted was found near the body. The coroner plans to withhold his finding until after funeral services to be held tomorrow.

FIRST LIFE IS LOST IN RED RIVER FLOOD

Boy Drowns Trying to Save Cattle; Mile-Long Trains Shelter Families.

CREST NOT YET REACHED

Little Rock, Ark., May 21 (A.P.).—The first fatality was reported today as a result of floods that have raged over a large part of south Arkansas for several days, and tonight were increasing their area of devastation. A 14-year-old Negro boy drowned in the Red River flood area of southwest Arkansas while driving cattle out of the path of crushing waters west of Fulton, in Miller County.

A double strong of box cars, approximately a mile long, bore evidence of the disastrous effects at Calion, 15 miles north of El Dorado, where the raging Ouachita River has submerged a large area which includes virtually the entire town. Each box car houses families made homeless by the flood. A survey by officials of the American Red Cross revealed late today that 96 families were being cared for in the box car refugee camp at Calion and more were being brought in hourly.

The river continued to rise. The crest is expected not before tomorrow night.

Five store buildings and the Rock Island Station, on a high mound in the center of town, are the only structures above water in Calion, and the swirling currents were lapping at the foundations of those tonight. Calion is a town of approximately 900. Some of these remained in their homes despite the threatening water. The Red Cross took active charge of the situation today after conditions became so serious the citizens relief committee was unable to carry on the work.

A food shortage exists among the refugees. Provisions are being supplied from El Dorado.

Conditions generally were improved in the southwest Arkansas section and also in the Smackover Oil Field area, which was inundated Sunday by the overflowing Smackover Creek which drove more than 1,000 persons from their homes. Many of these have returned. Oil companies prepared to survey the damage to their properties, which has been great.

The Red River, between Alexandria and Shreveport, will be swollen by the end of the month to approximately the same height it reached in the flood period of 1927, it was officially predicted late today by R. A. Dyke, forecaster of the weather Bureau at New Orleans.

Warden Demotes Ohio Prison Guard

Former Night Captain Said to Have Been Slow in Freeing Victims.

Columbus, Ohio, May 21 (A.P.).—John Hall, night captain at Ohio Penitentiary, was demoted to guard today by Warden P. E. Thomas as an aftermath of the Easter Monday prison fire in which 320 convicts perished. Since the fire Hall has been confined to his home with a nervous disorder.

Testimony at the State investigation of the fire was that Hall had been slow in ordering night guards to unlock the cells in which the prisoners were trapped.

Warden Thomas said that ten guards have been placed in strategic points about the penitentiary to halt any attempted break, a number of machine guns and tear gas bombs have been cached within the prison for use in an emergency, Thomas said.

Death Claims Last Of Brown Raiders

Francis K. Knight, 95, Laid to Rest in Cemetery Near Boston.

Boston, May 21 (A.P.).—Francis K. Knight, 95, known here as the last of John Brown's raiders, was given a soldier's burial today. Members of the G. A. R. stood about the grave as he was laid to rest in an Everett cemetery.

Knight was born at Coventry, Vt., in 1835. As a young man he was active in antislavery agitation in Kansas and before the Civil War had joined John Brown's band. At the outbreak of the war he enlisted in the First Kansas Regiment. With the return of peace he came to this city and settled in the Charlestown section. Last Mondays he fell down a flight of stairs, suffering injuries which caused his death.

His wife died a week previously.

CONFEREES REJECT DEBENTURE CLAUSE

Further Concessions Made to House by Senate on Tariff Measure.

FINAL AGREEMENT NEAR

(Associated Press.)

Nearing a final agreement, conferees on the tariff bill yesterday agreed to throw out the Senate's export debenture amendment which is opposed by President Hoover and the House.

Making further concessions to the House, Senate conferees agreed to eliminate, the Senate's duty of 30 cents an ounce on silver, and the amendment permitting free entry of cement for State and municipal public works, leaving stand a rate of 6 cents a hundred pounds on all cement.

House managers receded, however, and allowed a rate of $1 per 1,000 board feet to be placed on fir, spruce, pine, hemlock and larch lumber, despite defeat recently on the House floor of a levy of 75 cents on these softwoods. The senate bill carried a rate of $1.50 per 1,000 feet.

The House group would not accept that part of the Senate's lumber amendment applying duty to railroad ties and telephone and telegraph poles of all kinds of wood, and this section was eliminated.

Bipartisan Commission.

The Senate's conferees won out on its tariff commission amendments calling for a bipartisan commission of six as at present, as against the House provision for a nonpartisan fact-finding body of seven, on motion of Senator Watson, Indiana, Republican leader.

Under the Senate's amendment, a new commission would have to be appointed by the President within 90 days after enactment of the law. He could reappoint any commissioner he wanted to retain, however.

Yesterday's work of the conference committee left only a compromise on the flexible clause and some minor administrative provisions standing in the way of a complete agreement and report of the measure to the Senate.

Consultation With Hoover.

President Hoover was consulted on the flexible section during the day by Senator Watson and Chairman Hawley of the House ways and means committee, both conferees on the bill. They went to the White House on a possible compromise which would be acceptable to the executive.

The President was represented by his callers as being ready to surrender some of the power now vested in him to change customs duties after Tariff Commission investigation. In this connection, it was understood that serious consideration was being given a plan to make it mandatory that the President proclaim rate changes upon submission of commission reports to him.

This would take away discretion given the executive in existing law either to put changes into operation or ignore them, as was done by President Coolidge when the commission, by 3 to 2 decision, in 1924 found warranted a reduction in the sugar levy.

Flexible Section Compromise.

Conferees will reach the controverted flexible section today, and hope to reach some kind of compromise between existing law and the House provision. The latter broadens existing Presidential authority by authorizing him to make rate increases or decreases based on differences in competitive conditions. The present law prescribes a basis for equalizing differences in cost of production.

Elimination of the debenture provision had been expected since Monday's vote of the Senate to free its conferees from pledges binding them to the farm bounty proposal. With provision curtailing some of the President's power agreed upon, Republican leaders see little difficulty in the way of final passage.

Senator Smoot (Republican), Utah, chairman of the Senate conference committee, said it was not likely that the report could be made to the Senate before next week.

Bill Flayer by Thomas.

Through the Democratic national committee, Senator Thomas of Oklahoma suggested that in case the tariff bill is passed an appeal should be made to the country asking individuals and groups opposed to the bill to petition the President for a veto. Mr. Thomas interpreted the result of the Pennsylvania Republican senatorial primary as a "condemnation of the Grundy tariff bill by Republicans of Pennsylvania."

Rover Presents Bonner Opinion

United States Attorney Reports on Charges of Concealing Files.

United States Attorney Leo A. Rover yesterday submitted his opinion of charges against F. E. Bonner, executive secretary of the Federal Power Commission, to the Department of Justice. The secretary was accused jointly with Frank W. Griffith, chief clerk of the commission, of destroying or concealing files containing letters from factions which are said to have indorsed Bonner several years ago for the position he now holds.

Complaint was made to the Department of Justice against Bonner and Griffith by Mrs. Minnie L. Ward, of Lyon Park, Va., formerly employed as clerk in the power commission. She was suspended last March 25 for insubordination when she hurled eggs at Griffith, whom she charged had "split" the files so that they were placed in a confused state.

When Bonner also was accused of having to do with the files the Department of Justice conducted an investigation, turning the results over to Mr. Rover to determine the advisability of airing the charges before the grand jury. Although Mr. Rover said he had reached a decision on the matter he refused to reveal his finding, declaring that he had made a "confidential report" to the Attorney General.

$200 Fine Assessed After Liquor Chase

A wild chase through Prince Georges County, Md., and into Washington and then back to the county was revealed yesterday in county police court at Hyattsville when Benjamin Abrams, of Washington, was fined $200 on charges of possession of intoxicants.

According to the testimony of Constable Ralph Brown, he chased the liquor car into Washington, where he picked up Policeman O. K. Stanton of the Twelfth Precinct, and then pursued it back into the county, finally ending the chase in Brentwood when he fired several shots at Abrams' car, puncturing a tire.

PLANS FOR CRUISERS DROPPED LAST YEAR

CUT IN QUOTA EXPLAINED

as a sufficiently important matter to obstruct agreement among the three powers. In other words, if the general board recommended 21 as the desired number, why were not the treaty figures close enough to be satisfactory as a compromise or concession.

It was in response to this suggestion that Admiral Pringle made it clear that the board never recommended 21 as the proper or desirable number for national safety. The board's recommendation in September was not a presentation of what the board thought safe or proper. That recommendation was in response to directions, based on British diplomatic dispatches, after America had agreed to abandon her Geneva naval program and accept the British figure of 339,000 tons to be made up of a minimum of 8-inch-gun cruisers for the United States.

The board was directed to shape its recommendations to fit the proposed 339,000-ton pattern and to give the irreducible minimum of 8-inch-gun ships in order to make agreement with the British possible. It was in response to that and with the knowledge that the cruiser issue between Great Britain and the United States had been settled in principle by abandonment of the American position and had therefore become a closed book that the board recommended an irreducible minimum of 21.

Great Britain Attained Goal.

After this compromise, Great Britain maintained her position at the London Conference for the types of ship she wanted, and she got what she started out for, said Admiral Pringle.

The United States started out for an irreducible minimum and abandoned what she went after, according to the admiral. The admiral paid a compliment to the clever negotiating of the American delegates, which included Senators Robinson and Reed, but did not modify his conclusion and conceded in response to questions that America surrendered, that surrender was on a vitally important point, and adequacy of the national defense was naturally affected.

Senator Johnson declined to accept the contention of Senator Reed that this surrender was a small matter. When Senator Reed declared that the conference would have broken up if America had not yielded, Senator Johnson seized upon this as added proof of the importance of the issue. The powers surely did not regard it a small matter, Mr. Johnson argued, if they were going to break up the conference unless America surrendered to them on the point.

Senators Are Puzzled.

"They would not have made a treaty if we had not yielded," said Senator Johnson.

"That is the fact, I understand," replied Admiral Pringle.

In view of the unanimity of opposition among the naval authorities, with exception of Admiral Pratt and his aid, and in view of testimony of naval experts who accompanied the American delegation to London and the battle they waged against the delegation's program, senators are puzzled over the following statement which Secretary Stimson made to the committee when he first appeared as a witness:

"There were, necessarily, as there always would be, certain differences of opinion on minor questions, but the fact that every one had a full hearing and full discussion resulted in an ultimate unanimity and loyalty on the part of the American body of naval advisers which was most helpful and stood out as one of the features of the conference."

War Features Discussed.

Toward the close of the session yesterday Senator Walsh, of Montana, raised the question of advisability of sending American naval forces to the waters of Japan in case of war. Admiral Bristol had been recalled to the stand to answer certain questions. A large-size map of the Pacific was spread across the table, and Admiral Bristol, with senators assisting him, discussed features of war with Japan. Japanese trade routes to be cut off, American trade routes to be protected, under what circumstances Japan could be starved, how commercial intercourse would be effected, &c.

"How much would it cost to destroy the Japanese fleet?" asked Senator Walsh.

"I don't know, it would be a long campaign," replied Admiral Bristol.

TROPHY FOR PLANE SPEED TEST CHOSEN

Clevelander's Gift Will Be Backed by Endowment and Cash Prizes.

PLAQUES TO BE GIVEN

America's newest trophy for airplane speed was chosen yesterday from among four submitted, the choice being unanimous among a committee of persons high in aeronautics. The designer of the winning model is Walter Sinz, Cleveland, Ohio, sculptor.

The trophy, which was donated by C. E. Thompson, wealthy Cleveland business man, is offered to the winner of a free-for-all race to be held in connection with the national air races each year. It is backed by a $2,500 endowment which also provides for presentation of three plaques, gold, silver and bronze, to the three leaders in each year's race. In addition, there are cash prizes offered, one-half of which will be donated by Mr. Thompson and the other half by other interested persons.

Members of the committee who chose the trophy were Orville Wright, Dr. Henry Turner Bailey, of Cleveland; David S. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics; F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War for Aeronautics, and Clarence M. Young, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics. The choice was made at the Washington Hotel, where all models were on exhibit.

Parent-Teachers Give Cody Honor

District Woman Is Elected Fifth Vice President at Convention.

Denver, Colo., May 21 (A.P.).—Election of officers completed, delegates here in attendance at the annual convention of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers today honored the memory of Col. William F. Cody (Buffalo Bill) with a pilgrimage to his grave atop Lookout Mountain. Mrs. Hugh Bradford, of Sacramento, Calif., was elected president unanimously.

Mrs. E. Elmo Bollinger, Kingsman, Ariz., was reelected secretary, and Mrs. B. I. Elliott, Portland, Oreg., again chosen treasurer.

Mrs. Charl O. Williams, of Washington, D. C., was announced as winner of the fifth vice presidency over Mrs. Giles Scott Rafter, retiring president of the District of Columbia Parent-Teacher Association. Mrs. Williams' name was offered by the nominating committee, while Mrs. Rafter's name was presented from the floor.

Kin of Studebaker Faces Duties Quiz

Alleged Undeclared Items May Bring Penalty of $8,000.

New York, May 21 (A.P.).—Customs inspectors were unable to conclude today inspection of the baggage of Col. C. A. Carlisle, South Bend, Ind., manufacturer, which was detained when he and 16 members of his family and servants returned from a European tour on the liner Paris.

Customs officials alleged that the Carlisles failed to declare more than $3,000 worth of personal effects purchased abroad. A small mountain of trunks, hat cases and bags was piled on the pier to await check by appraisers. They will complete their inspection tomorrow. Officials estimate that duty and penalties on the undeclared property may total $8,000.

Col. Carlisle is a former director of the Studebaker Automobile Co., and his wife, who arrived with him from the trip, was the daughter of the late Clement Studebaker.

DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 4:40 p. m. to noon today.

Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee announced that, as far as he was concerned, the hearings on the London Naval Treaty would be concluded today.

By a vote of 46 to 27, passed and sent to the House the Couzens resolution curbing railroad consolidations.

Senator Robinson (Republican), Indiana, assailed John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, for his connections with the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

In a letter read before the Senate, Chairman Wickersham of the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission revealed the expenditures of $125,203 out of the $250,000 allotment.

C. C. Colby, chairman of the board of directors of the Audio Research Foundation, appeared before the patents committee and charged that the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and its subsidiaries are tyrannizing the motion picture industry through control of patents.

F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Antisaloon League, appeared before the lobby committee and was questioned in regard to the league's attitude toward Representative Fort (Republican), New Jersey, a candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination.

Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, introduced a resolution providing for the removal of dial telephones from the Senate side of the Capitol and for the return of the old-type or manual telephones.

Senate and House conferees signed the conference report on the new Dale-Lehlbach civil service retirement bill.

HOUSE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 5 p. m. to noon today.

Representative Crisp (Democrat), Georgia, introduced a bill to provide for the appointment of an additional district judge for the Northern District of Georgia.

Rear Admiral Reeves appeared before the naval committee and recommended the establishment of three dirigible bases on the West Coast to insure proper protection of this section in time of war.

Judiciary committee approved the Bachmann bill to provide for additional judges in districts having crowded dockets.

Chairman Parker of the interstate commerce committee announced that more than 100 railroad holdings and investment trust companies had refused to reply to the questionnaire issued by the committee in its investigation of railroad consolidation and ownerships.

Judiciary committee approved the Gibson bill authorizing the appointment of two additional judges for the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

District committee approved the Senate bill to raise the pay of Washington's police and firemen, and the Moore bill for a study of the fiscal relationship between the Federal and District governments.

PRESIDENT DEMANDS TREATY ACTION SOON

Watson Indicates Debate at This Session if Pact Comes Up Quickly.

JOHNSON WANTS DELAYS

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover and Senate advocates of the London naval limitations agreement yesterday demanded prompt action on the treaty as Navy leaders continued their bombardment of the pact before two Senate committees.

Moving to quash the talk of deferring a vote on it until next session, the President informed Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, at a White House conference that he hoped for ratification before adjournment.

At the same time, Chairman Borah, of the Senate foreign relations committee, announced that he was proceeding on the assumption that the treaty would be acted upon at this session and that he would be ready to conclude hearings by his committee today after hearing Rear Admiral J. M. Reeves.

Senator Watson, who had been giving consideration to demands for postponing the treaty discussion, informed Mr. Hoover that if the foreign relations committee had the pact before the Senate by the time the tariff bill is acted upon it would be taken up.

Johnson Wants Delay.

Senator Johnson (Republican), of California, who has shown considerable dissatisfaction with the treaty, demanded that the debate go over until fall and indicated he would want to question several more able experts before the foreign relations committee.

"The Senate is worn out from the long grind," said Senator Johnson. "Moreover, most of the Senate knows nothing about the treaty nor does the country. I do not see the need for haste."

Senator Borah issued the following statement:

"Before the hearing began I asked the majority leader, Senator Watson, whether it was proposed to dispose of the treaty at this session. He said that was the program. I have had no notice to the contrary. As chairman I shall proceed upon the assumption that it is to be disposed of at this session."

Watson Fears Stampede.

Senator Watson said that unless the treaty is before the Senate by the time the tariff is out of the way next week, the membership will be very restless and he fears a stampede to get away. With the treaty debate apparently destined to go on at this session, the Indiana senator believes it will be near July before Congress could quit.

Rear Admiral J. R. Pringle and J. B. Chase, who testified Tuesday before the naval and foreign relations committee, respectively, changed committees yesterday. Both admirals reiterated their favor of the 8-inch gun cruisers and expressed strong dissatisfaction with the terms of the treaty restricting the American fleet to eighteen 8-inch cruisers and giving it eighteen 6-inch gun cruisers.

Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, who was one of the American delegates, disclosed in examination of Admiral Pringle that Australia and New Zealand had threatened not to sign the treaty if it gave America 21 8-inch gun cruisers, on the ground that it would lead Japan to build up to a point upsetting naval balance in the Pacific.

First Discussion in Senate.

Meanwhile, the first discussion of the treaty in the Senate broke out yesterday with Senator Walsh (Democrat), of Massachusetts, calling for consideration of "theh difference between parity in sea power" and "parity in combat vessels."

He demanded appropriations for combat vessels allowed by the treaty and asserted, "We have only begun to solve the problems of parity when we approve the pending treaty."

Statistics compiled by the Navy Department and submitted by Walsh intended to show that in order to obtain parity in sea power "we must immediately consider the question of building a merchant marine sufficiently large to be a naval auxiliary in time of war equal to that of the other nations."

TRIO TO SERVE LIFE FOR $4.65 SLAYING

Boys Found Guilty by Jury Take Verdict Stoically; Parents Stunned.

BEAT MAN, 58, TO DEATH

Elizabeth, N. J., May 21 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—George Daniecki, 15; William Garry, 18, and William Gallagher, 20, were found guilty by a jury in the court of oyer and terminer here today, of murder in the first degree for the killing of John Hayden, a 58-year-old man whom they beat to death with a tire iron and robbed of $4.65 on February 17.

The verdict carried a recommendation for mercy which, under the New Jersey law, makes it mandatory upon the court to impose a life sentence. Immediately Judge Alfred A. Stein passed sentence of life imprisonment at hard labor on all three.

In the spectators' seats were Garry's mother, Daniecki's parents and Gallagher's father and his 18-year-old wife, Helen.

The three defendants took the verdict stoically, but Gallagher's father dropped his head into his hands and Mrs. Helen Gallagher wept aloud. The father and mother of Daniecki seemed stunned and walked slowly from the courtroom, saying nothing.

It was reported around the courthouse that until just before agreement the jury stood six for life imprisonment and six for execution. At no time, it was said, was there any question of acquittal in the minds of the jury.

West Virginia to Act On Prison-Made Goods

Charleston, W. Va., May 21.—Capt. Calvert L. Estill, secretary of the Eastern-Southern conference on State institutional labor, has sent out notices for a meeting of its executive committee to be held June 2 at White Sulphur Springs. The group plans to draw up a schedule of the production possibilities of the various State institutions of the region and a schedule of their consumption requirements.

In this way, it is hoped, the emergency that has arisen as a result of Federal legislation affecting the transportation of prison-made products will be met and the effects offset.

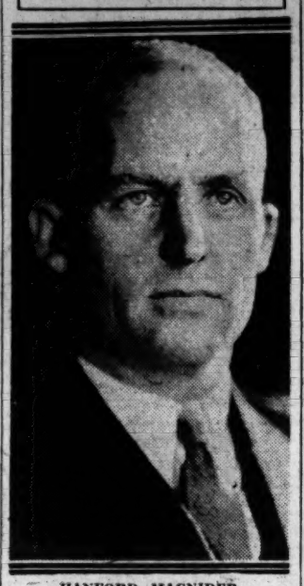
TO CANADA



HANFORD MACNIDER,
who has been selected American Minister to Canada.

HANFORD MACNIDER TO BE CANADA ENVOY

Nomination to Go to Senate for Action at Present Session.

SERVED IN WORLD WAR

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover has selected Hanford MacNider, of Iowa, to be American Minister to Canada, and will send the nomination to the Senate at an early date for confirmation. Both the Ottawa government and the British foreign office have signified their approval of MacNider and it was said yesterday at the White House that the nomination, which has been delayed pending these formal exchanges, would be sent to the Senate for action at this session.

Mr MacNider, informed at his home at Mason City, Iowa, of his selection, said that he had been aware of the negotiations and probably would accept.

Was Assistant Secretary of War.

He is a former Assistant Secretary of War and was national commander of the American Legion in 1921. Before entering the Army in 1916 to serve on the Mexican border, he was engaged in investment banking at Mason City. Beginning his military career as a lieutenant, he was discharged at the end of the World War as a lieutenant colonel.

In announcing the selection, the White House said Mr. MacNider had long been interested in the development of inland waterways and would carry on the Canadian-American negotiations for expansion of the St. Lawrence waterway.

He is expected to take over the post as soon as he is confirmed. It has been vacant since the resignation of William Phillips, of Massachusetts, several months ago.

Smuggling Will Be Problem.

Ottawa, Ontario, May 21 (By the Canadian Press).—Perhaps the most pressing question with which Hanford MacNider, new United States Minister to Canda, will have to deal when he assumes the post will be the treaty with respect to smuggling between the two countries.

The drafts of the proposed pact are being studied in the Canadian Legation in Washington and the United States Legation here. The "I'm Alone" ship seizure case is still in course of preparation and the sockeye salmon treaty also is being arranged between the two countries.

Pleasure at the appointment of Mr. MacNider was expressed today by Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

ADVERTISING GROUP RECOGNIZES WOMEN

Federation Creates Unit to Include Female Club Management.

DIRECTORS ARE ELECTED

for the feminine contingent, was filled by election of Miss Jeannette Carroll, of Providence, R. I. George H. Corey, of Cleveland, was elected vice president to succeed Maj. P. F. O'Keefe, of Boston, and William R. Ewald, of Detroit, was reelected vice president.

Joseph H. Appel, of John Wanamaker, New York, was reelected treasurer, and T. F. Driscoll, of Armour & Co., Chicago, was named secretary to succeed W. Frank McClure, of Albert Frank & Co., Chicago. All of the retiring officers become members of the board of directors.

How are definitely established as factors in the advertising profession was given when, by Constitutional amendment, the Federation created a new committee of advertising women's club management.

Miss Carroll, of Providence, R. I., was elected chairman of the new committee, the office automatically making her one of the three vice presidents of the Advertising Federation of America. Miss Carroll also was named chairman of the Federation of Women's Advertising Clubs of the World, of which Miss Helen Baldauf, president of the Milwaukee Advertising Women's Club, was elected vice chairman.

At a general business session of the Advertising Federation of America, ten directors were elected. Charles C. Younggreen, of Milwaukee, retiring president; Bennett Chapple, of Middletown, Ohio; T. F. Driscoll, of Chicago; John F. Benson, of New York; Joseph H. Appel, of New York, and John C. Martin, of Philadelphia, were elected directors for three years, while Maj. P. F. O'Keefe, of Boston, retiring vice president, and Lee Bristol, of New York, were named for two years, and Don U. Bridge, of Indianapolis, and Robert Johnson, of New York, for one year.

In a brief review of the activities of the organization during the past two years, Walter A. Strong, chairman of the board, declared that two years ago the federation was "dead on its feet," but that "through excellent cooperation of the 125 affiliated groups the federation now is in sound condition. The board this next year will be able to go about its work with greater conviction and greater result."

Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, acted as chairman of the meeting. He pointed out that he was not present as a representative of the Senate, but "as one who for 35 years has been identified with the newspaper and advertising crowd, and who plans to continue that part of his job for 35 years longer."

James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor, discussing the relation of labor to advertising, pointed out that "we talk with the utmost pride about our mass production, but mass production defeats itself without a mass market, and it is that mass market that you have opened and provided." He declared that "advertising is a predominating element in the development of our enormous industrial success."

Mrs. McCormick Speaks.

Another speaker at yesterday's meeting was Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick, of Illinois. She explained the tremendous volume of advertising done annually by the Government, not only in congressional speeches printed and mailed to constituents, but in bulletins in innumerable topics sent out by various departments.

Complimenting advertisers on improvements in advertising quality, Mrs. McCormick said in part, "It is pleasant to reflect that in this day of tremendous advertising activities, both advertisers and publishers have agreed that the truth is good enough. In that connection I believe we all have reason to congratulate ourselves, as citizens, that the public is learning every day to make a clearer distinction between 'straight news' and propaganda that is not quite so straight."

That the Nation's changed economic condition has imposed new problems before the advertising profession was the contention of Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, who declared that "our consumers are a good deal more exacting as to returns for their expenditures than they were even 8 or 9 months ago. And no field of business service is more certain to feel the resulting pressure for increased efficiency in its operation than is this one of advertising."

Other Officers Chosen.

Irving M. Tuteur, vice president of the McSunkin Advertising Co., of Chicago, was elected president of the public utilities advertising group at its session yesterday. Other officers named were R. S. McCarty, of Pittsburgh, vice president; R. E. Haas, of New York, vice president; E. Frank Gardiner, of Chicago, vice president; J. R. Pershall, of Chicago, secretary, and Howard F. Weeks, of New York, treasurer.

The charge that the editorial policy of a newspaper can be purchased by the advertiser was answered by Herman Roe, field director of the National Editorial Association, addressing the public utilities group. He presented in support of the newspapers the results of a survey conducted throughout the country, in which one of the questions asked was: "Do you think that utility advertising is used as a method of influencing editorial opinion?"

A strong plea for increased use of pictures in advertising was made at a session of the retail advertisers' group by E. C. Rogers, director of public relations of McCurdy & Co., Rochester, in a talk in which he said in part: "The more space you give to pictures that tell something and less to copy, the more effective your advertisements will be. We have, indeed, arrived at the age when good artists and good compositors make good advertising copy writers of us all—if we only will let them serve us.

Appeal to Eyes Stressed.

"Truly, we are in the picture age; the appeal to the eye is so much stronger than the appeal to the ear. Reading copy is like listening to something. Looking at pictures is seeing things. The strangest thing about a liberal use of words is the way in which they conceal thought instead of reveal it."

James Rotto, of the Hecht Co., Washington, presided over this retailers' session, at which other speakers were I. A. Hirschmann, of L. Bamberger & Co., Newark, N. J.; David Lampe, of Baltimore; B. W. Newell, of Buffalo, N. Y., and John H. DeWild, of St. Paul, Minn.

Addressing the luncheon session of the federation, Malcolm Muir, president of the McGraw Hill Publishing Co., declared that "there is only one way we can go forward to a more advanced civilization and a higher standard of living. That is increase the producing power of man and keep on increasing it.

Advertising is destined to play an immensely greater part in the future than it has heretofore. By vastly increasing demand for a given product, advertising has always served to accelerate adoption of machinery for increasing production per man.

The convention will adjourn today at the termination of a club management conference at which William B Ewald, of Detroit, will preside and a number of advertising leaders will talk. Round-table discussions of various topics pertinent to club management will be held.

M'BRIDE RAPS IDEA OF HOME BREW AID

Wets Will Get No Help From Antisaloon League, He Tells Committee.

ROBINSON FLAYS RASKOB

Bride replied. 'There is a good thought in it. That is, as we are fighting this through that we should probably stress the sale of liquor rather than some of the other things.

"That was just his thought. There are quite a number of people who feel that way about it."

The questioning started when Senator Caraway asked if the league would support Mr. Fort.

"I understand the State League has so declared," Mr McBride replied.

"And the national league says 'amen' to that?"

"We will say 'amen,'" Mr. McBride responded.

"So then you indorse the manufacture and use of home brew?" demanded Senator Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, the only wet on the committee.

"No," Mr. McBride retorted. "Neither did Mr. Fort in his speech before Congress."

Denied As New Jersey Issue.

"Well, I suppose you will fight that out with Mr Morrow?" Senator Blaine asked. Dwight W. Morrow, American Ambassador to Mexico, also is a candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination from New Jersey.

"No, we won't fight that out," Mr. McBride said.

He added that he had read Mr. Fort's speech twice since testifying concerning it recently before the lobby committee and could not find "one line in it that authorized home brew or recommended it."

"I am sorry," he continued, "if any of the wets get the idea that they were going to get home brew from the Antisaloon League and are now disappointed. And they certainly will be disappointed. We were not for it and never were for it."

Score Card Not Sanctioned.

Mr. McBride also testified that he did not approve a "score card" prepared by the South Dakota League for grading the qualifications of candidates for public office. He was questioned yesterday by Senator Blaine about the card and they quarreled over the senator's method of questioning.

A speech assailing Chairman Raskob, of the Democratic national committee, for his connection with the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment was delivered in the Senate yesterday by Senator Robinson (Republican), Indiana, after the lobby committee had submitted a report on the Muscle Shoals activities of Chairman Huston, of the Republican national committee.

The Huston report was presented by Chairman Caraway without comment almost at the same time that Senator Robinson presented one discussing the lobby committee testimony concerning the Democratic national chairman.

$36,100 Fund Reviewed.

That presented by Senator Caraway reviewed testimony concerning the collection of $36,100 by Mr. Huston from the Union Carbide Co., which was interested in Muscle Shoals legislation, and the deposit of the fund in Mr. Huston's brokerage account where it was used for purchase of stocks. No comment was made on the testimony by the committee, which confined its report entirely to a relation of the testimony.

After the report was read Senator Robinson, the only administration Republican member of the committee, characterized it as "entirely political and intended to achieve only political results on the eve of a political campaign."

Describing the report as a "condemnation of Huston," the Indianan asserted that he had not joined in it because of its "political nature." He said that was the first time the lobby committee had divided on a report.

Wet Intent Laid to Raskob.

Senator Robinson asserted that he was convinced that Raskob "went into the Democratic party and became chairman of the national executive committee for one purpose only, and that was to destroy the eighteenth amendment of the Constitution."

Senator Robinson's report said Mr. Raskob was a director of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, had contributed $77,000, and that the association "has generally had his active aid and assistance in all its plans and undertakings."

"In the evidence before your committee," the report continued, "it developed that few, if any, of the methods of lobbying were neglected by the Association Against the Eighteenth Amendment. In all of these activities, Mr. Raskob had an important part."

Speaking almost two hours, Senator Robinson asserted that Mr Huston had given every cent of the money he collected from the Union Carbide Co. to the Tennessee River Improvement Association, of which he is a former president.

Act Seen as Whole Case.

"And that's the whole case against Claudius Huston as it appeared in the record," he shouted, adding that he wondered what crime Mr. Huston committed unless it was that he "happened to be a prominent Republican."

Explaining that a number of prominent Democrats, including Senator Brock (Democrat), Tennessee, had been active in the work of the Tennessee River Improvement Association, Senator Robinson said:

"Yet in this partisan report there is not one word of mention of any of these Democrats. Of course, the reason is perfectly obvious.

"What has Huston done?" he demanded. "Is it a crime to buy stock? Then millions of Americans are criminals. And how about John J. Raskob, who advised everybody to go into the stock market and buy stocks?"

Campaign Aid Charged.

Senator Robinson said the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment contributed to campaigns for judges, governors, lieutenant governors and senators "provided not only that they should be members of the Democratic party but that they should be against the Constitution."

"If Claudius Huston was lobbying, trying to influence legislation and governmental action," he added, 'it was for the industrial development down in the Tennessee Valley. John J. Raskob was engaged in lobbying against the Constitution of the United States."

He said Raskob had testified before the lobby committee that he did not know what salary Henry H Curran, president of the association, received. He added that it was brought out later that Mr. Raskob and four others had contracts to pay Mr. Curran $5,000 each a year.

Perjury to Committee Hinted.

"So, of course," he asserted, "Mr. Raskob knew what Mr. Curran's salary was, and Mr. Raskob evidently, if we must go by his written contract, perjured himself before the committee."

The Huston report said he received $22,000 from the Union Carbide Co. on March 7, 1929, three days after President Hoover took the oath of office, and $14,100 on June 26, 1929. It said the money was deposited in his New York brokerage account, and added:

"The $22,000 payment went to the credit of an account then running reducing the balance due the brokerage firm, while a new account was started by the deposit of the $14,100 check from which purchases of stock were made on margin, afterwards sold at a profit of approximately $500. The profit Houston retained, asserting that he had frequently advanced funds to the association upon which he neither asked nor received interest from it."

MAN LEAVES COURT UNDER JUDGE'S EYE

the courtroom. Some of those present declared that he left via a window and others were certain that he had nonchalantly strolled down the stairs.

The chase lasted for several miles, in the course of which several shots were fired at Tony. He finally was recaptured in the woods near Cottage City. Returned to the courtroom, the judge evened matters by changing two letters in Faber's sentence, the "or" to "and," so he will have six months in jail to ruminate over his escapade.

Faber was first arrested by Constable Brown on the Baltimore boulevard. He admitted to Judge Sheriff that he was an amateur at the rum running game and that in private life he is a grocery clerk, but that he had turned to what appeared to be more lucrative fields. He entered a plea of guilty.

Man Fails to Appear In Lowell Crash Case

Benjamin Mills, colored, T street near Third street northwest, who is alleged to have been the driver of the car which crashed into one occupied by Joan Lowell, author, and caused injuries to her, failed to appear in Hyattsville branch of Prince Georges County Police Court yesterday and his collateral of $25 was ordered forfeited by Judge J. Chew Sheriff.

Mills is alleged to have driven his car past a guard posted by State Policeman C. W. Cubbage at the scene of an accident near Berwyn on the Baltimore boulevard.

CLUBWOMEN ELECT IN PRINCE GEORGES

Mrs. Rudolph S. Allen Again Named President of Organization.

REPORTS ARE HEARD

Mrs. Rudolph S. Allen, of College Park, was reelected president of the Prince Georges County Federation of Women's Clubs yesterday at the annual meeting of the federation in St. Luke's Episcopal Church parish hall, Bladensburg. Mrs. Allen represents the Progress Club of College Park.

Mrs. George A. Castle, of the Chillum District Study Club, was elected first vice president, and Mrs. T. E. Woodward, of the Women's Community Club of Beltsville, was elected second vice president. Mrs. Charles E. Janes, of the Oxon Hill Women's Community Club, was elected recording secretary, and Mrs. D. J. Orcutt, of the Mount Rainier Civic League, was made corresponding secretary. Mrs. A. B. Gahan, of the Berwyn Women's Community Club, was elected treasurer.

According to the report of Mrs. M. W. Derr, chairman of the credentials committee, there were 92 delegates present and 11 officers of the federation reported.

The federation adopted the Baltimore oriole as its official bird, the colors of orange and black, the black-eyed susan as the official flower and the motto, "Hold Fast-Go Forward" at the meeting.

The invocation was given by the Rev. M. W. Derr, rector of the church, followed by salute to the flag, led by Mrs. W. E. Thorne, chairman of the American citizenship department, and the singing of "America." The address of welcome was made by Mrs. W. E. Shegogue, for the hostess club, the Community Club of Landover, with the response by Mrs. Allen.

Mrs. L. G. Sasscer reported for the program committee; Mrs. T. A. H. Miller, recording secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting, and the following officers presented their reports: Mrs. Allen, Mrs. L. G. Sasscer, first vice president; Mrs. George A. Castle, treasurer; Mrs. W. L. Preston, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Miller, recording secretary.

Mrs. Luther S. Munson presented the report of the nominating committee and addresses were made by Mrs. J. Enos Ray, State director to the general federation; Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, president, and Mrs. Earl W. Chaffee, vice president of the State federation.

Mrs. Violetta Donald reported for the auditing committee and Mrs. C. D. Church for the hospitality committee. Selections were played by the Harmonica Band of Bladensburg School. A solo was rendered by Mrs. Nina Piozet.

Three minute reports on the activities of their organizations were read by the delegates of the 20 component clubs. Committees in charge were: Mrs. L. G. Sasscer, program; Mrs. J. B. Blanford, parliamentarian; Mrs. C. D. Church, hospitality, and Mrs. W. A. Bobb, who had charge of the printing.

Berkeley County Jury Returns 11 Indictments

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., May 21.—Eleven indictments, including seven felonies, were returned by the Berkeley County grand jury here Tuesday, one of the smallest numbers in some years.

Elmer Butts, Harold Riggs and Martin Kearns were indicted for the attempted murder of Charles Smith at his home in Back Creek Valley, near here. They went directly before the grand jury without a preliminary hearing. Smith told officials they plotted to kill him at his home, but he routed them with shotgun after two had entered the room where he was sleeping. Officials declared a desire for revenge for alleged information given by Smith to officers on moonshining activities in Back Creek Valley was the motive. They entered not guilty pleas when arraigned today.

Virginia Editors To Meet in July

Press Association to Tour Peninsula Section of Old Dominion.

Farmville, Va., May 21 (A.P.).—The annual meeting of the Virginia Press Association will be held at the Cavalier Hotel, Virginia Beach, on July 17, 18 and 19, James C. Latimer, secretary, announced here today. Plans are being made for a "know Virginia" tour of the peninsula section, Mr. Latimer said, the proposal being to go to Cape Charles on the night of July 18 and tour that locality the next day in automobiles.

The "know Virginia" tour was inaugurated by the Virginia Press Association in 1919, and each annual meeting is followed by a trip of one or two days through the section in which the meeting is held. Members point out that in this way they are better enabled to write of the various sections of the State.

H. B. Trundle, of the Danville Register and Bee, is president of the association; George O. Greene, of the Clifton Forge Review, is treasurer, and James C. Latimer, associate editor of the Farmville Herald, is secretary. Mr. Latimer urged that members make reservations at Virginia Beach hotels immediately.

Burns Prove Fatal To Boat Engineer

Howard Hudson Succumbs at Chestertown After Explosion.

Special to The Washington Post.

Chestertown, Md., May 21.—Howard Hudson, aged 35, of Dagsboro, Del., who was injured severely when the tugboat Lannan, former police-boat of Baltimore harbor, caught fire here Monday morning when a gasoline stove exploded, died early today in Easton Emergency Hospital from the effects of the burns.

He was the engineer on the tug and is survived by his wife and mother, both of whom live in Dagsboro. Hudson was living temporarily in Upper Darby, Pa., at the time of the accident.

Dan Still, aged 50, and cook on the tug, who was burned on the face and hands, has been discharged as out of danger and is slowly recovering. His home is in Frederica, Del. He was blown through a window of the boat into the Chester River by the explosion.

North Carolina U. Post May Go to Hopkins Man

Baltimore, Md., May 21 (A.P.).—Edwin Greenlaw, professor of English at Johns Hopkins University, is being considered for the presidency of the University of North Carolina, it was said here today by Judge John A. Parker, of Charlotte, N. C.

Judge Parker, who recently was rejected by the Senate for the Supreme Court, came here with a committee of the university trustees, considering Dr. Greenlaw as a successor to Dr. Harry W. Chase, recently elected president of the University of Illinois.

Lovettsville to Hear Senator Frank L. Ball

Special to The Washington Post.

Lovettsville, Va., May 21.—State Senator Frank L. Ball, of Arlington County, will be the principal speaker at the annual decoration exercises of the Lovettsville Union Cemetery, which will be held in the Lutheran Church, near Lovettsville, Friday, May 20, at 10:30 a. m.

Special music and other entertainment will be furnished.

Culpeper Man Injured By Explosion of Lime

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., May 21.—Thomas T. Shadrach, Culpeper nursery man, was painfully and probably seriously injured today by an explosion of slacking lime. He had placed the lime in an open top steel barrel and poured water on it as he had done often before.

As he commenced to stir the mixture it exploded. His wife said that the lime and water were thrown 20 feet in the air and Shadrach was knocked down by the explosion. A large amount of lime was blown into his face and eyes and it is probable that the sight of one eye may be damaged. Shadrach said that he had no idea what caused the explosion, as he had slacked lime in that way and in the same barrel many times.

Winchester Hospital President Reelected

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., May 21.—Dr. Hunter H. McGuire, president of Winchester Memorial Hospital since it was opened 30 years ago, last night was reelected to that position at the annual meeting of the board of directors. Others elected were: C. W. Trenary, vice president; Dr. J. E. Harris, secretary-treasurer, and Shirley Carter, W. Nelson Page, H. B. McCormac, W. E. Cooper and C. W. Trenary, executive committee. Financial reports showed a decrease of 34 cents per day per patient in operating costs during the past year the average cost being $4.27 per day. Total gross business was nearly $117,000, an increase of $11,000. The hospital has about 150 beds.

An Invention

That Banishes Chafing and Discomfort from Women's Hygiene

The Most Talked About Hygienic Aid for Women of the Day —Pure Rayon Cellulose Filled

Soft and Gentle as Fluffed Silk —and Effective 3 Times Longer

A new and totally different sanitary protection

THERE is now an utterly new and totally different hygiene for women.

Not merely another sanitary pad, but an invention of world-wide importance to women.

A sanitary napkin that is new in design. New in material. New and remarkable in the results that it gives.

Women by the thousands are discarding old-type pads and adopting it. For it does two things no other pad made now or ever made can claim.

Ends All Chafing—All Irritation!

Developed in the world-famed laboratories that cradled the Rayon industry, it is filled with pure RAYON Cellulose. Thus it cannot chafe or irritate. Hence, no more discomfort, no more irritation from wearing a sanitary pad! Consider what this means.

Its softness is the gentle softness of Fluffed Silk. Its "feel," a contrast that once you experience, will keep you forever from the irritating old ways. Try it. What you find will amaze you.

Patented under U. S. Patents (U. S. Pat. No. 1702530) it is different from any other pad. No other pad accomplishes its results.

Wear In Safety Hours Longer

Made under an exclusive process, it is 10 or more times more absorbent than any other sanitary pad now known or ever known to women.

Thus it can be worn in complete safety and protection hours longer than any other pad yet developed. Consider, too, what this means.

Specially treated, its deodorizing power is far greater than that of any other pad—and thus ends even slightest danger of offense. Discards, of course, easily as tissue.

STUDEBAKER EIGHT

...costs less than 14 different sixes, but worth more than a six when you trade it in!

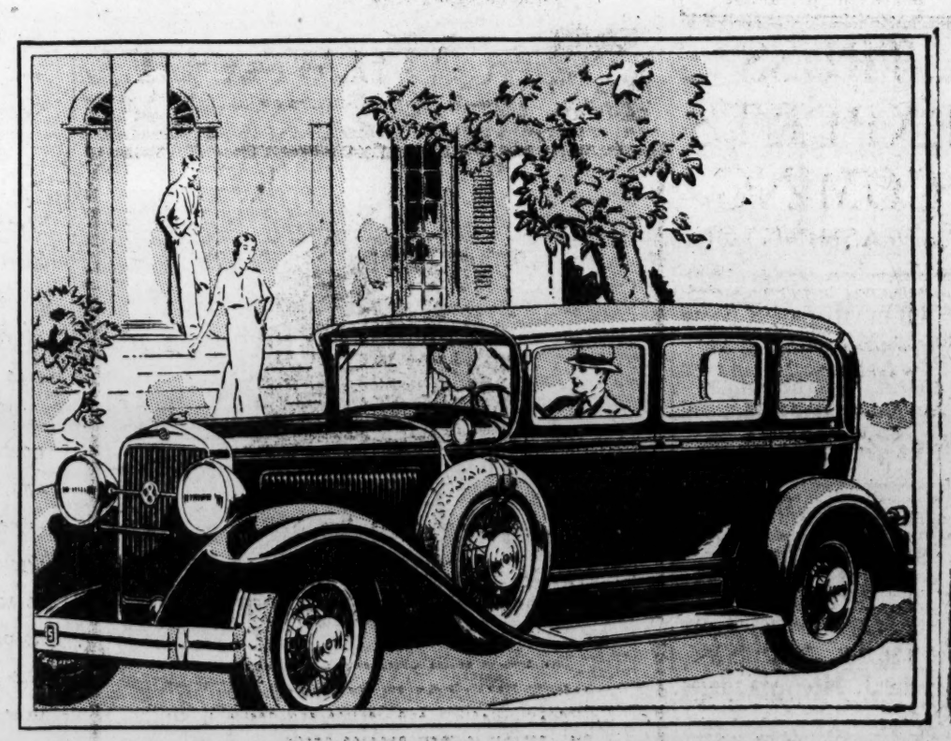
for only $450 DOWN
DELIVERED COMPLETELY EQUIPPED

CERTIFIED by more than 100,000 Studebaker Eights in owners' hands, Studebaker's three great Straight Eights are seasoned and proved. Among them they hold the greatest world and international records, and more American stock car records than all other makes of cars combined. Yet despite their enduring soundness, their champion performance and their graceful style, these brilliant Eights are low in price. It is quite likely that your present car will suffice as down payment. So why wait longer to enjoy the advantages of Straight Eight performance?

Studebaker Eights Cost No More to Buy or to Operate

Dictator Eight Club Sedan	$1195
Dictator Eight 4-Door Sedan	1295
Commander Eight 4-Door Sedan	1515
President Eight 4-Door Sedan	1795

Studebaker also offers champion sixes from $895 to $1575. Prices at the factory.



Operating economy is a Studebaker tradition. In 23 officially supervised tests The Dictator Eight set a national average of 16.9 miles per gallon of gasoline. In tests made recently in an Eastern city, Studebaker's Commander Eight averaged 15.9 miles to the gallon. It costs no more to operate a Studebaker Eight; costs less to buy than 14 different makes of sixes. In addition, the trade-in value of a Studebaker Eight will be worth more than a Six.

INJUNCTION ASKED IN CONFECTION SALE

Montgomery County Man Says That His Lease Is Being Violated.

FIREMEN HOLD FETE

Suit to enjoin the sale of ice cream, candies and tobaccos by John Hiser, proprietor of a bowling alley in the Bethesda Theater building, was filed in circuit court at Rockville yesterday by Charles W. Carl, proprietor of a soda fountain and confectionery store in the same building.

The suit was filed by Attorney John E. Oxley, of Rockville. The Bethesda Amusement Co., the Security Land Co. and Walter Tuckerman are named in the suit for injunction.

Mr. Carl alleges that he was granted exclusive right to sell the above-mentioned goods in the building and that Mr. Hiser has since stocked his bowling alley with such supplies and is making sales of the same. He includes a copy of his lease as an exhibit in the case. A rule to show cause why an injunction should not be issued was signed by Judge Robert B. Peter, returnable May 29, 1930.

The Rockville Volunteer Fire Department last night held its annual dinner and the dinner will be repeated tonight in the fire hall at Rockville.

Erection of a modest monument in memory of the dead veterans of all wars from Silver Spring is being planned by the Cissell-Saxon Post, American Legion, of Silver Spring, according to H. S. Giusta, adjutant of the post. The monument is to be unveiled Memorial Day with fitting ceremonies.

A parade is planned for the day with the Service Company, First Maryland Infantry, commanded by Capt. Joseph C. Cissell; school children and the various county legion posts participating. Definite plans have not been completed. A meeting will be held tomorrow night, at which plans for the observance of Memorial Day will be completed.

The monument is being erected on the triangle in front of the National Guard Armory at Silver Spring. The Silver Spring Knights of Columbus, Chamber of Commerce, Masonic Lodge, Lions Club and other civic organizations will be asked to participate. County police to assist in handling the crowds has been asked by the post of the county authorities.

Conference Co[illegible]ed By Reformed Church

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., May 21.—The annual sessions of the Maryland Classis of the Reformed Church, embracing 50 churches in Western Maryland, in session near Rocky Ridge for three days, adjourned today. Baust's Church, near Westminster, was selected for the next meeting in October, while the Rev. Harry Shue, York, Pa., was elected a member of the classis and will become pastor of the Sabillasville Church. H. C. Gardner, a theological seminary graduate, was licensed to preach.

The classis voted to give women the same rights in all offices of the church as men. These include minister, elder, deacon, members of the consistory, church council, synods and classis.

Father and Sons' Burial Arranged

Three Drowned in Canada When Boat They Were Riding Capsized.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., May 21.—The bodies of Urbain Brochu and his sons, Jean and Julian, all of whom were drowned when a boat in which they were riding capsized on the St. Lawrence River Sunday, arrived here late today from Montreal, Canada.

The victims of the triple tragedy lived in Montreal, where Mr. Brochu was associated with the stock exchange. He was 32 years old, and the two children were 9 and 7, respectively.

He married Miss May Butler, daughter of Mr and Mrs. P. J. Butler, of Esmont, this county, who, with one son, Joseph, survives. Mr. Brochu also leaves his father, two brothers and one sister, all of Canada. The triple funeral will be held at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the Episcopal Church, Esmont, and interment will be in the church cemetery.

Cumberland Man Dies When Struck by Train

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., May 21.—John Lewis Brenneman, 58, Mountain Lake Park, who was in the employ of the Maryland State Roads Commission, died early last night at Memorial Hospital, 40 minutes after being admitted, from injuries received when struck by a Baltimore & Ohio engine while walking along the tracks near his home.

He sustained a fractured skull and injuries about the chest. He is survived by his wife and four children, Aubrey Brenneman, Hoyes, Md., and Mrs. Harry Beckman Malleta and Rosella Brenneman, all of Cumberland. The funeral will be held Friday with burial at Oakland.

Truck Driver Badly Hurt As Car Runs Into Train

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., May 21.—Passengers in a Baltimore & Ohio Railroad train all escaped injury when a runaway delivery truck coasted down a quarter-mile grade and crashed into its side today at Buckhannon. W. L. Adams, 28, of Glenville, driver of the truck, was perhaps fatally injured. He is in Buckhannon Hospital.

Adams was hauling a load of groceries from a Clarksburg wholesale house to Adrain. Bad brakes are blamed for the accident.

Grand Lodge of Masons Will Lay Corner Stone

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., May 21.—The Grand Lodge of Masons of Virginia will be convened in special communication here Friday afternoon to lay the corner stone of the new hall of the South End Hose Company, now in course of erection.

The Rev. Dr. F. T. McFaden, pastor of Loudoun Street Presbyterian Church and grand master of Masons in Virginia, will preside. The principal address will be by the Rev. S. J. Goode, of the Church of the Disciples of Christ.

Virginia Dry Agent Silent on Charges

Prisoner Claims He Had Been Paying Inspector $25 Bribe Monthly.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., May 21.—State Prohibition Inspector Philip Starling today declined to comment on charges brought against him this morning at Chatham by J. E. Barker, charged with assaulting the officer. "What I have to say will be heard when the case is tried tomorrow," Mr. Starling said.

Barker was indicted Monday at Chatham on complaint of Starling to the effect that Barker had sent for him in jail and that when he reached the cell Barker had gashed his head with a poker. Barker today retained attorneys to defend him and later told newspapermen that for two years he had been paying Starling $25 per month for immunity from arrest in bootlegging operations.

Recently, he said, he had stopped his payments. Barker's version is that he did not send for Starling, but that he appeared in jail Monday and drew a revolver on him, failing, however, to explain his mission.

New Officers Elected By Virginia Classis

Special to The Washington Post.

Shepherdstown, W. Va., May 21.—The Rev. J. Wade Huffman, of Roanoke, Va., was elected president of Virginia Classis, Potomac Synod, Reformed Church at the business session on the second day of the three-day annual session in Christ Church here today.

H. L. Lyne, an elder, of Shepherdstown, was named vice president; the Rev. Olin B. Michael, Edinburg, Va., was named corresponding secretary, and the Rev. H. R. Lequear, Middlebrook, Va., reading clerk. The 1931 meeting place will be set later. Parochial reports were heard at the business sessions today.

VICE PRESIDENT'S SON QUESTIONED ON FEES

contracts in a number of Middle Western cities for postoffice and other Federal building projects. Roche quoted one as saying he thought he was to get some of the "Government printing."

Detectives seeking George Williamson, an associate of Mike Malloy, found his office deserted today and the files in it rifled of private papers. A search was started for him by the prosecutor's office.

E. C. Travis, one of the contractors who protested to authorities, told them, they said, that he had given Curtis a check for $500, and exhibited the check, canceled and bearing the signature of the attorney. Travis was quoted as saying it had been his understanding that he would receive a Government contract in Wisconsin, Illinois or Indiana within 30 days or he was to get his money back.

Travis said, according to the officials, he had been told that if he could qualify as eligible to do work for the Government he would receive a contract on a cost-plus basis.

"They said," Roche said Travis told him, "that it would be cost-plus 22 per cent."

The News today quoted Travis as saying the 22 per cent would be split, "10 per cent to the contractor, 2 per cent to Curtis and the remaining 10 per cent to 'Curtis' connections in Washington.'"

Roche said one contractor looked up the Federal statutes after paying a sum of money and found that Government bids are supposed to be let, save in war times or other emergencies, under a strict competitive bidding system.

Mothers, it's for you
. . . this new, delicious cereal with a
"VEGETABLE EFFECT"
. . . to help you regulate your children's health in a manner so attractive that they give you complete cooperation in a most delightful way.

HEINZ of "57" fame now offers oven-toasted, crunchy, crisp, delicious rice flakes with bulk and roughage qualities similar to those of vegetables . . . a food that practically every child is fond of—plus effects that you, perhaps, have had to struggle for till now. Think what this means to you! Now meals can be "happier"; and mothers and children can be better pals.

HIDDEN IN ATTRACTION

No, this isn't a bran-food. All the benefits are hidden in the daintiest of texture and most delicious flavor you have ever known in flaked foods.

By a special process owned and used by HEINZ exclusively, a fine food-substance known as vegetable-cellulose—a part of rice itself—is retained in the flakes.

This food-substance increases in bulk, or volume, four to six times when moisture is absorbed after eating.

Thus it forms one of the mildest, gentlest, yet most effective types of bulk and roughage that Science knows—the same type, in fact, as that contained in vegetables themselves—not harsh or irritant in any way. In the form used by HEINZ its preparation costs much more than the rice grain itself, yet you pay no more. No other cereal of any kind provides this feature. HEINZ Rice Flakes alone supply it.

REAL IMPROVEMENT

Let your children try these alluring rice flakes. Serve twice daily for one week—in the morning or for dessert at lunch or dinner—to start the benefits; once daily thereafter to maintain them.

See how children like HEINZ Rice Flakes—then how they begin to brighten and improve. If they prefer others, or if you don't notice real improvement in health-habits in one week, your grocer will gladly refund the purchase price.

Remember that this important "vegetable effect" comes only in HEINZ Rice Flakes, so when you order be sure to insist on HEINZ.

All the usual energizing food value of rice is included, so this new value in HEINZ Rice Flakes is pure gain to you.

Just as good for grown-ups as for children, so let your men folks also have HEINZ Rice Flakes.

E. R. HARDING, M. A., in a recent article says:
"That cellulose is both a natural and valuable food constituent is evident.
That it is practically essential is not too extravagant a claim.
It is found widely distributed in nearly all natural vegetable foods.
It is particularly high in such vegetables as celery, lettuce, cabbage, spinach and asparagus.
Fruits like oranges, grapefruit and others of this type contain considerable amounts of it."

DAVIS DEFEATS GRUNDY.

The victory of James J. Davis over Joseph R. Grundy for the senatorial nomination in Pennsylvania will be construed by the superficial as an expression of popular opposition to the high tariff views of Senator Grundy, but this is not the case. Secretary Davis is as much a protectionist as Senator Grundy. Mr. Davis laid more emphasis upon protection as a means of conserving employment and maintaining high wages, but he also supported the principle of protection as a means of developing new industries and preventing destructive competition against industries already established.

The explanation of Mr. Davis' victory is found in his wider acquaintance and his record as a labor leader. Throughout the beehive known as Pennsylvania "Jim" Davis is recognized as a splendid example of a self-made man. He began work in childhood, and passed through all the grades of hardship as he made his way to the foremost ranks of citizenship. His career is an inspiration to every youth. With his faculty for making friends, intensified by boundless activity, "Jim" Davis is personally known to a large proportion of the people of Pennsylvania. As his nomination is practically equivalent to election, the country may count itself fortunate in welcoming to the Senate a man who can present the claims of labor as a statesman should present them.

Senator Grundy's defeat takes the wind out of the sails of Democrats who have been trying to discredit the tariff bill by describing it as a "Grundy tariff." The fact is that Senator Grundy is opposed to the tariff bill on the ground that it fails to grant sufficient protection to certain industries. In this he differs from his Republican colleagues in the Senate, most of whom are as consistent protectionists as he is. The tariff bill is not his handiwork, either in detail or as it has been modified in both houses and in conference. The Republicans of Pennsylvania evidently believe that the cause of the protective tariff, as affecting both industry and labor, can best be maintained by James J. Davis.

TIMBER CONSERVATION BOARD.

President Hoover is reported to be contemplating creation of a national timber conservation board. As Secretary of Commerce he was chairman of the national committee on wood utilization, whose purpose was to bring about more efficient use of forest products and to promote commercial forestry. The President is fully aware of the dangers involved in the present reckless exploitation of timber resources, and sees the need for immediate remedial action.

The advisability of conserving the American timber supply is well understood. But no satisfactory plan to stop overproduction of timber and to provide for reforestation of denuded areas has been evolved. Private owners are generally not in a position to conserve their timber supply because of heavy taxes and lack of adequate financing. Hence, a great portion of the available timber is put on the market every year, depressing prices and giving rise to uneconomical use and bad lumbering practice. The situation is complicated by the growing use of concrete and brick for construction work, which diminishes the market for timber.

One other factor is of considerable importance. The Department of Agriculture is advocating that marginal lands now producing crops be planted to timber. Efforts are being made to establish the timber-growing industry on a commercial scale. This would not only relieve agriculture of many uneconomical producers, but it would tend to stop soil erosion and flooding. When the market is glutted with virgin timber, however, there is little incentive for planting of commercial forests. So the premature cutting and other wasteful methods continue in effect.

The Government has a direct interest in an investigation of the timber problem, since it is the largest single owner of forest land in the country. But the indirect interest of the Government in preservation of a timber supply, in the protection of watersheds and flood control, is probably more significant. These are national problems which none but the Government is competent to handle. The public would heartily approve the appointment of a timber conservation board, and the lumbering industry would be happy to cooperate with it.

MOORE BILL SHOULD PASS.

The Moore bill providing for a special joint commission to study the matter of fiscal relationship between the District and the Federal Government and to determine what would constitute a fair and equitable Federal contribution to the District budget has been reported favorably to the House. In view of the financial crisis the District unquestionably faces it is to be hoped that the bill will be pushed through both houses before adjournment.

Representative Simmons, professional opposer of all projects advanced in the interest of the District, says that the purpose of the Moore bill is to take the matter of fiscal relationship out of the regularly constituted committees of the House and Senate and put it in the hands of a special commission whose design it would be to force Congress to increase the lump sum. The $9,000,000 contribution itself is too large, says Mr. Simmons. He thinks that the Federal contribution should be reduced to about $7,000,000.

Mr. Simmons is entitled to hold that opinion. But Congress would not reduce the lump sum by $2,000,000 on the guess of one man. If evidence can be presented to prove that the District is drawing too much from the Federal Treasury, Congress should reduce the contribution. A commission such as would be created under the Moore bill is the only agency capable of eliciting evidence of this nature. Those who believe that the Federal contribution is inordinately large should support the Moore bill as firmly as those who believe it is too small.

The amount of the Federal tax bill if the District were permitted to assess and levy taxes against Government property does not, of course, measure the Government's responsibility to the District. Washington, as the Capital of the Nation, is expected to maintain a park system considerably more extensive than that of an ordinary city of comparable size, and taxes could not be levied against park property. Because of the number of Federal buildings situated in the District, the local police and fire forces must be larger than those of other cities. It is not possible to make a comparison between the local tax rate and that of other cities, nor does the amount of the mythical Federal tax bill measure the Government's financial responsibility to the District. What, then, would constitute a fair and equitable Federal contribution? It is because this question has never been answered, and because the District faces a fiscal emergency of the first magnitude that the Moore bill demands early action.

INVESTIGATE ERGOT.

The criticism of the administration of the Federal food and drug act in connection with the importation of ergot was not stopped with the ruling of the District Court of Appeals, upholding the authority of the Secretaries of the Treasury and Agriculture to determine whether or not ergot offered for importation is adulterated or misbranded. A current magazine carries an article from the pen of Senator Wheeler charging that adulterated and misbranded ergot is appearing in the American market and a week or so ago a committee of surgeons appointed by the American Association of Obstetricians, Gynecologists and Abdominal Surgeons rendered a report strongly critical of the administration of the food and drug act in connection with ergot. For many months the food and drug administration of the Department of Agriculture has been under the fire of a small group which charges that the law is being evaded in the importation of ergot, ether and digitalis. The charges should be thoroughly sifted.

In a letter to Senator McNary, chairman of the committee on agriculture and forestry, W. G. Campbell, director of regulatory work and chief of the food and drug administration, says: "There never has been a time when popular support of our work in the enforcement of the food and drugs act was more requisite than it is now. If the responsible administrative officials are lax or incompetent they should at least be removed. If they are discharging their duty in a conscientious, efficient manner they should be vindicated. I know of no way through which a development of the facts in this matter can be made more effective than by a hearing before your committee. May I respectfully request that such action be taken?"

In justice to the food and drug administration, to protect the public if it is being endangered with impure or adulterated drugs and to quiet the uneasiness resulting from the controversy if there is no basis for the charges, such an investigation should be undertaken.

EVOLUTION OF DIRIGIBLES.

The World War intensified interest in the development of aircraft. Inasmuch as the airplane can be constructed more speedily and at lesser cost than the dirigible, it was natural that the nations of Europe, with the exception of Germany, where lighter than air craft had been under development for many years, should have concentrated their attention in the emergency upon planes. Of recent years, however, interest in airships has revived, as is evident in the fact that today the Graf Zeppelin is sailing majestically onward toward South America, the British R-100 is being made ready for a flight to Canada, two huge dirigibles are under construction for the United States Navy at Akron, and a bill has been introduced in Congress providing for the construction of a giant all-metal dirigible for the United States Army.

The Graf Zeppelin and the R-100 are experimental ships. Neither is large enough for the most effective commercial or military service. The new ships now building for the Navy are considerably larger than either the Graf or the R-100, but they, too, are looked upon as experimental models. The Graf, the R-100 and the new Navy ships follow conventional Zeppelin design. The all-metal ship represents a radical departure. It follows in design the metal-clad blimp that was delivered to the Navy some months ago. In the all-metal ship the shell or hull plating carries the tensile and shear stresses, thereby reducing the internal framing that would be necessary in a conventional dirigible of similar size. Consequently all-metal construction, while it increases the safety factor, does not add any considerable weight in excess of fabric construction.

A well-rounded program of experimentation with dirigibles demands that attention be paid to all-metal craft. The Los Angeles and the Graf Zeppelin are proving that these ships have definite fields of usefulness. Congress should approve the bill for the construction of an experimental all-metal dirigible.

PEDESTRIAN SAFETY.

New York is engaged in a campaign to teach its pedestrians the rules of traffic safety. Jaywalkers are warned of the risk they run in departing from the walks set aside for foot traffic, and the most flagrant violators are being arrested. If the experiment is successful pedestrians may be subjected to regulations as strict as those now imposed upon motorists.

Other cities, including Washington, have experimented with the regulation of foot traffic, but without much success. The habit of taking the shortest distance to one's destination can not be overcome in a day. A long period of training is necessary, and even then a person who is in a hurry will hardly stop to use a crosswalk. Yet the only hope of safety to pedestrians lies in the observance of equitable traffic rules.

Control of foot traffic is an attempt to reduce accidents where they are most numerous. More than 55 per cent of all traffic fatalities are caused by automobiles striking pedestrians. More than 50 per cent of this class as well as other classes of motor accidents occur at street intersections. Far more fatalities result from pedestrians crossing streets at intersections than from crossing between intersections. Of course, this does not mean that crossing on the regular walks is more dangerous, but it does indicate that the crosswalks are unsafe.

The public will never be very enthusiastic about pedestrian control until the crosswalks are made safe. Modern traffic codes give pedestrians the theoretical right-of-way at regular intersections, but they nevertheless risk their lives while crossing, even with the proper signal. Motorists turning to the right have little regard for the pedestrian's right-of-way, and traffic officers are not disposed to call them to account for violations of this kind. If safety could be guaranteed to the pedestrians who use the regular crosswalks a far greater degree of public cooperation in the antijaywalking campaigns might be expected.

STRANGE REASONING

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The line of reasoning of our delegation at the London naval conference is shown by the statements of senators supporting the naval treaty which was signed at that conference. These statements were made by senators occupying influential positions, in the hearings now being conducted. One of them is both a senator and a member of the group which composed our London delegation. He is also a member of the powerful foreign relations committee of the Senate. The other is a member of the Senate committee on naval affairs.

When it was pointed out that we could not hold our outlying possessions with the "treaty navy," one of these senators met that objection to the proposed treaty by the statement: "If you mean our possessions in the Pacific, I would be glad to see us get rid of all of them."

In answer to the expert testimony which was given before the committee on foreign affairs to the effect that Japan would be sure to defeat us in the Pacific if each power has the navy allowed it by the treaty, a member of the committee said, "If Japan could not invade us, we would be safe, wouldn't we?"

This is the sort of foreign policy that seems to actuate those in authority at the present time!

However great a nation may be, it can very easily and very quickly be ruined by a blundering government. What it has taken a century and a half to build up can be destroyed in a few hours. It is well for our people to be on guard and pay attention to what is going on.

The prosperity and even the living of our people is based upon industry which depends very largely upon overseas trade. The great wealth of California has been largely built up by ship lines, sugar and export markets in our Pacific possessions. The great State of Pennsylvania has more interest in the safety and prosperity of foreign commerce than many sovereign nations.

The suggestion of senators that these vital factors of our present greatness may be given up throws a great deal of light upon the processes by which the naval treaty has been "put over" to its present stage of consideration.

If we are to surrender our island interests, our Asiatic influence, and even our foreign trade to foreign control and be content with "safety against invasion," we could, of course, get along with the "treaty navy"—in fact, if that is to be our foreign policy, we might as well do away with the Navy altogether.

My woods are a wonderful registered set,
But no better I find are the drives that I get.
My irons, in fact, are the best that are made,
Every one, I am told, is a hand-fashioned blade.
I have bought everything books and pros can suggest,
But still in the bunkers my ball comes to rest.

With all that is needful my bag is equipped.
With the finest of leather my shafts are all gripped,
And whenever some new fangled putter I see
I buy in the hope it will sink putts for me.
But with every contrivance of steel and of wood
The fact still remains that my golf isn't good.

There are caddies who shoot in the seventies, they say,
With the clubs I've abandoned and given away.
There is nothing that's made for the game that I lack,
I have all that a golfer requires but the knack.
And I sigh as I tackle each new-fangled thing,
What I need is a pro who can sell me a swing.

When the Right Idea Penetrated Enough Heads, Horse Thieves Became History.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE greatest enemy of progress is not opposition, but inertia.

The people are much like an avalanche on a mountain side. Once on their way they sweep everything before them, usually without much discrimination, but they are hard to start.

There are only two ways to enlist a community or a crowd in your cause.

One is an appeal to reason and the other is an appeal to emotion.

If you appeal to reason, you must attract each individual's attention, arouse his interest, convince his intelligence.

It is a slow and tedious process, requiring patience; but it is the only way to popularize a sound idea, and when the work is done it is permanent.

Appeal to emotion gets quicker results, but emotional enthusiasm is an abnormal state, followed by a reaction that leaves the situation as it was except for the harm that always accompanies frenzy.

It is appeal to emotion that generates the fury of a mob, wins the blind loyalty of class conscious voters, or arouses the religious ecstasy of a primitive camp meeting.

Appeals of this kind usually are made to unintelligent people by charlatans who have axes to grind.

It is the lack of intelligence that makes them successful.

And, quite obviously, it is the lack of intelligence that makes appeals to reason unsuccessful.

Thus we come logically to the conclusion that lack of intelligence is responsible in large measure for the inertia that makes men content in sodden indifference when common sense, prudence and decency urge quick and drastic action.

You can't persuade men to move if you can't make them see the need of it.

When 300 helpless prisoners were burned, the horror of it aroused the emotions of the dullest and there was universal demand for better and safer prisons.

Yet automobiles kill almost thirty thousand victims each year and there is no organized popular protest because the toll is taken in a less spectacular way that arouses no emotion.

Reason alone can stop the slaughter.

Only reason can put an end to all of the excesses, follies and organized pillagings that now harass and shame America.

Reform must depend on whether there is sufficient reason in the community to overcome the inertia of the mass.

You can't push a stalled car from a railway crossing until you assemble enough people who have sense enough to know the job needs doing.

THOUGHTS ON THE OLD-FASHIONED HOME.

I.

I remember, I remember, if I take the time to think,
When a bathroom wasn't purple, orange, blue or red or pink;
When it wasn't in vermillion, black and white or even green—
And a bathroom wasn't something copied from a magazine:
When it wasn't gay or gorgeous and was easy on the eyes
And to bathe was in no manner an artistic enterprise;
When a bathtub was a bathtub, neither wonderful nor great,
And the gadgets were so simple that a child could operate;
When a washbowl was a washbowl and most any one would know
That 'twas not a rustic fountain nor a new type radio;
When one mirror was sufficient and there weren't mats galore—
When a bathroom was a bathroom, simply that and nothing more.

II.

I remember, I remember, when a kitchen was a room
That you knew was just a kitchen, not a flower shop in bloom;
When it smelled a lot of cooking and of cooking very good,
And a lot of kitchen furniture was very largely wood;
When the kitchen had no panels and it had no "arty" look,
And you'd know, without inquiring, it was just a place to cook;
I remember, I remember, when it had a kitchen range
That endured for a lifetime without chance of any change,
When it was of simple color lacking any touch of art
When you picked it without guidance from a painter's color chart;
When nobody called it "pretty" and nobody said "How sweet!"
And a stove's primary purpose was preparing food to eat.

III.

I remember, I remember, when an icebox was a chest
So enormous that two icemen could march into it abreast;
When it was a wooden fixture with a somewhat oakish stain
And a flood was sure to happen if you didn't watch the drain;
When the iceman came each morning and we heard for half a block
The rumble of his wagon and his hatchet's chock-chock-chock;
When he'd shuffle to the kitchen with a huge and dripping cake,
And, departing, leave behind him rivulet and muddy lake;
I remember when an ice pick hung beside the dripping box
And the ice for making high balls didn't come in little blocks.

L'Envoi.

I remember all these fixtures; they're imprinted on on my brain—
Ah, the dear old-fashioned dead days —may they never come again!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Many Names Available for B Street, But Franklin's Leads All the Rest.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Opposing the bill to change the name of B street northwest to L'Enfant avenue, the District Commissioners remark:

"It would be more fitting that B street should be given a name directly associated with some great person in our national history, such as Washington or Lincoln, and that a more suitable memorial to Maj. L'Enfant might be found in some square or court directly related to the city plan."

The selection of historic names to be honored here should hereafter be made by the Fine Arts Commission, the Park and Planning Commission or some other competent body.

I think it would be well to limit Federal City memorials to individuals conspicuous in the maturing period of our national growth. How they have been neglected will be seen as we call to mind a few:

Among the ardent and fiery spirits who blazed the way, except for whom there would have been no American Revolution, were Jefferson, Henry, Otis, Hancock, Samuel Adams.

Framers of the Constitution (constitutional engineers they might now be called), Hamilton, Madison, Jay.

Proponents of a sane and forceful nationalism, Marshall, Monroe.

Representatives of American genius and culture in the bud, Whittier, Longfellow, Holmes, Lowell, Emerson, Irving, Hawthorne.

English friends of the Colonies, Burke, Chatham.

French friends of America, Lafayette, Rochambeau.

There is Franklin, publicist, clear-sighted counselor, revolutionary sage, whose name leads all the rest.

In keeping with the foregoing suggestion a suitable memorial of L'Enfant should, of course, be erected.

FEDERALIST.

Freedom of the Seas Ignored in Naval Treaty—United States Was Overreached in Parity, Tonnage and Gun Power.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: That the American delegates to the London conference, in the effort to make a good appearance, made a bad bargain with England and Japan is apparent. At least, so it seems to a mere layman—a peace-loving layman—in the light of expert testimony by our highest naval authorities.

But the fact that we have to some extent been bilked in the matter of parity, in tonnage and gun power is not so very important, after all. In case of war the United States would find little to worry about in that.

What provokes me is that in the chaffering which gave form to the makeshift three-power pact the American ideal of freedom of the seas, by which our delegates were supposed to be inspired, was lost sight of.

This in itself is sufficient to convince any one except an utterly visionary pacifist that for the United States to take part, in such a conference as the recent one at London is futile, if not dangerous, in the present stage of European civilization.

So long as the great powers—the warlike powers—are silent in regard to freedom of the seas the sincerity with which they preach good will to men may well be doubted. The question of freedom of the seas furnishes a sure test of their readiness for world peace.

There is no brighter page in our history than that which records the constant contention of the United States for freedom of the seas. The United States needs a great Navy to fight, when necessary, for freedom of the seas. The United States can not consistently join other nations in a naval pact in which, as an evidence of good faith, there is no provision for freedom of the seas.

Small, Mysterious Creatures Alleged to Be Guilty of Making Chalk Marks of Direful Portent.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I wish the clean-up suggestion of Oliver Cooley that children be trained not to make "unsightly chalk-marks on fences and the walls of houses" could be impressed on the mind of every parent. I have seen property in my neighborhood so defaced by such marks as to require a fresh coat of paint.

Much of this marking is in the form of childish inscriptions, and some are funny. One I happened to notice this morning near the corner of Lamont and Mount Pleasant streets is evidently inspired by a small-boy feud. "Jack Johnson: Snake." Written conspicuously on the clean wall of a house this is bad enough, but worse than that, many of these chalkings are shocking. It seems to me that the police should make an effort to catch some of these young chalk vandals in the act and report them to their parents.

RAIL UNION DELAY APPROVED IN SENATE

Resolution Would Prevent Unification of Two Northern Lines.

HAWES FIGHTS MEASURE

(Associated Press.)

The Senate yesterday adopted by a vote of 46 to 27 the Courens resolution to restrict railroad consolidations until next March 4 and to make illegal the exercise of joint control through holding companies or otherwise without the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The vote followed lengthy debate in which Senator Couzens (Republican), Michigan, author of the measure, assailed the operations of holding companies and demanded a curb for unifications in general "until Congress can legislate further."

Opposition to the resolution was voiced by Senator Hawes (Democrat), Missouri, and Senator Fess (Republican), Ohio, who asserted it would suspend execution of a consolidation plan Congress has commanded the Interstate Commerce Commission to make, and was an "affront" to the House, which is now investigating holding companies.

Amendments Are Accepted.

The resolution specifically would suspend authority of the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve any unification or consolidation which, except for the commission's approval, would be in violation of antitrust laws.

Amendments by Senators Swanson (Democrat), Virginia, and Glenn (Republican), Illinois, accepted by Senator Couzens before the vote was taken, provided that the resolution should not prevent acquisition or control of steam or electric railroad properties commonly classified as short-line railroads, required as a condition to any other acquisition of control previously or in the future authorized by the commission.

Senator Couzens also accepted an amendment by Senator Connolly (Democrat), Texas, providing that no unification, merger, or consolidation should be authorized which did not require continued opeartion of general offices and shops where previously located, or adequate and continuous compensation for removal.

Halts One Merger.

The resolution would prevent unification of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific Railroads under the commission's general plan for consolidations.

The Northwestern unification was assailed in the debate by senators opposing as well as supporting the measure. Senator Hawes asserted, however, that it should be dealt with in some other manner.

The resolution would direct the commission to prescribe, in approved unifications, conditions to prevent dismissal, lay off or demotion of employes, and to insure compensation of employment privileges lost or expenses incurred through transfer.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

ONE is impressed by the utter lack of reverence of the people of Pennsylvania for "Old Joe" Grundy and his millions, for the Mellons and theirs.

Indeed, the voters of that State seem to think nothing of millions at all. There was Mr. Davis, who ran as the poor man's friend, and he has millions himself; the wet candidates, T. W. Phillips and Prof. Bohlen, also reputed to be millionaires, the professor said to be the only candidate that has not unlimited wealth at his command, but far from being in the poverty-stricken class.

Is it possible that all the working people of that State are millionaires, too?

• • • •

NOW, there are communities in which millionaires are looked upon as something. There are places where the people would not do "Old Joe" the way his Pennsylvania fellow citizens did him.

They would hold him in much higher respect. They would not refer to him as "Old Joe," or to the humanitarian Mr. Davis as "Jimmy," or to the eminent Mr. Bohlen as "Prof."

Why, Mr. Davis' victory turned upon the plain people's acceptance of him as one of them. That is an obvious lack of respect for one of his wealth.

OF course, the people were placed in an embarrassing situation when all of this array of wealth appeared demanding a vote of confidence. It was most difficult to choose. But we will bet there are people who, rather than show such disrespect for one as was shown for Old Joe, would have created three senatorships and three governorships and so on in order that all ambitions could have been gratified.

Instead, those Pennsylvanians picked out the greater wealth and seemed to have taken a fiendish delight in thumbing their nose at it. They kicked Old Joe in the pants.

Is it possible that the Pennsylvanians are all flappers with no respect at all for age and dignity?

• • • •

WELL, thank goodness, the mob has not gotten loose in other places, and Old Joe will be foolish if he does not remove to one of them.

There are places not so saturated with wealth as Pennsylvania, where Old Joe can get the house upon the hill and ordinances to keep vehicles from coming within a mile of him.

Yes, sir, there are places where he can get the most wholesome respect. Go South, Old Joe, those people still look up to wealth.

They will even make you an elder in the church.

Man Kills Invalid Son, Then Commits Suicide

Baton Rouge, La., May 21 (A.P.).—Hugo Kohlmetz, 51-year-old combustion engineer for an old refinery here for many years, shot himself to death today after killing his 10-year-old afflicted son. The shooting took place in a bedroom of Kohlmetz's residence.

Kohlmetz left no indication as to the reason for his act, but friends expressed the opinion that despondency over losses in the stock market crash last fall was the cause. He made substantial profits last fall, it was reported, and had retired from active work when the crash came, taking most of what he had made. Although he had passed the age limit, the oil company gave him his job back. Kohlmetz was born in Kohls, Germany.

Mrs. R. Q. Lee Concedes Election to Blanton

Abilene, Tex., May 21 (A.P.).—Mrs. R. Q. Lee, who sought to succeed her late husband as representative in Congress from the Seventeenth Texas District, today conceded yesterday's election to Thomas L. Blanton, of Abilene, who formerly held the office.

1929 FOREIGN TRADE SETS WORLD RECORD

Head of U. S. Steel Asserts Slump May Ultimately Lead to Remedy.

PERIOD CALLED UNUSUAL

Los Angeles, May 21 (A.P.).—Despite a considerable recent decline in activity, foreign trade for 1929 set a new record for both the United States and the world, James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, told the seventeenth annual convention of the National Foreign Trade Council here today. Mr. Farrell, as chairman of the council, opened the convention and presided.

If it is true that the slackening of world trade was due to some extent to money market conditions in the United States preceding the break in security prices, it seems also probable, Mr. Farrell said, that "the break itself may ultimately cause some measures of remedy." For, the chairman pointed out, "it has been followed by an easing of money rates which is already turning the attention of American investors toward sound foreign securities."

"Our efforts for 1929 approximated 5¼ billion dollars. In volume they were greatest ever recorded. Probably the outstanding feature of American foreign trade during the last score of years has been the marked change that has occurred in its character, the steady decrease in the proportion borne by raw materials and foodstuffs in the total of our exports and the corresponding increase in the proportion won by the products of manufacture. There is genuine encouragement to be found in consideration of this fact.

Youth Acts as Attorney Freeing Self, Friend

Raleigh, N. C., May 21 (A.P.).—When John D. Carlson, 18-year-old New Yorker, became his own attorney and counsel for Richard Grigard, 19, of New York, he cleared both of charges of violating the national motor theft act.

The pair was arrested here January 30 and charged with stealing a car from Waino Ahlgren, of New York, and driving it here. On trial in Federal Court here today, Carlson questioned Ahlgren and brought out the fact that he had been allowed to take the automobile and drive it whenever he wanted to. The jury took only a few minutes to return an acquittal verdict.

Attorney Pleads Guilty In Acceptance of Bribe

Guthrie, Okla., May 21 (A.P.).—W. Oscar Gordon, former assistant attorney general of Oklahoma, pleaded guilty today in Federal Court to accepting a bribe of $800 from Homer Knappenberger, former mayor of Earlsboro, Okla., for withholding prosecution of city officials who were protecting bootleggers.

Sentence of Gordon was deferred by Judge Edgar S. Vaught until October 16. Gordon resigned from the State attorney general's office last February.

Motor Trouble Balks Girl's Loop Mark Try

New York, May 21 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Motor trouble this afternoon balked Miss Elinor Smith, holder of the world's altitude record for women, in her proposed attempt to set a new consecutive loop mark for her sex.

She had completed nineteen loops when the engine of her fleet biplane began to fail and forced her to return to Roosevelt Field, Long Island. The present record of 344 loops is held by Miss Laura Ingalls, who established it recently in St. Louis. Miss Smith, intent on the 500 mark, said she would be unable to make another trial before next week.

Buffalo Trolley Crash Injures More Than Score

Buffalo, N. Y., May 21 (A.P.).—More than a score of persons on their way to work or school were injured in a street car collision here today. Five were taken to a hospital, where they were said to be suffering from severe bruises.

The accident occurred at Elmwood avenue and Jonnson Park, when one street car crashed into the rear of another which had stopped suddenly. The majority of the passengers were teachers and pupils at Hutchinson-Central High School, near which the accident occurred.

British Envoy Moving Soon To New Home

Architect Coming to Give Final Approval of Embassy.

By JEAN ELIOT.

TWO fete days, which are observed throughout Great Britain's far flung possessions, loom on the horizon—Empire Day, which falls on Saturday, and the King's Birthday, June 3. As the British Embassy is dismantled preparatory to moving and the Ambassador and Lady Lindsay are still living at the Mayflower, there will be no special celebration of Empire Day and the dinner for a distinguished group of men, which traditionally marks the king's birthday, will be given this year at the Canadian Legation, with the Minister, Mr. Vincent Massey, as host. The British Ambassador and the ministers of the British group of states will be present.

The new British Embassy in Massachusetts avenue is nearing completion and it is expected that the offices will be moved into their new quarters at the end of next week. The Ambassador and Lady Lindsay are hoping that the embassy proper will be ready for them shortly afterward and will probably move in before June 15.

Sir Edwin Lutyens, distinguished British architect, who designed the great building and under whose direction it has been erected, is now on his way to this country to make a final inspection of the mansion and to give it his official O. K., before the Ambassador and Lady Lindsay take possession. He is due in Washington shortly. Furnishings for the embassy have been shipped from England.

The British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, attended the double-header at American League Park yesterday and saw Washington romp away with both games. Sir Ronald is an enthusiastic fan, attending games as often as he can when the Washington Team is playing on home grounds and following the baseball news with avid interest when the team is on the road.

Both the Ambassador and Lady Lindsay will attend the Davis Cup tennis matches at the Chevy Chase Club this afternoon and expect to be present again tomorrow and at the finals on Saturday.

The ambassador will go to New York on June 4 to attend a dinner being given by the Pilgrim Society for the Canadian Minister, Mr. Massey, who has been named Canadian High Commissioner at London, and will be leaving Washington shortly for his new post.

The Secretary of State and Mrs. Stimson have sent out invitations for a garden party at Woodley on Tuesday from 5 to 7 o'clock.

Polish Ambassador To Sail for Europe.

The Polish Ambassador, Mr. Tytus Filipowicz, is planning to sail early in July for Europe, where he will join Mme. Filipowicz for the summer. Mme. Filipowicz has been abroad since the early winter. She will probably return with the Ambassador in the fall.

The Minister of Finland, Mr. L. Astrom, entertained at dinner last evening when his guests were the Polish Ambassador, Mr. Tytus Filipowicz, Senator and Mrs. Charles L. McNary, Senator Arthur Capper, the Minister of Austria and Mme. Prochnik, the Minister of Norway and Mme. Bachke, Representative and Mrs. Hamilton Fish, Mrs. Robert Love Taylor, Mrs. Henry F. Dimock, Mrs. William Barrett Ridgely and Mrs. Walter Tuckerman.

The Minister of China, Dr. C. C. Wu, left town last night for Cornell University, and will make an address there today. Mme. Wu will motor today to New York, where she will meet the Minister. They will spend the week-end at Glen Cove, Long Islatnd.

Senor de Alfaro, wife of the Minister of Panama, was the ranking guest at the luncheon given yesterday by Mrs. Walter George Distler in her apartment at 2101 Connecticut avenue. Mr. Wilbur Speaks Today At Dedication

Mrs. Eugene Meyer Has Helped Recreation Center Project.

In the dedication of the $1,000,000 recreation center at White Plains, N. Y., today, when Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur will be the principal speaker, Washington attaches significant interest because of the definite part taken in its establishment by Mrs. Eugene Meyer, popular hostess here and one of the attractive women in Washington society. Mrs. Meyer is chairman of the commission sponsoring the project which has culminated in a specific home for cultural and outdoor endeavors in Westchester County.

Mrs. Meyer, whose country house is in Mount Kisco, N. Y., is chairman of the board of governors of the Westchester Choral Society and taking an active part in the sixth annual music festival now in progress in the auditorium. The festival, however, is not the dedicatory production in the new recreational center, as the initial performance took place on May 12, when a drama was presented in the amphitheater.

Although the scope of this new venture is a wide one, Mrs. Meyer's friends express little surprise concerning months of devotion to the project and the crown of success attached to the movement. Always identified with educational endeavor, Mrs. Meyer's constant support of things musical and histrionic has placed her high on the list of women who "do" things once an objective is advanced.

Since the sale of their house near the Connecticut Avenue Bridge, Mr. and Mrs. Meyer have been living in the home of the late Mr. Henry White, at 1624 Crescent place.

Capt. and Mrs. Ralph E. Pope have as their guest at the Wardman Park Hotel Mrs. D. W. Todd, of Newport, R. I. Ensign Earl H. Pope, who is attached to the U. S. S. Raleigh, which is now in port in New York, will join his parents at the hotel next week.

Mrs. Sims and Daughter To Sail for England.

Mrs. Thetus Sims, her daughter, Mrs. Chester A. Snow, jr., and Mrs. William T. Mann have gone to New York and will sail today on the S. S. DeGrasse for England. They expect to be gone ten weeks. Mrs. Mann, who was Miss Nancy Beale, is Mrs. Sims' granddaughter.

Mr. Snow is leaving town today for a short cruise, but wil return the early part of next week.

Mrs. Snowden Ashford entertained a few friends at dinner last evening at the Duck Inn on the upper Alexandria road. Her guests were Mrs. P. Lee Phillips, Mrs. Maude A. Ferguson and Mrs. Ashford Robert, daughter of the hostess.

Former Head Of Legion to Be Minister

Nomination of MacNider for Ottawa Post Lauded Here.

News of the appointment of Mr. Hanford MacNider to the post of Minister to Canada has special interest to Washingtonians, who remember Mr. MacNider and his charming wife most pleasantly from the time when he served as Assistant Secretary of War. Their departure from the Capital, when he retired from public life to reenter the banking business, was keenly regretted and their return to the official fold—even if as occasional visitors to Washington—will be welcomed.

Mr. MacNider's appointment has already been approved by the British foreign office and Dominion government. Moreover, the nomination must be approved by the Senate. There seems small doubt that approval will be forthcoming, although Senator Brookhart, who has long been engaged in a political feud with Mr. MacNider in their home State, Iowa, might be moved to start a fight.

Since leaving Washington, Mr. and Mrs. MacNider have been living in Mason City, Iowa. A former national commander of the American Legion, Mr. MacNider has a fine war record. He has the Distinguished Service Cross and several foreign decorations. As Minister to Canada he will succeed Mr. William Phillips, also well known and well liked in Washington, who resigned from the diplomatic service several months ago.

Mrs. E. C. Alvord, jr., entertained at luncheon yesterday in the crystal room of the Willard, having as honor guests Mrs. Pat Harrison, Mrs. Patrick J. Sullivan, Mrs. William E. Brock and Mrs. Hubert D. Stevens. Other guests were Mrs. Walter Hope, Mrs. Ariel Cardon, Mrs. W. A. MacGregor, Mrs. F. G. Awalt, Mrs. C. B. Fry, Mrs. Robert Zachary, Mrs. Richard F. Watson, Mrs. L. F. Welsh, Mrs. E. C. Alvord, sr.; Miss Nancy MacGregor and Miss Margaret Sullivan.

G. W. U. Department To Honor Mrs. Heurich.

The faculty of the home economics department of George Washington University will entertain in honor of Mrs. Christian Heurich and officers and members of the board of the Twentieth Century Club at tea this afternoon from 4 until 6 o'clock, marking formal opening of the garden which has been developed for the Home Economics Building of the university.

Frances Kirkpatrick, head of the home economics department, will receive with Mrs. Christian Heurich, Mrs. Cloyd Heck Marvin, wife of the president of the university; Mrs. Benjamin Smith and Mrs. Walter Husband. Mrs. Frederick Coville will preside at the tea table. Mrs. Joshua Evans, jr., of the board of trustees of the university, will make the introductions.

Among those to attend will be Mrs. George F. Bowerman, retiring president of the Twentieth Century Club; Mrs. Walter Husband, newly elected president; Mrs. Elwood P. Morey, Mrs. Glen Smith, Miss Jane Young, Mrs. Otto L. Verhoff, Mrs. George P. Putnam, Mrs. Ernest P. Bicknell, Mrs. Philip Sidney Smith, Mrs. Thomas W. Sidwell and Mrs. Alfred H. Brooks, of the Twentieth Century Club, and Mrs. John Bell Larner, wife of the chairman of the board of trustees of the university; Mrs. Clarence A. Aspinwall, Mrs. Edwin B. Parker, Mrs. Charles Riborg Mann, Mrs. Stephen E. Kramer and Mrs. Karl Corby.

Tea will be prepared by university students in the home economics laboratories and will be served in the garden. Students who will assist are Miss Katherine Dille, Mrs. Dorothy Canfield, Miss Louise Humphries, Miss Margaret O'Connor, Miss Sarah Reed, Miss Amelia Henkel, Miss Marjorie Selvig, Miss Alice Ernest, Miss Harriet Rees, Miss Ella Sanborn, Mrs. J. J. Lowery and Miss Ethel Phels.

Dr. Elizabeth Johnson has returned to her apartment in the Farragut after passing about ten days in Oklahoma City.

MRS. CHESTER SNOW, Jr., will sail today for England on the S. S. De Grasse, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Thetus Sims, and her niece, Mrs. William T. Mann.

Miss Bloom To Make Bow Before Court

Only Capital Girl Thus Far Designated for Presentation.

Miss Vera Bloom, daughter of Representative and Mrs. Sol Bloom, of New York, will be presented at the Court of St. James on May 27. Although two courts have already been held at Buckingham Palace and several American girls were included among those presented, Miss Bloom is the only Washington girl whose presentation has been announced so far.

With her mother, Miss Bloom sailed for Europe several weeks ago to pass the season in London, where they have many friends. Representative Bloom will join his family in Europe after Congress adjourns, and they will spend the rest of the summer traveling on the continent.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McCoonihe entertained at dinner last evening at their home on Kalorama road. On May 28 they will sail for Europe, to pass the summer.

The League of Republican Women will entertain at its final tea for this season, at Republican headquarters, Barr Building, 910 Seventeenth street, tomorrow from 4 until 6 o'clock.

Lieut. Francis Ford, who has been for some time executive officer of the receiving station at the navy yard, will leave shortly for sea duty aboard the destroyer Breckenridge at Charleston, S. C. The ship will go to Newport, R. I., about July 1 for the summer.

Mrs. David H. Kincheloe, wife of Representative Kincheloe, will be hostess at tea this afternoon from 4:30 until 7 o'clock in the garden of her home at 5202 Thirteenth street. If the weather does not permit tea in the garden Mrs. Kincheloe will receive in the house.

Of course, you'll want a tub fiat silk crepe in white or pastel shade for summer wardrobe.

This one is typically modern.

The bodice affects a one-sided bolero through fashionable seaming.

The narrow belt may be worn at higher or natural waistline.

The scalloped sun-tan neckline is smart.

Style No. 8268 can be had in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. It is made with 2¾ yards of 39-inch material in the medium size.

Silk pique, men's silk shirting, cotton pique prints, linen in sports or sheer weight, printed dimity, cotton net print and jersey appropriate.

Price of pattern, 15 cents. Address Fashion Department, Washington Post, 259 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Inclosed is 15 cents. Please send to

Immediate Relief!

What most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. The food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude helps. Use what your doctor would advise.

The best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient.

One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in acid. The results are immediate, with no bad after-effects. Once you learn this fact, you will never deal with excess acid in the crude ways. Go learn—now—why this method is supreme.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids, 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor, Charles H. Phillips, since 1875.

. . . "better hold that over till morning"

Late afternoon of a typical day at the office. Your secretary brings in an important letter . . . or contract . . . something requiring more than casual routine attention.

". . . better hold that over till morning," you say.

Now that you think about it, can't you recall many times that this has happened? And, of course, you know why—when it is at all possible—you delay making important decisions until morning.

The reason is that these morning hours are made of Vita-Minutes. You are rested, more fit—you think faster and more clearly—after a night's sleep than after a day's routine. You know that, in the morning, you can make wiser decisions and—once they're made—act upon them more surely.

This is equally true of the man in his world of business . . . and the housewife in her round of daily tasks. And wise merchants know this—realize the value of the time-element in their advertising.

They've discovered that a shopping message read during the Vita-Minutes makes a deeper impression—will get attention and response much more quickly—than the very same message when read at any other time of day.

That's one reason why these merchants place their advertising in The Post . . . the paper that goes into Washington homes during these alert Vita-Minutes!

Another reason is that authoritative surveys show that these Washington families who eagerly turn to The Post for news and shopping news are the very families who do the bigger part of the buying in Washington stores.

Proof of the value of these—and other Post advantages—is found in the history of many advertising campaigns in this territory. These records are open to any advertiser.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

WITH the Radio Commission signing final papers to move its offices into the National Press Building that edifice will become the radio center of the Capital.

Already in the building are the offices of the National Broadcasting Co., WRC studios, Universal Wireless Co., National Association of Broadcasters, and the Radio Protective Association.

Malcolm P. Hanson, Washingtonian, radio engineer of the Byrd expedition, has accepted an invitation sent him by radio while en route on his return to the United States to speak before the Washington section of the Institute of Radio Engineers.

Mr. Hanson arrives in New York approximately June 14 and it is anticipated by John B. Brady, secretary of the institute, that he will speak to the Washington radio engineers shortly thereafter.

THROUGH a misunderstanding it was erroneously reported in "Dial Flashes" last Monday that Herbert Hoover, jr., was recently allowed the only portable radio license by the Radio Commission. While there is a ban on portable broadcasting (i. e. program) stations, portable communication (i. e. telegraph) stations such as this are permitted. About a dozen such licenses have been issued.

Hugh Walpole, noted English novelist and son of the Bishop of Edinburgh will speak from London Monday (WRC—3:25 p. m.).

History will be made this morning in Schenectady, when it is expected that a television picture, 6 by 7 feet—large enough to be seen from the back rows of the balcony—will be shown in a local theater.

This afternoon in the same theater this picture will be offered as an "act," the first time, we believe, that television has been included as a part of a regular program of theater entertainment.

IN accordance with a suggestion in this column, Representative Sirovich, of New York, has introduced a resolution in the House similar to the Dill proposal for the transfer of the radio division of the Department of Commerce to the Radio Commission, with the added provision that it becomes a special division, on a par with the legal and engineering departments, headed by a director of radio, with a salary of $10,000, and two assistants with salaries of $7,500 each.

The description by George Hicks of Lieut. Comdr. Charles A. Nicholson's successful fastening of his airplane onto the dirigible Los Angeles, after several attempts, at the presidential naval review, had the radio audience sitting on the edge of its chairs.

Hicks, who was in the main cabin of the dirigible, almost breathless with excitement himself, with only a half minute of his broadcasting time left, concluded:

"He's five feet from the trapeze . . . he's almost on it . . . he made it . . . no, he didn't . . . yes, he did . . . he made it!"

IN the new assistant secretary, John B. Reynolds, another lawyer has been added to the Federal Lawyers Commission—excuse it, please—we mean the Federal Radio Commission.

Jane Interprets the Mode

For the luxurious teagown, what is more lovely than mauve satin, embroidered in mauve paillettes! (Courtesy of Cheruit, Paris.)

Paris, May 21.

AS I write this, we're all sitting around trying to do our work with frozen fingers. When you read this the sun may be shining in your corner of the world, but the way I feel today I don't think the sun will ever shine again. You see it is a law in Paris that no more furnaces for housewarming can be kept going after the 1st of April, regardless of the weather. Technically it's supposed to be spring now, but what cares Dame Nature for technicalities!

And then in comes the French maid, who is Spanish with the tea things, and a darling new Japanese teapot all funny and squat and dull green that La Chic Secretaire presented to me this morning—and in between sups of fragrant tea we discussed the tea question. The be-e-eautiful Russian artist reminds us that it is a Russian custom to have the samovar boiling all the time, and for one special servant to take care of it. Somebody else mentions the English custom of having a cup of tea upon awaking long before the breakfast hour—which seems to me to be a pretty slick way of getting your morning cup of hot water into you without knowing it.

And I think back to all of the cosy and intimate tea hours that I have had in my life in my homes and make-shift homes in various parts of the world, and wonder why it is that American women are so prone to overlook the opportunity to be charmed and charming that the daily having of tea presents!

• • • •

Cheruit makes graceful and gracious tea gowns—to see them just makes you feel you've lived long enough without the luxury of teagowns! Could you live without wearing the one I have illustrated for you today, for instance? It was of mauve satin discreetly and beautifully embroidered in the flat long tube-like paillettes of the same color, and the divided skirt opened only as far up as the embroidered band around the knee. Note the two-girdled effect, and excuse me while I try to add up my check book!

• • • •

At last! I've always shivered all over upon seeing a wrist watch worn with an evening dress, as so many unthinking near-lovely ladies all too often do—and now I'm glad I didn't commit suicide last week—there's always something to live for, isn't there? Because along comes a wide flat diamond bracelet just three hours after the be-e-eautiful Italian leaves for Africa, and way down hidden and out of sight, opening only to the pressure of a hidden spring, no less than a wee watch to remind me what I've played long enough and it's time to write fashion articles again! So of course I sat down and sketched it for you.

• • • •

You really ought to send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet that tells you how to make him a real pajama suit with a matching dressing gown to boot—I mean to interest him in staying home nights. This three-piece pajama suit might not fail to interest you, either, for yourself.

• • • •

And here's your reminder again. The weekly Dare fashion letter in The Sunday Washington Post every week is always well worth looking for.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES

I have a begonia which I feel should be in bloom at this time. Lately the larger leaves have been falling. Can you suggest a reason? E. C. C.

It all depends on the variety of your begonia and whether it has been blooming all winter, whether it should be in bloom at this time. It may be entering a period of well-deserved rest. When a begonia loses its leaves it is a sign that it is getting too much or too little water and not enough fresh air. Better change your method of watering it. Try giving it a sufficient amount of water to moisten all the soil in the pot once in two days.

Please tell me the name of the inclosed leaves and also the requirements of the plants from which the leaves were taken. MRS. H. E. G.

Crassula is the name of the plant from which you inclosed some leaves. This plant requires a rich soil, a moderate amount of water and a great deal of sun and fresh air.

Please tell me the best way to slip and root geraniums. M. G. T.

Make cuttings two inches in length and root them in sand. As soon as the cuttings have developed roots transplant them into good soil. In making the cuttings cut away the small wings at the base of the leaves and remove about one-half of each leaf.

I have a kudzu vine which is too large for my garden. I want to start a new specimen. Shall I sow seed or start one from a cutting.

MRS. WILLIAM S.

Better start a new vine from seed.

Please tell me how to lime a lawn at this time. ISABEL M.

Mix lime and bonemeal and scatter a sufficient quantity over the soil to whiten it slightly. This is a splendid spring tonic for any grass plot.

Is it a good plan to let the following begonias bloom: Star, silver ring rex and grape? E. M. Y.

Yes.

Please tell me the name of the begonia from which I am inclosing three leaves. Also, why do the leaves have tiny specks on them?

MISS JANE V.

I am sorry, but the leaves were in such bad condition when they reached my desk that I could tell nothing about them. Better spray the plants once a week with cold, soapy water, as I could detect traces of mealy bugs on them.

I have two very healthy looking lilac bushes which have never bloomed. Please suggest a remedy. Also, please tell me a good spray for shrubbery such as lilacs and snowballs, and tell me when to apply the spray.

GEORGE F.

Better root-prune your lilacs and incorporate some well-rotted manure with soil before resetting the bush. Bordeaux mixture is the best spray for shrubbery. Apply this in early April and again in the late fall.

Please tell me what is wrong with my aspidistra and suggest a remedy. I have it in a north window in a wicker fern stand. I occasionally wash the leaves. Can I raise ivy on a fireplace? F. I. K.

Spray the foliage of your aspidistra twice each week with cold water. You can raise ivy on a fireplace, provided it is a light, airy location. Be sure to spray the foliage once a week with cold, soapy water, as ivy grown indoors is likely to be attacked by mealy bugs.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

WHO'ZIT?

("WHOZIT?" is a test of your knowledge of history and current events. The statements below describe a character whom you should be able to identify. Match your knowledge and memory against those of your friends.)

1. He was an early American poet.

2. He served as a chaplain in the American Army during the Revolution.

3. After the French Revolution he became American Ambassador to that country.

4. His best known poem was "The Vision of Columbus," which was favorably received; he also wrote a long epic poem, "The Columbiad," which, however, was generally regarded as a failure.

Answer to yesterday—Louis Agassiz.

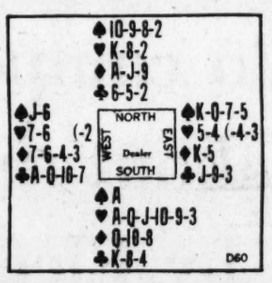
A WELL-PLAYED HAND.



It is obvious that in the above hand, whether playing at Auction or Contract, South would be the Declarer and Hearts would be the trump. At Contract South and North would bid four; so that at either game South's objective would be to take ten tricks.

When the hand was played, West led the Jack of Spades which closed hand took with the Ace. The Declarer could count as sure the one Spade already won, six trumps and two Diamonds—a total of nine tricks. One more Diamond could be obtained if the King were held by West and one Club if the Ace of that suit were held by East; but the big danger was that should Declarer exhaust the trumps and then try a Diamond finesse, the adversaries would win and lead Clubs through closed hand's King, capturing three Club tricks and saving game. As a matter of fact that is what would have happened had Declarer led two rounds of trumps and then tried the Diamond finesse.

The Declarer, however, was clever enough to see how unnecessary it was for him to risk his game in that way. With two trump entries and one Diamond entry in dummy, it was possible to establish a Spade in that hand and obtain a Club discard for the closed hand which would limit his loss to one Diamond and two Clubs, so to trick 2 a high trump was led by closed hand on which dummy's Deuce was played. To trick 3 a trump honor was led and overtaken by dummy's King; this exhausted the adverse trumps. To trick 4 dummy led the Ten of Spades, East of course covered; if he had not, South would have discarded a Club. South ruffed with an honor and then put dummy in with the Eight of trumps to lead the Nine of Spades. It mattered not in the least what East did; as a matter of fact, he covered, South ruffed, led a Diamond, refused the finesse, took the trick with dummy's Ace, cashed dummy's Eight of Spades and discarded a Club from closed hand. Of course this assured a Diamond trick for the adversaries; but as Declarer immediately made up a second Diamond by leading that suit while he still had a trump entry, it assured game for him as all that he could lose was one Diamond and two Clubs.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"GEMINI."

IF May 22 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:45 a. m. to 1 p. m., from 5 p. m. to 6:30 p. m., and from 9 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:30 a. m. to 8:30 a. m., and from 3:30 p. m. to 5 p. m.

It has been proven, astrologically, that there is a right and a wrong time for every purpose in view, and it is indicated that this is not a lucky time to dabble in financial matters. You will be influenced by the disquieting rays of Mercury, propitious time for work for a mental nature.

Children born on this May 22 will have a great deal of force and character, and they will pretty well succeed in having their own way. They will be little diplomats, and good little character analyzers.

You have very decisive ways, and no one is in doubt about the positiveness of your character. You do not pussyfoot through life, you tread with a firm step. You do not lightly finger life, you take a strong grip. You do not stammer with indecision. Although there is strength and force about you, you are not hard-hearted nor stubborn. You are very tolerant and helpful toward those who lack your moral or physical strength. You are as kind as you are intelligent.

You are apt to push play too much out of your life in your pursuit of study and in the fulfillment of your work. A little more fun and frivolity would do you good. (All ruts are narrowing to one's outlook.) You should have oratorical ability, and the gift to influence others through the powers of speech. You are also gifted as a letter writer, and will gain much through this art. A great deal of travel is indicated in your life.

If you be a woman you show a great deal of economy and thrift in your home life. You have a rather anxious disposition toward the welfare of others, and you are apt to let too many "clinging vines" sap your strength. You would be unwisely unselfish as a mother.

Successful people born May 22:

1. Tench Coxe, "The Father of American Cotton Industry."
2. Arthur Tappan, founder of New York Journal of Commerce and of Oberlin College.
3. Sydney H. Gay, journalist and author.
4. Worthington Whittredge, artist.
5. Jacob G. Schurman, a president of Cornell University.
6. Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, author, spiritualist.

To start the Day right eat Cereal and Milk sweetened to taste with Sugar

CEREAL, flavored with sugar, makes that essential food with milk a pleasing carrier of the vitamins, minerals and roughage it contains.

THAT STEAMING, hot, fragrant porridge — that crisp, crunchy ready-to-eat cereal served with milk or cream — tastes so much better when sprinkled with sugar.

Consider this, especially when children are concerned. Many youngsters get an early dislike for this important food because their mothers, often ill-advised, fail to heighten its mild flavor with sugar. But, as a matter of fact, doctors are in favor of sugar on cereal for its flavoring qualities. If you wish, you can add the sugar to the cereal as it cooks.

Other wholesome foods are also more pleasant to eat when sugar is added while they cook. A dash of sugar to a pinch of salt is a good rule to follow. Such use of sugar, as a flavor, makes essential foods pleasing carriers of the vitamins, minerals and roughage they contain.

For a pleasant surprise add a dash of sugar to peas, carrots or other vegetables as they cook. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

U. S. WAR MOTHERS SEE GRAVES OF SONS

Sunshine Breaks Through to Stop Rain as Pilgrims Reach Goal.

FRENCH GIVE WELCOME

Romagne-Sous-Montfaucon, France, May 21 (A.P.).—Spring rains mingled with the tears of American mothers today to freshen the graves of their boys who fell in the great war.

The mothers, more than 200 in number, reached the goal of their voyage from the United States this forenoon and spent a day that was all too short in the six vast military cemeteries wherein their sons lie buried. With tears and prayers they consecrated the resting places of the heroes they elected to leave upon the battlefields where they gave their lives to democracy.

Over nearly all the cemeteries the sun broke briefly through a leaden sky for that simple, solemn moment when the mothers, for the first time, knelt beside their boys.

Welcomed by French.

Here, where sleep 14,000 of America's war dead, 108 mothers saw the graves which they had longed to see for twelve dreary years. Another 50 went to Seringes-et-Nesles, near Soissons, and a score each went to Thiaucourt, near Nancy, and Belleau Wood, a few miles back of the immortal Chateu-Thierry.

Touching welcomes everywhere greeted the saddened pilgrims. French widows and orphans, too, in thousands, were present to show the American mothers how they also had given the supreme gift to the cause of humanity.

The American mothers were taken from their hotels in ten big autocars. At Verdun a vast throng wept and speakers choked with emotion at a ceremony at City Hall as they told of the siege that lasted virtually throughout the war, in which men died by thousands.

Raindrops Glisten on Graves.

As the mothers gathered at the cemetery entrance the sun came from behind a cloud and bathed them in its warmth. The raindrops glistened on every grave and cross as the women placed evergreen wreaths, entwined with pansies and carnations, upon the green graves. The flowers were prepared and ready for their arrival.

In a brief hour they tried to say all of the prayers that welled in their hearts. Then the rain descended again and they hurried back to shelter in the big cars. Through the windows they watched the cemetery as they ate their lunches. Then again the rain ceased and they resumed their prayers at the marble crosses.

Sixteen gold star mothers made their third pilgrimage to the Mou t Walerlen Cemetery, overlooking Paris, and there they stood by the graves of their sons at the same hour the others, in five different localities, were making their first pilgrimage.

Governor of Nebraska Will Not Oppose Norris

Lincoln, Nebr., May 21 (A.P.).—Gov. Arthur J. Weaver will not be an opponent of Senator George W. Norris in the forthcoming Nebraska primaries, he made clear today announcing his decision to be a candidate for reelection.

For weeks the governor's name has been linked with the senatorial contest as the candidate of Nebraska "regular" Republicans who seek to defeat Senator Norris.

TRACTION COMBINE SET ASIDE IN HOUSE

school children using street cars and buses.

In this connection, three members of the committee—Representatives Hull and Lampert (Republicans), of Wisconsin, and Patman (Democrat), of Texas—gave high praise to John J. Noonan for his efforts to obtain free fares for school children.

While the committee was considering the merger resolution, officials of the two street car companies were at the courthouse, where their plea for a 10-cent cash fare is pending.

The Capper-Zihlman bill to raise the pay of policemen and firemen was approved in the exact form that it came from the Senate. In that body, $500 had been lopped from the raises provided for the chiefs of the Police and Fire Departments, and their immediate assistants. Also there had been written into the bill a provision authorizing the dismissal of any policeman or fireman who fails to receive a raise in two successive years.

The bill is scheduled to come up in the House on Monday. Meantime, Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby is trying to persuade Representative Simmons (Republican), of Nebraska, to change his stand and come out for the bill.

The Moore fiscal relations bill was approved by the committee by a vote of 12 to 2, the only members voting against it being Representatives Stalker (Republican), of New York, and Tarver (Democrat), of Georgia.

In reporting out the bill, the committee adopted all the amendments suggested by the Commissioners and also one offered by Representative Reid (Republican), of Illinois.

The Reid amendment would add two more members of Congress to the proposed commission, thus further strengthening congressional domination of that body.

It is expected that this bill also will come up for a vote on Monday. If it passes, it is almost certain to become a law, for the Senate has long felt that the present Federal contribution of $9,000,000 toward the cost of running the city is inadequate. In passing the District appropriation bill last week, the Senate increased this lump sun to $12,000,000.

Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby, who came to the District service with the reputation as a disciplinarian in the Army to take supervision of the local Police Department, wants better conditions and better pay for the policemen who protect the city, and he wants to do his own disciplining.

Apparently the general believes that the pending pay bill is the most important matter pending affecting the two protection departments, for he has held many conferences with members of the House and Senate, accompanied by Police and Fire Department officials.

The result is that Gen. Crosby has launched himself into the fight for the increased pay bill, backing up the unanimous pleas of business and civic organizations that the bill be enacted.

TESTIMONY HEARD ON PITTS CHARGES

CIVIL SUBPENA IGNORED

Justice William Hitz yesterday took under advisement charges of contempt of court against G. Bryan Pitts, former chairman of the F. H. Smith Co., after hearing testimony that Pitts had appeared before Fred J. Eden, referee in bankruptcy, in connection with the bankruptcy proceedings involving the Boyle-Robertson Construction Co.

The action followed arguments of Assistant United States Attorney Neil Burkinshaw on behalf of the Government and of Attorneys Wilton J. Lambert and Frank Raichle for the defense.

Previously in the contempt hearing it had been testified that Pitts acted on the advice of counsel when he refused to accept the service of a subpena last December 11 in the Boyle-Robertson case. Counsel contended that Pitts was a resident of New York and had come to Washington on that date to post bond on a criminal indictment passed against him, and was immune from service in any civil proceeding.

Yesterday Attorney Lambert failed to cit authorities proving immunity of a nonresident as in Pitts' contention. At the same time, however, the Government also was unable to show concrete authority proving that a person, answering a criminal proceeding, was not immune from service in a civil case.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me during Change of Life. I had to lie down most of the time because I felt so weak and I could not stand the least bit of noise, I was that nervous. I felt blue and could cry if anyone looked at me. I could not sleep or eat but I am much better now and am able to work every day. I certainly do recommend the Vegetable Compound and I will write to any woman about it."—Mrs. J. James.

Why do competing salesmen talk about the water used by Electrolux?

It is an old adage that sticks and stones are always found beneath the tree that bears the choicest fruit.

It's a hard job to knock Electrolux, however. What can one say against it? Completely and permanently silent . . . not a single mechanical part . . . lasts indefinitely . . . free from all mechanical troubles . . . the lowest operating cost in existence! Is it any wonder that competing salesmen are driven to talk about so flimsy a thing as water consumption when they want a sales argument against Electrolux.

QUICK FACTS!
1. Permanently noiseless.
2. Absolutely safe.
3. Only a few cents a day to operate.
4. Lasts indefinitely.
5. No mechanism to wear, to vibrate, to need oil.
6. Free from trouble.
7. Perpetual, steady cold.
8. Plenty of pure ice cubes.
9. Tested and endorsed by national authorities.

Here are the facts

In justice to the many interested refrigeration prospects who want actual facts—facts that will enable them to choose intelligently and wisely, we give here the truth about the water that Electrolux uses.

Water is used in Electrolux to complete the circulation of the cold-producing refrigerant. The heat from a tiny gas flame turns the refrigerant to vapor. The cool water condenses it back again.

The New York Herald Tribune Institute is one of the nationally known testing laboratories that measured to a teaspoonful the amount of water used by Electrolux. They found that it consumed one-half a cubic foot an hour. That was the figure for next to the largest of nine models, in a 75-degree room.

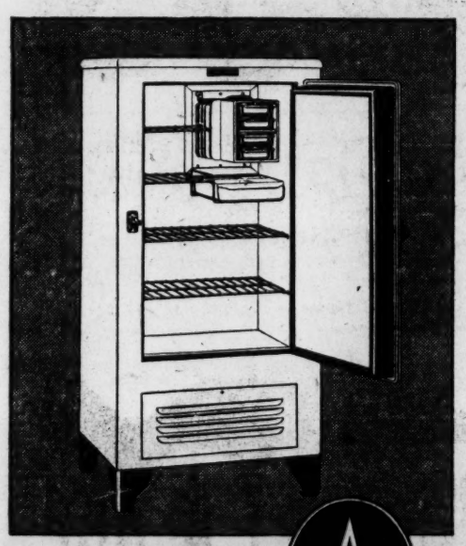
If you held a glass under a faucet where the water was trickling out at a rate as slow as this, you wouldn't have patience to wait until the glass was full.

So small is the total quantity of water used by Electrolux in a month, compared to the amount you use for other household purposes, that it is difficult to notice the difference on your water bills. You have to do some close figuring.

Lowest operating cost

After all, the real point about the water Electrolux uses is the total monthly cost of this refrigerator for both gas and water. We can show you letter after letter from enthusiastic owners on this point. The cost is much less than that of ice or power for mechanical refrigeration. A few pennies a day, not more than 70 cents a week—even for the largest size—that's all.

Buy an Electrolux and you not only have a lifetime and more of perfect trouble-free automatic refrigeration, but you save money on your ice bill every day you live.



The Kitchenette Model Electrolux. Four cubic feet of food space; makes 36 large ice cubes.

A tiny gas flame takes the place of all moving parts.

Come in and see this marvel on display, many sizes and models in white and colors. Prices range from $220 to $455 installed. Liberal purchase terms. The coupon will bring you complete information.

AL CAPONE CLEARED OF VAGRANCY COUNT

Judge in Florida Dismisses Case Against Chicago Gang Ruler.

ARREST ORDER HOLDS

Miami, Fla., Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Al Capone, harrassed Chicago gang lord and the recent subject of a "run out" campaign by the City of Miami, won his third skirmish with the city today in the dismissal of vagrancy charges preferred against him by police.

Capone was arrested Monday night, the third time since the city officials inaugurated the plan of arresting him whenever he is found in the city limits. On arraignment today he was dismissed by Municipal Judge Frank B. Stoneman for lack of evidence.

Albert Prignano, arrested with Capone on each of the three occasions, likewise was freed of the vagrancy charge.

Chief of Police Guy Reeve and Detective Chief Scarborough were the witnesses. Prior to the hearing attorneys for the gangster moved the charges against Capone and Prignano be dismissed on the ground that no offense was charged. This was denied.

The appearance of the gangster in the courtroom rounded out, with one exception, his tour of courts located in Miami. Since his arrival April 20 he has appeared in Federal circuit and municipal courts, but not in the Dade County Criminal Court. All court proceedings have been in connection with various attempts to keep him from maintaining a part-time home in the community.

Padlock proceedings against his residence at Palm Island, Miami Beach, are pending and will be heard in circuit court here June 10.

Meanwhile, despite the recent announcement that Capone plans to leave for the North this week, the order of Mayor C. H. Reeder and City Manager F. H. Wharton for Capone's arrest on sight in Miami is still effective.

Elderly Man Injured When Hit by Street Car

Edward J. Hanley, 85 years old, of 4539 Georgia avenue northwest, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon when he was struck by a trolley car at Thirteenth-and-a-half street and Pennsylvania avenue.

Mr. Hanley was removed to Emergency Hospital suffering from compound fracture of the left leg and possible skull fracture.

Mrs. J. W. Stout, of 1356 Kenyon street northwest, an eyewitness of the accident, said that Mr. Hanley apparently unaware of the approaching car, stepped into its path. The car was operated by Thomas W. Hayden, 27 years old, of 3322 N street northwest.

Events of the War 13 Years Ago Today

May 22, 1917.

A second food bill, to prevent hoarding and fixing prices, was introduced in the House.

British surprised the Germans at Vermelles, gaining much ground, but the Germans continued their heavy shelling of Rheims.

President Wilson, in a letter to Representative Heflin, attacked the "misrepresentation of America's war purposes."

The War Department issued orders for the formation of a score of new National Guard units.

An explosion of mysterious origin tied up work at the Norfolk Navy Yard.

With NELSON B. BELL

FROM Mr. Hubbard Keavy, West Coast correspondent, comes the following, which, I take it, will interest those Washington screen fans whose memory is not short:

Hollywood—The unveiling of a handsome statue in honor of Rudolph Valentino the other day was heralded as an event that no one would want to miss—that is, if one wanted to get a close-up of half or more of the cinema's leading lights.

But the most striking aspect of the ceremony, from this observer's viewpoint anyway, was the absence of stars. Dolores Del Rio, who unveiled the bronze piece, was the lone star.

There were not more than 300 persons in the park for the unveiling and most of them obviously were idly curious women who expected an all-star cast.

Even the beauty of the statue, a striking thing, did not mitigate their disappointment any.

I didn't expect to see any one of film prominence at the ceremonial because they must have realized that the crowd wouldn't be big enough to make much difference whether they came or not. In addition, there weren't any spotlights.

Some might take this opportunity to wax rhetorical about Hollywood's forgetfulness, but the stars are not unlike most of the rest of us; too busy taking care of today and forgetting about yesterday.

The interest in Valentino outside of Hollywood, evidenced by the Valentino clubs in nearly 40 countries, is remarkable.

Members of these clubs, chiefly in foreign countries, contributed the several thousands necessary to erect the statue.

The same spirit that keeps these clubs alive keeps Valentino's pictures on the screen. He is the only deceased star whose pictures are being shown successfully.

Here's how well Valentino's pictures have done since his death nearly four years ago: When he died he left $164 in cash and debts of something more than $240,000.

Not only have these debts been paid, but Valentino's relatives have been given nearly $200,000 and still a goodly sum remains in the treasury of the Valentino corporation, to be distributed to the relatives when the company is dissolved.

Further Hollywood intelligence is to the effect that:

Lon Chaney is on a "rest cure" trip to St. Vincent's Hospital, after completing his first talker, "Unholy Three."

Chester Conklin is en route to England for a vaude tour of the Isles.

When Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyon will say "I do" on June 14 it will be the first trip down the aisle for each one.

Chic Sale is en route to the coast and will buy a home at Long Beach.

Helen Twelvetrees airplaned to New York in record time, with only two days in the eastern metropolis.

William Powell gets a two months' vacation trip abroad. Leaving soon.

John Gilbert starts his third talker soon.

Fifi Dorsay objects to paying her agents, Lyons & Lyons, the regulation 10-per cent, and court action is current.

Gwen Lee hankers for a trip to New York these days. Jack Oakie back there given as reason.

Harry Woods is Arthur Freed's new song-writing partner. Freed composes lyrics and Woods handles the music. Team at M-G-M.

Next week's motion picture attractions: RKO-Keith's, Colin Clive in "Journey's End;" Rialto, Mitzi Goetzel in "The White Hell of Pitz Palu;" Metropolitan, Dennis King and Lillian Roth in "The Vagabond King;" Palace, Ruth Chatterton, Basil Rathbone and Forbes in "The Lady of Scandal;" Fox, Edmund Lowe in "Born Reckless;" Earle, Robert Armstrong and Barbara Kent in "Dumb-bells in Ermine," and Joe Frisco in person; Columbia, Marie Dressler and Polly Moran in "Caught Short;" Little, Corliss Palmer and Dave Finlay in "Damaged Souls," sixth week, for men only.

$500 Reward Offered In Theft of $35 Mirror

A $500 reward has been offered for the arrest and conviction of a thief, who stole a mirror valued at $35 from the Ritz Apartment at 1631 Euclid street northwest yesterday.

Frances Spielman, manager of the apartment, who informed the police that the owner of the apartment had posted the reward, said that the thief stole the mirror from the lobby of the place. She described it as being an oval-shape mirror about 4 feet long, in a bronze frame of floral design.

Curb on Swindling Topic for Session

National Parley Against Fraud Will Assemble Here Tomorrow.

Steps which voluntary agencies and the Federal Government can take to aid State officials in their efforts to curb stock swindling will have a conspicuous place on the program of the National Conference on Prevention of Fraudulent Transactions in Securities which opens a two-day session in the United State Chamber of Commerce tomorrow.

R. C. Clark, Vermont commissioner of banking and insurance, is chairman of the conference, while speakers on the program include I. M. Bailey, securities commissioner of North Carolina; Henry R. Hayes, chairman of the executive committee; Watson Washburn, Assistant Attorney General, and Samuel O. Rice, educational director of the Investment Bankers Association of America.

Important aspects of the fraud problem will be considered in more detail at four round-table conferences tomorrow afternoon. These are: Activities of the Federal Government, Paul V. Keyser, chairman; coordinating exchange of information, Kenneth Barnard, chairman; local law enforcement, R. C. Clark, chairman, and activities of voluntary agencies, H. J. Kenner, chairman.

Messenger Boy Injured.

Two Chinese Laundry Shops Prey of Thieves

Two Chinese laundry shops were prey of thieves yesterday.

Lee Sam, of 1121 Eleventh street northwest, told police his place was entered by smashing a glass in the door and $5 was taken from the register. Sam Haw, of 1018 Ninth street, reported that a .38-caliber revolver and $5 in bills was stolen from his place of business.

$100,000 Damage Suit Of Woman Dismissed

New York, May 21 (A.P.).—A $100,000 damage suit brought by Mrs. Frances Van Rensaalaer Jackson, of San Francisco, an actress, against Ralph Hitz, manager of the Hotel New Yorker, was dismissed today by Supreme Court Justice McCook.

Mrs. Jackson charged Hitz struck her and loosened two teeth at a party. He produced witnesses to refute the charge.

TWO MOODS in Spectator Slippers

BY I. Miller? Naturally! For who else could have conceived the distinctly feminine type of spectator slipper pictured above? With its bandings and appliques in contrast? Its smart perforations? Its graceful heel? To be the perfect companion for the "dressmaker" ensembles of the moment? And for that matter—who but I. Miller could have retained all the swanky swagger of the leather-heeled Sofia below and still have refined its lines with such nicety? . . . But after all, one grows to expect so much from I. How to Keep Well

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

ARTHRITIS OF THE HANDS.

D. O. W. asks for a rigid diet for arthritis of the hands. He is not interested in a diet for other joint troubles.

Some of the cases of arthritis of the finger joints are gouty. Such are those in which chalky deposits form under the skin. In some cases these can be uncovered and some mineral material scraped away. There is a diet for gout, and that has been given in this column recently.

The great majority of cases of arthritis of the hands and fingers are not gouty and, for them, there is no rigid diet. This is the form of joint trouble which usually develops in elderly people—women more noticeably than men. It does not cause any fever, general or local. There is very little soreness or tenderness. The heads of the bones enlarge and the joints become deformed. Fortunately the harm done is about limited to partial disablement of the hands and deformity.

It is generally thought that the cause is some mild, long continued infection, though some think changes in blood chemistry is a factor. There is more than a doubt as to the efficacy of dieting in this disorder and, certainly, there is no excuse for rigid dieting.

People of that group are liable to be undernourished. Rarely are they overnourished. They are of an age when there is not much urge to overeat, or to eat heavy meat meals. This natural tendency of theirs supplies about all the diet regulation that is needed. In fact, generally goes a little too far and leads to mild undernourishment.

As to the other members of the group, called chronic rheumatics about the same advice applies. Some of them; and possibly all of them, are due to mild infections of one sort or another. It is certain that variation in blood chemistry is sometimes a contributing factor. Physicians prescribe diets for some of them. Some physicians think they can materially benefit a few of these chronic rheumatic disorders by diet. But there are great practical difficulties. The first relates to decision as to which one of the groups of rheumatics a given case belongs to. When this has been decided, the next question is whether dieting shall be done, and, if so, which.

As illustrating the fact that most physicians think dieting of secondary or less importance is the distribution of the equipment of the new Red Cross rheumatism clinic in London. There, emphasis is put on baths, heat and light treatment. Stoves, kitchens and foods are not to the fore.

Most chronic rheumatics are slightly undernourished. They tend to be anemic. The obese are rarely rheumatic and rheumatics are rarely obese. This suggests that the diet of rheumatics is not as liberal as it should be.

SICKNESS ON TRAIN RIDE.

Mrs. E. M. writes: What is the cause of getting sick and vomiting while riding in a train or automobile?

REPLY.

This is a variation of seasickness. It is caused by sloshing of the fluids in the semicircular canals, a part of the deeper ear machinery.

WASHINGTON: THURSDAY, MAY 22, 1930. 15

NATIONALS TRIUMPH TWICE OVER RED SOX, 10-2 AND 6-1; U. S. AND MEXICO OPEN DAVIS CUP ZONE PLAY HERE TODAY

DRAW SENDS ALLISON AND LOTT INTO FIRST OF SINGLES MATCHES

Chicagoan to Oppose de la Borbolla in Opening Contest.

Tapio Meets Allison; Bell and Mangin in Exhibition Play.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

DAVIS CUP play—the mystical animated mecca toward which all tennis eyes in sport turn—will come to Washington today when Mexico and the United States play at the Chevy Chase Club, commencing at 2:30 o'clock.

In the specially constructed tennis arena surrounding the exhibition court, before the cream of Washington's diplomatic and social life, Ignacio de la Borbolla, smiling and debonair Mexican, who once tampered with the intricites of bull fighting and jai alai, will take the court against George Martin Lott, of Chicago, America's young internationalist and ranking Davis Cup man.

Shortly after this match passes on into tennis history, Mexico's greatest player, the slight and determined Ricardo Tapio, jr., 20-year-old student of medicine at the University of Mexico, will lock racquets with Wilmer Allison, whose meteoric rise to the heights of American tennis in recent years has been one of the major romances of the sporting world.

Keen Pair of Tennis Fighters.

A keen pair of fighters are these two Latins, Tapio and Borbolla. A long trip from their home courts, the polite, but general charge in the air that their crusade is hopeless, the sudden illness of Llano and Unda, two of their players, the unaccounted-for "heaviness" in Washington's atmosphere, as compared with the sheerness of the air in Mexico City, have all done little to lessen their morale. They realize that they are stacking up against a group of the greatest players in the world, but both predicted yesterday that they were out to win if it were humanly possible.

Young Tapio practiced yesterday afternoon with Frederico Sendel, 19-year-old alternate. He hits the ball as cleanly as any one on the American Team. He is very quick on his feet, and quick to seize upon the slightest let-down of an opponent. Bob Kinsey, formerly in America's First Ten, and now living in Mexico City, had a hand in the fashioning of Tapio's game.

America's team worked out yesterday morning, but fearing that staleness might set in, took in the Washington-Boston double-header yesterday afternoon. Capt. Fitz-Eugene Dixon, whose management of America's Davis Cup Team during the last two years has stamped him as one of the keenest minds in tennis, announced last night that Lott and Allison were in splendid shape for the match today and were out to win.

Bell and Mangin On Title Court.

Berkeley Bell, United States alternate, and Gregory Mangin, America's tenth ranking star, practiced yesterday on the Davis Cup court, which is of a special chemical mixture which colors the clay into a deep brown and has the same effect on the bound of the ball as a grass court.

After the two singles matches today, Bell and Mangin, who hold two decisions over Tilden and Hunter, will play an exhibition doubles against a team to be named today by Capt. Fitz-Eugene Dixon.

The committee in charge of the matches today request that spectators be in their places before 2:30, as the players can not give their best play when their attention is distracted by moving objects of any sort.

PLAY FOR U. S.

GEORGE LOTT.

WILMER ALLISON.

By WILLIAM F. DISMER, Jr.

THE 1930 high school baseball series isn't officially completed yet, but it's as good as over. At ten minutes to 6 last night, when Pitcher Dick Lanahan, of Eastern, made Milton Jacobson, of Business, swing vainly at the third strike, ending the game, Eastern was officially crowned the interhigh diamond champion for the third consecutive year. Business, the last obstacle in its path, had fallen before it under a 13-6 score.

Even should Eastern lose its final game of the series with Western, its right to the title would not be altered, every other team in the series having lost two games, leaving Eastern as the only undefeated team at present.

Eastern Team's Victory Impressive?

It wasn't a walkaway for the winners yesterday to annex their third title in a row, but it was an impressive and convincing victory. In no inning did the three-time champions go wild with a scoring spree, distributing their thireen runs over eight innings, to score in every frame but the second. The steady accumulation of Eastern runs was like hammering nails in a coffin, slowly but surely making the Business Nine feel itself buried beneath a foe which brooked no superiors.

Given the "one good pitcher" annually required of a championship nine, Coach "Chief" Guyon saw his third successive winner dominated by the work of that individual yesterday. Besides holding Business helpless, Lanahan proved one of the leaders of the victorious attack yesterday, belting a home run and a two-bagger for two of the four extra-base hits of the day.

After doubling home Turner in the fifth, Lanahan smacked the ball high and far over the center-field fence in the lucky seventh, scoring Hayden ahead of him for two more Eastern runs.

Business Hurlers Unable To Check Enemy.

Given the same necessity of a title-winner yesterday, Coach Lynn Woodworth would have come mighty close toward winning his first high school championship since who knows when, but he simply did not have even one hurler capable of stopping even a medicore hitting team. It was a wistful sight seeing "Woody" trying to determine which of his three so-called pitchers to send to the mound before the game yesterday, and when he finally settled on Spencer Chase as the starting pitcher, it wasn't long before Business realized what a good first baseman Chase was.

The improvised slabman simply didn't have a thing on the ball and Eastern batters clouted him at will. Chase got off to a poor start in the first inning, when he hit McAboy in the back and saw him score when Snyder lined out the first hit a moment later. And after turning back the enemy in the second, Chase saw his offerings clouted to all corners of the lot for five hits and three runs in the third, every one of the

Browns Best Indians, 6-5; Ferrell Is Victim

Cleveland, May 21 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Browns opened their four game series with the Indians here today by taking the first game 6 to 5.

The Browns came from behind with a four-run rally in the sixth at the expense of Wesley Ferrell, ace of the Cleveland staff, and never relinquished the lead after that.

Improvement in Left Hand Pleasing to Schmeling; Bid To Join Drys Is Declined

By MAX SCHMELING
(As told to Jimmy Powers).

ENDICOTT, N. Y., May 21.—Now comes a dry society and asks that I join. This I respectfully declined. You see I never drink beer or ale in my training and stories were printed saying that my opponent, Jack Sharkey, drinks beer, and is a regular fellow, while I drink milk.

There is a dry league in Germany just as there is a dry league in the United States, but, of course, in my country the drys are not so powerful. It is pointed out that many young men make idols and heroes out of prize fighters, and if they read that their favorite prize fighter does not drink why maybe they can be induced not to drink when they grow up.

Max Not a Dry but Believes In Moderation.

That is very fine, but it never seems to work. I believe in temperance, and I do not believe young boys and girls should drink. For a working man who labors in a hot factory, a cool glass of lager is not harmful and he has the pleasure coming to him.

I am not a dry. I will not join the drys and I courteously refused the application today. In my country, which is wet, the people drink much beer and it is a leading industry, but they never abuse the privilege. I respect the drys who think

Al Foreman Annexes British Boxing Crown

London, May 21 (A.P.).—Al Foreman, of Montreal, Quebec, won the British lightweight boxing championship tonight, knocking out Fred Webster, holder of the title, in the first round of a twelve-round scheduled bout.

Foreman, during the years 1925-1926, made his fighting headquarters in Washington, and defeated Goldie Ahearn, now retired, for the District featherweight championship before 5,000 persons at Kenilworth.

Critz, Reds' Second Sacker, Traded for Benton, Giants

NEW YORK, May 21 (A.P.).—A pair of big baseball shoes standing practically empty around second base at the Polo Grounds since Frankie Frisch and Rogers Hornsby went away were filled today by a little fellow way down in Mississippi. The Giants announced that Hughey Critz had been procured from the Cincinnati Reds in a trade for Larry Benton, right-handed pitcher.

Critz, by more or less common consent for the last six years, has been acclaimed the best defensive second baseman in the National League. The Giants, after long boasting parity with or advantage over other clubs in the league at the important pivotal spot of the infield, fell into evil days when Frisch was traded for Hornsby and the Rajah in turn passed on to Boston.

For years Larry Doyle reigned supreme. Frisch was Fordham's gift to the Giants and then came Hornsby for a brief season. The Giants had Thompson, now a Phillie star, but parted with him while Hornsby was on the job.

Reds Break Up Great Combine Around Second.

In 1928 and 1929 Andy Cohen and Andy Reese divided the position between them, without conspicuous success. This year the second base job has been given out on a piecework basis to Eddie Marshall and Pat Crawford.

The coming of Critz to the Giants breaks up one of the greatest double-play combinations baseball has known. Horace Ford teamed with Critz in pulling spectacular defensive stunts, helping the Reds set a new record of 194 double plays for the 1928 season. In a game against the Giants in 1925, they made six double plays, tying the record.

A coincidence is that the two players figuring in today's trade were

Cards Defeat Reds On May's Wild Pitch

St. Louis, May 21 (A.P.).—A wild pitch by Jakie May in the seventh inning gave the Cardinals a victory over the Cincinnati Reds in the opening game of the series today. The score was 3 to 2. The score was tied, 2 to 2, with Douthit on third when May let loose one of the wildest heaves ever seen at Sportsman's Park.

Wild Bill Hallahan and Jim Lindsey allowed the visitors only five hits, while the Cardinals collected ten.

Helen Jacobs and Tilden On Winning Doubles Teams

AUTEUIL, France, May 21 (A.P.).—All the American players who managed to dodge intermittent showers long enough to remain on the courts and dispute their matches came through with victories in the French tennis championship today.

Playing under cold and wet tennis conditions, Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, Calif., and her Belgian partner, Jeanne Sigart, defeated Mme. Lebernerais and Mlle. Claude Anet, France, 6—2, 6—2, to enter the third round of women's doubles.

Tilden-Miss Aussem Enter Third Round.

The German-American combination of Cecilie Aussem and Bill Tilden advanced to the third round of mixed doubles by a 6—1, 6—2 victory over Mlle. Anet and Tamio Abe, of Japan's Davis Cup Team.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody was not scheduled and rain caused postponement of a doubles match in which Miss Jacobs and her partner, Wilbur Coen, of Kansas City, were to have appeared.

Because of two days of rain, the play in all three doubles divisions is considerably behind schedule.

The only thing approaching an upset came when Otto Frotzheim and Edmund Nourney, a veteran and junior, respectively, from Germany, eliminated Paul Feret, former French professional in the Pyle circus, and Lyttleton Rogers, of Ireland's Davis Cup Team. The Rogers-Feret combine had been expected to reach the semifinals.

Japanese Beat DeMorpurgo, Von Hoogstraten.

Takeichi Harada and Tamio Abe, of Japan, put out Baron Humbert De Morpurgo, of Italy, and Count Ludwig Salm von Hoogstraten, of Austria, in three straight sets.

Ruth Slams 3 Homers; A's Win Both

Babe's Circuit Clouts in First Game Tie His Own Record.

9-Run Rally Wins for Macks, 15-7; Second Score, 4-1.

PHILADELPHIA, May 21 (A.P.).—Before 30,000 fans the Champion Philadelphia Athletics turned back the New York Yankees in both games of a double-header today. Although Babe Ruth added one more record to his home-run hitting feats by connecting for three circuit blows, the Mackmen won the first game, 15 to 7. Rube Walberg pitched them to a 4-to-1 victory in the second.

Ruth became the first major league player to hit three home runs in a game on three different occasions by nicking George Earnshaw for two on his first two trips to the plate and getting another off Bob Grove in the eighth inning. But the Athletics wiped out a six-run lead and won the game by rallying for nine runs in the seventh.

Ruth Gains League Lead in Homers.

Ruth's three homers gave him the American League lead with nine for the season, while Jimmy Foxx took second place by hitting his eighth.

Al Simmons and Jimmy Dykes continued the four-base clouting to bring in three Philadelphia runs in the second game, while Walberg allowed the Yankees only five hits. Vernon Gomez yielded both long clouts before McEvoy replaced him in the seventh.

SILVERDALE WINS IN CHURCHILL DOWNS FEATURE

Colt Annexes Mile Race By Length

Lady Broadcast Second in Front of Royal Julian.

McLean Colt Given Winning Ride by Ambrose.

CHURCHILL DOWNS RACE TRACK, Ky., May 21 (A.P.).—E. B. McLean's crack 4-year-old chestnut colt Silverdale, with E. Ambrose in the saddle, led home his field to win the Seelbach Hotel Purse, the attraction here this afternoon. Lady Broadcast, from R. Caldwell's Stable, was second and Royal Julian, from W. H. Whitehouse's string, was third. It was Silverdale's second straight victory at this track.

The race was over the mile journey for 3-year-olds and up, and carried a net value of $1,200 to the winner, which covered the distance in 1:40 flat. Silverdale rewarded his backers at $21.58 for a $2 mutuel ticket.

Silverdale, away first, was rated in closest pursuit of Agincourt to the final drive where, under urging, he was pushed to the front to win a hard drive by a length. Lady Broadcast raced evenly under restraint to the stretch drive, passed the tiring Agincourt but could not get to the winner and finished second two lengths ahead of Royal Julian. The latter, the heavily played favorite, came strong from a slow beginning to take the show money. Nine horses started.

The weather was clear and the track rated as good.

Brown Wizard Shows Old Form.

New York, May 21 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Brown Wizard has come back to the races a good horse, following a year in retirement. He won the Hollis Stakes at Belmont Park today in even easier fashion than he scored in his first outing at Jamaica. The track still was on the slow side, although dry on top, and the 6 furlongs down the Widener Course was covered in 1:13, but Laverne Fator was easing him up four or five lengths in front of the speedy Mordine with the others fairly beaten off.

It was a claiming stakes, and Brown Wizard was entered to be sold for $7,000, but nobody stepped forward to take him away from E. F. Sanford. The purse was worth $3,700.

Al Green, an added starter, was widely tipped and had quite a following, but Brown Wizard always was the choice and a hot one around even money. The short price was a good one, as it turned out. Fator had him in a forward position all the way and, after going half a mile, drew out into a safe lead.

Fator came right back in the fourth race to win with the Rancocas Stable's Houssian at the profitable price of 10 to 1. Mrs. Payne Whitney's Comstockery looked like a standout on his race in the Kings County Handicap at Jamaica, but he ran a sluggish race and lost even third money in a drive with Cesare.

Houssian showed quick improvement over his last start, and ran back to his good race behind Son o' Battle at Jamaica.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ESTIN, $12.08, $7.54, $4.66; PHOTO'S STAR, $11.58, $6.12; BAR SINISTER, $3.28.

ESTIN, away well, was taken to lead on the far turn, saved ground and was never threatened. PHOTO'S STAR gave way when winner challenged and, holding on well under punishment through stretch, outlasted BAR SINISTER. Latter suffered from interference nearing stretch turn and closed stoutly when clear. MONOPLANE closed stoutly after meeting with interference on the turn. PALLADY had no mishaps. ROLL 'EM DOWN ran out while racing strongly on stretch turn.

SECOND RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 2-year-old maiden fillies. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:35½. Off at 2:37. Winner, LeMar Stock Farm's br. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—NADIA, $14.88, $8.96, $5.64; THUNDER NYMPH, $19.04, $9.82; WATER PORT, $4.06.

NADIA, away well and under hustling tactics, raced into a good early lead, held it under pressure and lasted to outgame THUNDER NYMPH. Latter, forced winner's pace throughout, made repeated challenges through stretch, but was not good enough. WATER PORT, probably the best, was crowded back right after start, came with a rush last sixteenth and would have won in a few more strides. SPRING CLEANING, well up throughout and saving ground, had no excuses. LILA suffered from lack of racing room, then tired when clear final eighth.

THIRD RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:02½. Off at 3:03. Winner, Greentree Stable's b. c. (3), by Spanish Prince II—Miccosukee. Trained by E. Haughton. Value to winner, $900; second, $227; third, $118. Time, 0:23, 0:50 2-5, 1:17 3-5, 1:45 2-5, 1.52.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MONTICELLO, $7.04, $3.32, $2.94; OLD CALLY, $4.28, $3.54; ROYAL SPORT, $4.72.

MONTICELLO, forward under restraint, saved all possible ground on inside and, responding gamely when apparently beaten a sixteenth out, was just up to win. OLD CALLY, under stout restraint to stretch turn, moved up with a rush on outside and, though continuing gamely, could not get up.

FOURTH RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $1,200; allowances. The Cherokee Road. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:30. Off at 3:33½. Winner, Kneblekamp and Morris' b. c. (2), by Spanish Prince II—Anna Horton. Trained by O. J. O'Connell. Value to winner, $900; second, $200; third, $100. Time, 0:24 4-5, 0:49 4-5, 1:04 4-5.

* Greentree Stable entry.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SPANISH PLAY, $3.90, $3.30, $3.38; TACK, $4.84, $5.40; SHINING, $5.40.

SPANISH PLAY was sent into contention right after the start, gradually disposed of TACK and, continued strong with much speed in reserve. TACK, forced wide first three furlongs, gradually worked way to front and, holding on gamely in the drive, could not withstand winner. SHINING, racing in close quarters first part, was taken back on far turn and, taken to the outside through stretch drive, closed stoutly. COUSIN JO closed good ground last three sixteenths. MARK ANTHONY, also in close quarters first part of it, could not reach a contending position.

FIFTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,600; allowances. The Seelbach Hotel. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:59½. Off at 4:01. Winner, E. B. McLean's ch. c. (4), by The Porter—Margaret Ogden. Trained by J. F. Schorr. Value to winner, $1,200; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:23, 0:47, 1:13 1-5, 1:40.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SILVERDALE, $21.58, $7.82, $4.02; LADY BROADCAST, $4.92, $3.28; ROYAL JULIAN, $2.42.

SILVERDALE followed AGINCOURT throughout, saved ground, responded well when urged midway of stretch and, holding on gamely, had enough left to hold LADY BROADCAST safe. Latter was held under strong restraint while racing prominently until, although steadily gaining last sixteenth, could not get to leader. ROYAL JULIAN made usual rush entering stretch, but appeared to hang in last furlong.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; allowances. The Rose Island. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:26. Off at 4:27. Winner, O. Terrell's ch. f. (3), by High Time—Miss Jasbo. Trained by C. H. Trotter. Time, 0:22 4-5, 0:48, 1:14 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SUPREME SWEET, $3.50, $2.60, $2.10; MISS BESS, $3.20, $2.34; ANTEBELUM, $2.32.

SUPREME SWEET raced as if the best, followed the leaders under stout restraint until reaching the stretch and, taking command, drew out decisively. MISS BESS, outpaced first half mile, moved up steadily thereafter on outside and, closing strongly, easily disposed of ANTEBELUM. Latter displayed a high order of early speed while saving ground, but weakened badly when challenged midway of the stretch.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:53. Off at 4:54½. Winner, R. Wingfield's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BRUNO, $16.10, $5.88, $4.50; TOMMY TICKLE, $4.00, $2.56; MARGATE, $4.74.

BRUNO took command at once, opened up good lead in first half mile and, increasing it on the stretch turn, had enough left to withstand TOMMY TICKLE'S challenge. TOMMY TICKLE followed the winner under steadying restraint, went slightly wide in stretch and closed gamely, but could not get up. MARGATE loomed up dangerously on outside, closed with good courage, but could not get to the leaders.

NAVY TEAMS BEAT MARYLAND IN THREE SPORTS

Middies Cop In Baseball, 6 to 3

Batson Weakens in Sixth and Tars Win Out.

Plebes Beat Frosh, 6 to 5; Md. Netmen Overwhelmed.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 21.—University of Maryland absorbed three defeats at the hands of the Annapolis midshipmen on Athletic Field at the Naval Academy this afternoon. Its varsity baseball team bowed to the Tars in a splendid contest by a score of 6 to 3, while the Navy Plebes took the measure of the Old Line Freshmen, 6 to 5. On the tennis courts the Naval lads overwhelmed the Terps, 8 to 1.

The varsity ball game was about the best seen here this season. It was a particularly sharp contest for five innings. Indications were that it would be a pitcher's duel to the end. Up to that stage, Batson, ace of the Maryland staff of hurlers, held a slight edge over "Heinie" Schultz, and the visitors by a clever but brief assault put one run across in the fifth, the only score up to that period. The orphan tally came as a result of a single by Tansil, a sacrifice by Galor, and Hetzel's single.

Batson Weakens in Sixth.

Batson weakened in the sixth session, however, when the Middies landed on his offerings for a homer and three singles, which with two passes and an error accounted for five runs. Fitzgerald started the inning with a smashing drive to deep right for the circuit. Ashworth drew a pass and O'Toole singled. Ashworth going to third. Gentner popped a fly to Radice. Radice gathered in Byng's grounder, and threw to second to cut off O'Toole. The throw was somewhat wide and bounded off Chalmers' gloved hand, and both Ashworth and O'Toole got home. Batson tightened up to strike out Stroh, but when he passed Lowrance singles by Gubbins and Schultz gave Navy two more.

This sudden turn of affairs seemed to take much of the pep out of the Terps, although they made a determined effort in the eighth.

The victory over the Maryland Freshmen ended the season for the Plebes. The game was a mound duel between Davenport, lanky Plebe right-hander, and McElwaa, of the Old Line Frosh. The Middies held a margin all the way, all of which was the result of solid hitting, including home runs by McEachern and Gallery and Ward's triple.

Plebe Scoring Done Early In Game.

All the scoring was done in the early innings with Navy settling down to defend its one-tally margin to the finish. Navy scored in pairs.

Featuring the tennis was the match between Johnson, Middie star, and Kurland, of the Old Liners, who holds the open championship of Baltimore City for 1929. The Tar won out in a slashing match, in which Kurland's misplays were a big asset to the Midshipman.

Rosenbaum, of the Old Liners, was the only other player to give Navy trouble in the singles, but he lost out in three sets. Maryland's only win was in the first doubles match when Chew and Robertson were defeated in three hard sets.

Legion Series Delays Start To Straighten Out Tangles

REPETITION of disputes and protest that have marred previous championship series will not occur in American Legion midget baseball competition in the District this year, Wessal Stewart, District athletic officer, announced yesterday, along with the statement that the start of the series has been indefinitely postponed. The series was scheduled to start Sunday.

No effort will be made to start play, legion officials stated, until all rules and regulations have been drafted and all arrangements completed and accepted by the team managers.

Six posts are expected to sponsor teams in the series. They are: Sergt. Jasper, George Washington, Lincoln, Victory, Spengler and Nash Posts. Quentin Roosevelt Post is also considering sponsoring a team.

It is probable that all plans will be completed in time to start play June 14 or 21.

MOHAWKS TO DRILL.

Georgetown, C. U. Nines Start on Jaunts Today

GEORGETOWN and Catholic Nines depart today on trips which will mark the finish of their 1930 campaigns, one seeking to defend and improve, if possible, an already imposing record and the other hoping to wind up with a flourish equal to its early season success.

Georgetown, with 19 victories and four defeats, will meet seven strong teams, while Catholic, possessing but five victories and nine defeats, will tackle three clubs. The Hilltoppers open tomorrow against Providence at Providence, R. I., while the Cardinals get under way this afternoon, opposing Delaware at Newark, Del.

Tomorrow Catholic will engage St. John's in Brooklyn and on Saturday its foe will be Seton Hall at South Orange, N. J. Holy Cross will entertain Georgetown on Saturday at Worcester, Mass.

Phil Mooney, Georgetown first baseman, has recovered sufficiently from a shoulder injury received last Saturday at Annapolis to take the journey. It is problematical that he will play this week, however.

Catholic will be out this afternoon to make it two straight wins over Delaware, which lost in a game at Brookland on April 9 by a score of 11-9. St. John's, of Brooklyn, and Seton Hall are new to the C. U. baseball schedule. Both are strong and doubtless will give the Brookland Nine plenty of trouble.

Georgetown has made a change in its schedule for next week, moving the New York U. game from Saturday to Thursday. This fills five successive days of competition for the Hilltop Team. The finale will be played with Yale in New Haven on Friday, Memorial Day. Boston College, Harvard and Army will be encountered Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

MILLSON TO COACH WONDERS.

Abe Millson, the peppery little coach who carried the Eastern All-Star Insects to a successful season last year, will be with the Wonder boys this year.

SIMMONS SWAMP JOHNSONS.

Al Simmons Insects swamped the Walter Johnsons, 15 to 5, yesterday. For games with the winners call Metropolitan 9329, between 5 and 6 o'clock.

HADLEY, BURKE PITCH TODAY

Red Sox May Use Gaston, Morris

Griffith Plans to Go West With Club, Will Scout.

No Trouble for Nats to Cut Down to Player Limit.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

IN THE respective pitching boxes, both games will see Nat youngsters opposing Boston veterans. The opener probably will show Irving Hadley on the home hill with Milton Gaston, former Nat, bearing the Boston mound burden, while Southpaw Bobby Burke and "Big Ed" Morris are expected to do the slabbing in the nightcap.

Hadley has shown that he now is at top form, while Gaston has been going great guns for the Beaneaters, indicating that this initial battle should be a pitching duel with little scoring. In the second, Burke, while winning his last start, is more or less of a problem and still has to prove his case. His task should be a little easier than Hadley's, as Morris has not been particularly effective and the dope indicates more Washington runs off his slants than off those of Gaston.

Nats to Cut Playing List One Man.

The question of getting down to the player limit of 25 by June 15 will not worry the Nationals, as only 26 names are on their roster now, including that of Harley Boss, who has been officially returned by the Chattanooga Lookouts; Pitcher Carlos Moore, whose status has not yet been decided upon, and Coach Ed (Patsy) Gharrity, who now is listed as a player.

If Moore is retained, all Manager Johnson has to do to get within the limit is to change the status of Gharrity from player to coach.

President Clark Griffith, of the Nats, plans to lend his moral support to the team by taking the coming Western trip with the Johnsons. He admits that he plans to run in a little business by leaving the club "somewhere in the West" to do a little scouting, having had a player recommended to whom he plans to give the "once over."

While the Nat owner would give no information as to what position the player he is considering plays, but, from other sources, it is learned that he is an infielder of some experience who, if he comes up to specifications, may be signed and carried along in Jimmy McLeod's place. The latter has made a great impression upon Manager Walter Johnson, so much of a one, in fact, that the Nat leader wants to farm him out where he will be played regularly and developed.

Regular Work Needed By Youngster.

It is feared that the youngster, a great fielder and thrower and promising batter, will slip back adorning the Washington bench, whereas a year of steady work would bring him back to the Nats next spring with a chance of him making good. "Mac" has not yet gotten in a regular ball game with the Nats this season.

President Clark Griffith yesterday received a season pass to games in the North African League, which operates in the vicinity of Tunis. Dr. M. J. Kelly, who forwarded it, apologized for the fact that the "Annie Oakley" was for the 1927 season. The Nat owner was not planning to use it any way, so the delay made no difference to him. Accompanying the pass was a letter saying that there are 72 teams in the circuit and recommending that Scout Joe Engel be sent there as Africa is a good field for "ivory hunting."

Pitcher Don Savidge, returned to the Nats by the New Haven Club, has been sent to Danny Clark's Evansville Club.

GIANTS GAIN CRITZ FOR BENTON IN DEAL

team mates on the Memphis Club of the Southern Association in 1922. Neither had extended experience in the minors when they came to the majors within a year of each other.

Critz was graduated from Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical College in 1920, the school that has engaged Red Cagle as a football coach. Critz played for his home town of Greenwood, Miss., until he was sold for $2,000 to Memphis. He was sold to Minneapolis in 1923 for $12,000 and Doc Prothro, now Memphis manager, and in 1924 went to the Reds for $30,000.

Benton Got His Start in Virginia League.

Benton started his career with Portsmouth in the Virginia League and joined the Boston Braves in 1923. He remained there until June 12, 1927, when he was traded to the Giants with Taylor and Thomas for McQuillan, Farrell and Greenfield.

Benton won 25 games and lost 6 in 1928, when his earned run average per nine innings was 2.73, but last year he won only 11 while losing 17, with an average of 4.14. In seven years of major league pitching he has won 91 games and lost 70.

This year Benton has been credited with one victory and charged with three defeats.

Critz batted only .247 last year, but his six-year batting average is .282. His best year was 1924, when he hit for .322. In 1928 he batted .296. This year he has been hitting at a .239 pace.

Little Hughey is a soft-spoken young man of 29 years with keen wit and high intelligence.

The smart Benton knows how to pitch, and a change of uniform may restore his mastery over National League batsmen. He is 32 years old, and in going to Cincinnati will be returning home. He was born and reared in the Ohio city and now makes his off-season home there.

NAVY PLEBE NETMEN WIN.

Annapolis, Md., May 21.—The Naval Academy Plebe Tennis Team defeated Gilman School, 7 to 2, here today. The Middies won five of the six singles and a majority of the doubles. Kenney, of Gilman, figured in both of his team's wins.

SINGLES—Loughlin (Navy) defeated Blachard, 6—0, 6—3; Rozea (Navy) defeated Delaunay, 6—1, 6—3; Chamblias (Navy) defeated Elliott, 2—6, 6—1, 6—4; Kimball (Navy) defeated Selden, 6—3, 6—1; Kenney (Gilman) defeated Banzhaf, 4—6, 6—4, 6—3; Tinker (Navy) defeated Dinneen, 6—1, 6—0.

DOUBLES—Seiden and Kenney (Gilman) defeated Chamblias and Kimball, 6—4, 6—4; Loughlin and Rozea (Navy) defeated Blanchard and Delauney, 6—8, 6—1, 6—4; Fielder and Neupert (Navy) defeated Elliott and Denneen, 6—2, 4—6, 10—8.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

National Pick-Ups

PROBABLY not wishing to take a chance on being mistaken for Red Sox, Shortstop Joe Cronin and Second Baseman Buddie Myer did not wear their red shirts when they took the field starting play yesterday.

Bob Reeves, former Nat, was at third yesterday, this marking his first game against the Nationals, as he was out early in the season suffering with a severe cold. He singled his first time up, following a big ovation from the fans, and got another safety later in the game.

FIRST GAME.

Goose Goslin was withdrawn after going to bat once, giving way to George Loepp. The Goose has been suffering from a slightly injured leg and limped considerably while running out his fly in the first. The change did not hurt the Nats any, for Loepp doubled his first two times up, each driving home a run.

Reeves did some snappy work in the second when he gobbled up Spencer' roller almost over third and started a double play which Regan and Sweeney finished. In the sixth this same combination tsopped another Nat rally with another double murder.

Bluege raced almost to the stands to snare Durst's high foul in the sixth.

In the seventh, Regan opened up with what appeared to be at least a triple, the result of a drive down the left field. The umpires ruled it foul, however, much to the disgust of the Sox bull-pen crew, who immediately rushed to the field and made the well-known "X," showing the spot "where the body lay."

Fans were given a good laugh in the seventh when Catcher Berry, protesting a called strike, stepped out of the box with Umpire Ormsby not granting time out. Seeing Jones continuing to pitch, he quickly hustled back and tapped at a soft one right over the plate. It went directly toward Myer for an easy out.

Reeves guessed wrong in the Nats' fifth, thus giving Loepp a double instead of a single. With Rice on third, Loepp shot one close to the third-base line. Seeing that he neither could stop Rice from scoring nor nail Loepp at first, Bob let the ball go by, hoping that it would be foul. It was not, this letting the runner carry on to second.

Judge, Nat first-sacker, had an unusually small number of chances for a man at his position, being credited with but five putouts.

In the seventh, Sammy West came in fast to make a fine catch of Pinch-hitter Miller's liner, which looked like a sure hit when it left the bat.

The flingers were particularly stingy with their passes. None of the Nats drew any, while Jones only handed out one, this not coming until the eighth.

SECOND GAME.

Oliver almost knocked Joe Judge down with a liner opening the game but the Nat captain hung on to the ball.

Scarrit drew a big hand in the Nats' first when he raced almost to the leftfield foul-line to fasten himself on the end of a hard-hit liner off Sam West's bat.

Liska walked Scarritt on four successive balls opening the alien second. A most unusual play followed, for Cronin and Myer then pulled the "Alphonse-Gaston" act on Regan's pop, but Bluege was on the job and hustled from third to second to take Cronin's throw to force out Scarritt, who thought the catch would be made at the middle cushion. Except in cases of run-downs of trapped runners, third-sackers rarely ever make putouts while covering second.

The Nats made short work of the Sox in their third, killing them in order on three mighty snappy plays. First, Bluege made a fine stop and peg on Heving's speedy hopper, then Judge scooped MacFayden's hot one out of the dirt, with the first-sacker grabbing a mean pick-up of Cronin's peg to kill Oliver for the third out.

Oliver raced almost to the scoreboard for West's drive in the third.

Fans were given a thrill in the fourth when Reeves led off with an apparent triple, the first hit made off Liska. West, however, hustled the return to Cronin and his nifty relay nipped Reeves at third by a small margin, Bluege taking the high toss with his gloved hand and putting the ball on the runner. As two more hits followed, this play saved at least one run.

Cronin's double in the fourth, which scored two runs, looked like it was headed for the left-field stands as it left the bat. It missed being a homer by several feet, however, hitting the wall just below the screen guarding the stands.

Starting the alien sixth, Cronin raced over back of second to rob Oliver of a safety. This saved a run, for doubles by Reeves and Scarritt came later in the frame.

Oliver covered plenty of ground in the Boston outfield. In both the fifth and sixth he made long runs to rob West and Cronin, respectively, of hits.

Earl Webb, traded by the Nats to the Red Sox for Bill Barrett, got in the game as a pinch hitter for Rhyne starting the seventh. But for a great catch by West near the stands in left center, he would have gotten at least a double. Later, Miller hit for MacFayden and Liska made a fine one-handed catch of his liner, making it a tough day for utility batsmen.

their methods are right, but I can not honestly join them.

My brother, my family and all at home drink beer. Maybe after I have finished training, I will drink beer but right now beer slows me up and cigars and cigarettes fill my lungs with nicotine, so I do not smoke. Each person's body is different and what affects me may not affect Sharkey. It's just like eating strawberries, onions or cucumbers. Some people can and some can not digest them.

Common sense and moderation should rule everything. It is just as bad to be too dry as it is to be too wet, no?

Today, I use my left more and more. My right is a bit slow on these smaller men, but I have solved them and am improving. I am bringing still more sparring partners into camp and have Jack Demave. I am not satisfied with my form and that is good, too, as Joe Jacobs says. When a man gets satisfied with himself, look out, yes?

I solved Petrin's style today. Fareda gave me trouble but, after I worked with these two fast men, then I took on the heavier Demave and I could what you say "call my shots," yes?

HUNGARIA TEAM INVADES.

Budapest, Hungary, May 21 (A.P.).—The football eleven of Hungaria has arranged a series of games with the United States beginning June 22 in New York. The team will go to Chicago, Mexico City and Havana, Cuba.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

ALEXANDRIA, Va., May 21.—Eleven varsity letters were presented to members of the Alexandria High School girls' basket ball team yesterday morning as follows: Misses Caton, Bell, Hoy, Gee, Martell, Coffey, Greene, Sheppard, Boxman, Gaines and Manager Bernice Fedder. The local girls had one of the most successful seasons they have ever had, winning the Third District championship.

Coach Prex Wilson's George Mason High School Baseball Team lost another game yesterday afternoon when the Woodward School, from Washington, handed the Potomac team a 20-to-9 defeat. Myers, on the mound for the winners, fanned thirteen batters.

Although late getting started, the Alexandria Police Department will place another baseball team on the field for the third consecutive year. The team again will be managed by Lawrence Padgett. Games are trying to be arranged with police departments in Norfolk, Richmond, Baltimore and other places.

The locals will be strengthened considerably since last season Edgar Simms, police sergeant, will captain the team this season, while George Everley will be on hand to take care of the pitching assignment. A number of players have been practicing and the team will be ready for action within the next week.

Herbert Bryant, former Episcopal High School and Alexandria boy, received his letter in baseball at the University of Virginia last week. Bryant also earned a letter in football this season. He is the only local boy on any team at the university.

Belle Haven Country Club, which played its first match in the Tri-State Association, ended in a tie with the Winchester Country Club and the match will be played off Sunday afternoon on the Winchester Course.

Alexandria High School Baseball Team, after winning eight consecutive games, will close its season Friday afternoon when it plays Emerson Institute on Baggett's Field, beginning at 3:30 o'cloc. The locals yesterday afternoon won from the Hyattsville High School to even up matters after losing the first game on their home field.

Charlie Corbett, director of the St. Mary's Celtics, has signed two new ball players to play with his club for the remainder of the season. Carter Biffey, former University of Virginia star, now coaching the Washington and Lee High School at Ballston, Va., will play one of the outfield berths, while Jake Brown, from the Shenandoah Valley, will play another one of the outfield berths. The outfield has been one of the weak points in the Celtics' machine this season and the addition of these two players should strengthen the club considerably.

The Kiwanis Club, of this city, defeated the Alexandria Rotary Club yesterday afternoon in tennis. Each year the clubs meet in tennis and golf.

NATS DEFEAT RED SOX BY 10-2 AND 6-1

Jones and Liska Hold Boston Batters in Check.

vanced on a wild pitch, and Loepp walked, filling the bases. With Rice up, Smith uncorked another wild pitch, scoring Ruel and moving the others up. With the count two balls and no strikes, Lisenbee came in and finished, walking Rice, this being charged to Smith's account. West singled Liska home before "Lizzie" could retire the side.

Although the visitors started off with a run in their first inning of the opening game, with Jones settling down and showing rare form, there was little doubt after the third but what the Nationals would cop. This first run resulted from Oliver's opening double. Reeves' single, and Durst's air sacrifice. Jones then granted but five more safeties over the balance of the route, two, wrapped around an opening base on balls netting the other alien run in the eighth, Oliver and Reeves contributing the bingles.

Nats Peck Away at Sox Pitchers.

Meanwhile, the Nats continually pecked away at the combined offerings of Russell and Shields. Although they had no "big" innings, they scored in seven of their eight turns at the tee. Singles by Myer and Cronin and Bluege's useful out knotted the score in the second and the Nats went in front, to lead thereafter, in the next canto when two runs were molded from a hit batsman, Loepp's double and Judge's single.

Bluege's triple and Spencer's sacrifice fly netted one in the fourth; Rice's triple and Loepp's second double were good for another in the next frame, while another "singleton" came in the sixth, thanks to two errors by Shortstop Rhyne, along with hits by Cronin and Spencer.

In the Nats' last two frames they tallied in clusters of two. Those in the seventh came from singles by Rice and West, an error by Narlesky, and Judge's double, while those manufactured in round 8 resulted from singles by Bluege, Jones and Rice. Shields, a young southpaw, was toiling in this latter frame.

Cumberland Rallies To Beat Clarksburg

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., May 21.—Cumberland checked its losing streak here today and, by a remarkable uphill rally, the Colts, spotting the Generals six runs, evened the series with Clarksburg. The score was 8 to 6. Joe Proctor, leading pitcher of the Mid-Atlantic, was pounded for four runs by the Colts in their half of the canto.

Score by innings:

	R.	H.	E.
Clarksburg..... 600.000.000	6	7	1
Cumberland... 403 010 00x	8	14	1

Proctor, Lawson and April; Huffman, Chase and Artigiani.

Dixie Tennis Honors To Hampden-Sidney

Special to The Washington Post.

Hampden-Sydney, Va., May 21.—Winding up the last day of the Virginia conference tennis tournament, Hampden-Sydney netmen walked away with championship honors. Fin Talbot, sophomore ace, annexed the singles crown by defeating his teammate, Capt. Pumphrey, in the final match and together these two captured the doubles cup from the Hampden-Sydney No. 2 team composed of Doug Thomas and Sloan.

Having every man entered in the finals of both competitions from Hampden-Sydney was a rather unusual circumstance, especially in view of the good opposition offered all the way up in the preliminaries.

Greenville Club Bought by Secretary

Greenville, S. C., May 21 (A.P.).—Sale of outstanding stock in the Greenville Baseball Club of the South Atlantic Association to John Martin, secretary of the team, was announced by former stockholders, who turned over the reins to the new owner.

Martin will take charge of the club immediately and will form his own executive organization. Stockholders who disposed of their interests at an amount not divulged were R. A. Jolley, president; Ed Cody, treasurer, and J. W. Flynn.

JOHN DAVIS HIGH GUN.

Moorefield, W. Va., May 21.—Thirty-two trapshooters participated in the tournament held yesterday by the Moorefield Gun Club. Shooting at 50 targets, John Davis, of Barton, Md., was high gun with 49. Tom Price, Frostburg, was runner-up with 47. The next five were: O. D. Williams, Luke, Md., 46; Bill Browning, Oakland, Md., 45; J. Sloan Arnold, Keyser, W. V., 44; Tony Francis, Westernport, Md., 43; Red Lashbaugh, Westernport, 42.

ELDRIDGE WOMEN WIN.

Norfolk, Va., May 21 (A.P.).—Led by Mrs. Boyd Morrow, Maryland State champion, a team of eight members representing the Eldridge Kennel Club of Baltimore, defeated the Princess Anne Country Club Women's Golf Team in a match played over the Princess Anne course here today. The point score was 17 to 7. Mrs. Morrow's medal score was 85.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Weather Bureau.
Washington, Wednesday, May 21—9 p.m.

Forecast: For the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia—Fair and warmer Thursday; Friday increasing cloudiness and warmer; moderate winds, mostly southwest and south.

The northeastern disturbance is central tonight east of Nova Scotia and moving very slowly eastward, Sable Island, 29.54 inches, and the extensive western disturbance is moving eastward with two centers, The Pas, Manitoba, 29.20 inches, and North Platte, Nebr., 29.42 inches. This disturbance has caused showers within the last 24 hours from the north Pacific coast eastward to the western portions of the Dakotas. Snow is falling tonight at Helena, Mont.; Yellowstone Park, Wyo., and Battleford, Saskatchewan. Fair weather has prevailed in practically all other sections of the country. Pressure is high from the Ohio and lower Mississippi Valleys eastward. Wilmington, N. C., 30.18 inches, and it is high and rising over the the north Pacific States and the northern plateau region, North Head, Wash., 30.44 inches. The temperature has risen in the great central valleys, the lake region, and the Middle Atlantic and North Atlantic States, and it has fallen decidedly from the western Canadian Provinces southward and southwestward over the Dakotas, the northern Rocky Mountain region, and the plateau region.

The indications are for generally fair weather in the Washington forecast district Thursday, and in the Atlantic States Friday, while the western disturbance will cause showers and thunderstorms Friday afternoon or night in the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, and the lower lake region. The temperature will rise in middle and northern sections east of the Mississippi River Thursday, and in the Middle Atlantic and North Atlantic States Friday, but the weather will become cooler Friday afternoon or night as far east as the Appalachian Mountains.

Developments today indicate the occurrence of a high flood in the Red River between Shreveport and Alexandria, La. Crests close to those of 1927 are expected. Water will pass flood stage at Alexandria about May 24, and a stage near 39 feet will probbaly occur June 1 to 5.

Clifton Forge Enters Class B State Finals

Fredericksburg, Va., May 21.—Clifton Forge High School defeated Fredericksburg, 7 to 6, here this afternoon in the semifinal game for the championship of Class B high schools in Virginia. The Yellow Jackets scored in the early part of the game and were in a 6-to-2 lead until the fourth inning, when the Mountaineers tied the score. Neither team scored until the eighth inning, when the Clifton Forge boys brought in the winning run.

Billy Heflin went the entire route for the Jackets with Lowery backing him up. Pyle and Cade shared mound duties for the visiting team with Newcomber behind the bat. Fredericksburg High collected eight hits, while their opponents connected for twelve hits.

Bob Nork Released By Cumberland Club

Cumberland, Md., May 21.—Bobbie Nork, shortstop, who joined the Cumberland Colts midway in the 1929 season, was handed his release today by Manager Phillips. Nork, who was a steady defensive player and a timely hitter last season, was a disappointment this year.

Some insist Nork did not give his best efforts here. In the winter he wanted to buy his release. He then wanted $400 a month and half the purchase price in the event he was sold. This was refused. Nork, whose home is in Shenandoah, Pa., is a nationally known football star. He was a half back three years ago at Georgetown University.

TURNOVER DWINDLES AS STOCKS DECLINE

Rails Rally as Telephone, Steel and Electric Shares Slump.

CASE LOSES 18 POINTS

New York, May 21 (A.P.).—The Bears found comparatively easy picking in today's stock market. With the exception of rallies in the food and rail shares, which were fairly well sustained, the short interest had the list virtually to itself. Although the close was enlivened by another flurry of covering, final prices of important stocks like U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Westinghouse Electric, General Electric and American Can were off on the day.

However, the market lost none of its professional character and trading again dwindled, totaling 2,078,400 shares, nearly a million and a half below yesterday's volume. Leading commission houses were said to be doing virtually no business with the public, which meant that the floor traders had their own way with prices. The situation was well illustrated by the performance of J. I. Case. Professionals toyed with this issue, whose small floating supply makes it extremely volatile, moving it up a couple of points and then dropping it about 28, only to bring it up 5 points from the low at the close. The net loss was 18¾.

Operators for the decline were aided by several items in the day's news. The steel trade reviews were unfavorable, pointing to another decline in both operations and prices, although Iron Age suggested that it was difficult to tell how much of the decline was due to caution rather than to curtailed consumption.

The Iron Trade Review pointed out that to unsteady demand and easing prices had been added "the further complication of probably the most drastic freight rate revision in the history of the industry." Reports from Cleveland said that quotations on semifinished steel had been reduced $1 to $2 a ton.

Car Loadings Drop.

The most recent car loadings statement revealed another drop. Calumet & Arizona Copper Co. cut its quarterly dividend to 50 cents from $1.50 and the stock fell about 10 points. Demand for farm machinery was said to be displaying slower tendencies.

Buying of the rails was pushed rather vigorously during the morning and early afternoon and gains of 1 to 3 points in Atchison, New York Central, Union Pacific, Rock Island, Southern Railway and Pennsylvania resulted, although several of the group failed to hold the top. Missouri-Kansas-Texas climbed 4 points on the expectation of the initial $1 quarterly dividend, announced after the close, but met with enough profit-taking to cancel most of the rise.

National Biscuit was strong, approaching its year's high. General Motors, in which important accumulation has been reported, found itself a selling target whenever it crossed 50 and was down nearly a point at the close. International Salt, whose directors were said to be contemplating a split-up and an extra dividend, rallied smartly. International Harvester, Eastman Kodak and Johns-Manville were heavy. American Machine & Foundry made one of its wide swings, soaring 16 points.

Bank Deposits Increasing.

The feature of the money market was a concession of a quarter of 1 per cent in long-term time loan rates. A rise of 3-32 in sterling cables was accompanied by reports that the Bank of England contemplated another reduction in its rediscount rate and that other central banks abroad might do likewise before the flotation of the German bonds, now expected early in June. At present the New York banks are virtually out of debt to the Federal Reserve, while their deposits are increasing rapidly in the face of the small demand for credit.

Refined sugar prices were reduced 20 points to a 4.70-cent basis. Wheat was held up fractionally on a bullish Government weather report. Corn eased from ⅜ to ⅞ of a cent. Cotton was quiet and irregular, closing 5 to 7 points lower.

Foreign currencies held generally steady. Aside from the firmer tone to sterling, a feature was a 6-point decline in the Spanish peseta.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, May 21 (A.P.).—Wheat values showed an upward trend today, aided by assertions that the grain stabilization corporation has absorbed much wheat at Buffalo, Montreal and elsewhere East. Furthermore, some speculative purchasing of Chicago wheat future deliveries was credited to the influence of traders who were active in expressing themselves as bullish on the United States. These men were contending that declines in commodity prices are unjustified by the actual economic outlook. There were also reports current that extensive wheat crop damage Southwest, Oklahoma and Kansas in particular, is threatened if the weather becomes unusually hot.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm, ¾ to ⅞ cent a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed ⅝ cent off to ⅛ cent up; oats, ⅜ to 1 1/4 cents advanced, and provisions varying from 12 cents decline to a rise of 5 cents.

It was estimated that ownership of fully 1,000,000 bushels of hard winter wheat at Buffalo, various other lake ports and Montreal has passed to the National Grain Stabilization Corporation, and that the purchase price has been a little higher than the cost to ship the wheat to Chicago. Another stimulating factor was something of a jump in Liverpool quotations, together with authoritative advices that as a result of the exceptionally small amount of wheat on ocean passage and because of curtailment of British supplies on hand, transatlantic import buying will have to enlarge. It was indicated that the greater part of such purchases would have to come from North America, and tha unfavorable wheat crop conditions in Europe is persisting.

Sharp attention was also given to reports from a widely known Chicago crop expert who sent dispatches today from Kansas City saying that as a rule wheat in southern Kansas and in most of Oklahoma has insufficient foliage to conserve soil moisture, and that exhausted condition of roots will require plentiful moisture continually, or that otherwise temperatures hotter than usual will bring about serious crop deterioration. On the other hand, transient setbacks in the wheat market here were ascribed to increased selling at times from the Southwest when prices bulged. The effect of such selling, however, was more than counterbalanced by scarcity of offerings in the final dealings.

Auspicious weather throughout the corn belt did much to handicap friends of higher prices for corn. Oats tended upward on account of lightness which developed in the May delivery.

Provisions were responsive to downturns in the value of hogs.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, July, 1.03¾ to 1.05⅝; September, 1.06⅛ to 1.07⅛. December, 1.10¾ to ⅞. Corn, July, 78⅛ to 79. 80⅛ to ⅛; September, 80¼ to ⅜; December, 73⅞ to 75⅛.

IRREGULARITY HITS TURNOVER IN BONDS

Carrier and Utility Issues Gain Slightly While Industrials Sag.

SALES SLUMP SHARPLY

New York, May 21 (A.P.).—The bond market was lethargic today, returning to its slow pace of the past few weeks after early orders were satisfied.

The stock privilege issues and secondary bonds in the lien group gave a ragged appearance to the market. Best investment bonds in the railroad and utility group moved up slightly. Traders apparently turned their attention to the new financing that was offered this week. Industrial issues slumped.

Trading in foreign bonds covered a wide field, many inactive issues being in fair demand. On the whole, they gained some ground. United States Governments were practically unnoticed. Liberty 4¼s being the only issue to gain attention.

Atchison General 4s, Rock Island 4s, Erie 5s, Missouri Pacific 5½s, Pennsylvania issues, Southern Pacific warrant 4½s were active and advanced from ¼ to ¾ of a point. Denver Rio Grande 5s rose 2 points. Railroad convertibles held firm in contrast with most stock privilege issues.

A $30,000,000 6 per cent convertible issue of B. F. Goodrich Co. will be offered tomorrow at 98. Other new financing includes a $3,500,000 5 per cent mortgage bond issue by the Illinois Commercial Telephone Co., priced at 95½.

CAPITAL TRACTION EARNS $45,692 NET

Income Drops $26,295.62, Compared With That of March, 1929.

PHONE REVENUES GIVEN

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

The March statement of operations of the Capital Traction Co. was submitted to the Public Utilities Commission yesterday and shows net income for March was $45,692.36 as against $72,087.98 for the month a year ago, a decrease of $26,295.62.

For the first quarter, net income totaled $116,546.01 as compared with $147,935.07 for the similar preiod in 1929, a decrease of $31,389.06.

Telephone operating revenues for the month of April were $740,501, with operating expenses of $530,022, the report of operations of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. to the commission showed. Net revenues after deducting taxes and uncollectible were $157,285.

For the four months ending April 30, the company's operating revenues amounted to $2,867,072. Operating expenses for this period were $2,107,240, making net revenues after deducting taxes and uncollectible $559,513. In 1929, operating revenues for the first four months were $2,801,222, with expenses of $1,978,451, making net revenues after deducting taxes and uncollectible, $613,275. Taxes for April amounted to $50,216, which was an increase of $2,706 over the taxes for the same month last year.

Additions at $3,698,625.

Gross additions to plant and equipment in the District of Columbia for the four months ended April 30 were $1,458,797. Retirements during this period wer $558,534, making net additions $900,263. Net additions to plant for the twelve months ending April 30 amounted to $3,698,625.

Washington was served by 161,772 telephones at the close of business April 30. During the month 726 telephones were added to the system. Telephone users made 17,937,700 calls during the month.

Life insurance business in the District of Columbia for April showed a 30 per cent increase over the month last year, according to the bulletin of the Life Insurance Sales Research Bureau, of Hartford, Conn. The percentage of increase over the first four months of 1929 was $19. April sales amounted to $6,860,000, and 54 per cent of the local companies reported gains during last month. National volume for April showed a 4 per cent gain over April a year ago.

Bank Essay Winners.

Miss Frances M. Pearce, employed in the new business department of the Federal-American National Bank, wrote the best paper in the annual essay contest of the District of Columbia Bankers Association, open to members of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, employed by association member banks. The essay of Louis E. Purnell, Riggs National Bank, was declared second best and that of Miss Catherine M. Krieg, same institution, third. This marks the third time Miss Krieg has been a winner in the contest, her essay last year rating first.

The papers of the foregoing three were considered the best in the contest. They dealt with one of two subjects suggested to contestants this year, "My Job. My duties. What are the requisite qualifications and how may I be of the greatest service to my bank in helping to increase earnings and reduce expenses?" But five papers were written on the second subject, however, and the essay of John C. Franzoni, Federal-American National Bank, was given honorable mention as the best on this, "How may the clearing of checks on nearby points be expedited?"

The three winners will be given, as prizes, free trips to the association's convention at Asheville, N. C., and it is probable a similar reward will be extended to Mr. Franzoni. Twenty-nine essays were submitted this year, the largest number in the history of the contest. Judges were President George O. Walson, Liberty National Bank; Vice President Francis G. Addison, jr., Security Savings & Commercial Bank, and Vice President Howard Moran, American Security & Trust Co.

$2,018,520 in Mortgage Loans.

Mortgage loans amounting to $2,018,520 were made in the District of Columbia by the New York Life Insurance Co. during the first four months of 1930.

A group headed by Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Guaranty Co. of New York, Bankers Co. of New York and Chase Securities Corporation is offering today $17,500,000 6 per cent cumulative second preferred stock of the American Smelting & Refining Co. at $103 per share flat. Proceeds of the issue are to be used for the acquisition of properties or securities in the construction of additional plants and for other corporate purposes.

American Smelting & Refining Co. is the largest nonferrous smelting and refining enterprise in the world.

Net income, after depreciation, obsolescence, depletion, interest charge and Federal taxes of the company and its subsidiaries for the five years ended December 31, 1929, averaged $17,769,408, or more than 3.7 times the annual dividend requirements on the 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock and 6 per cent second cumulative preferred stock to be outstanding upon completion of this financing. Net income for the year ended December 31, 1929, amounted to over 4.6 times such annual dividend requirements. These earnings do not reflect any benefit from the additional money to be provided by the present financing. Dividends are being paid at the rate of $4 per share per annum on the common stock, which, at present quoted prices, has an indicated market value of more than $125,000,000.

Curb Review

New York, May 21 (A.P.).—The curb market was a listless affair today, sales aggregating less than 700,000 shares, and prices moving irregularly and uncertainly. A few natural gas, oil and specialty issues made moderate progress.

Utilities were generally inclined to sag. Electric Bond & Share and American Superpower were active features, and each lost nearly a point. United Light A sold up a little, but lost its gain and closed a shade lower. Associated Gas and American & Foreign Power Warrants lost about a point each. Nevada and California Electric, however, shot up 7½ points in one of its characteristically wide moves.

Missouri, Kansas Pipe Line was a firm spot in the gas issues, rising fractionally to new high ground. National Fuel Gas sold up a point, and other issues moved narrowly. In the oils, Gulf made an extreme gain of 5 points, and closed up 3, net. Cosden and Columbia each lost about a point.

Technicolor was an acutely weak feature in the industrial specialties tumbling nearly 9 points to a record low at 51, and closing at 52. Columbia Pictures lost more than 3 points, and Cooper Bessemer, a firm spot yesterday, sagged a point in profittaking. Deere new stock dropped 4, then rallied 2. Davenport Hosiery, reached new low ground for the year. Van Camp Packing, which recently shot up to 16, sagged 1½ points to a new 1930 low at 7.

The Dresser Manufacturing stocks were firm, and Pacific Coast Biscuit rose more than 2 points, duplicating its best level of the year. In sympathy with strength of National Biscuit on the big board, Douglas Aircraft mounted about 2 points.

In the investment trusts, Reynolds rose more than a point to a new 1930 high at 8¼, and Chatham Phenix was firm. General Capital recorded a new 1930 minimum at 50½.

American Smelting and Refining Company

6% Cumulative Second Preferred Stock

The following information has been furnished by Hon. Simon Guggenheim, President of the Company.

History and Business

American Smelting and Refining Company, incorporated under the laws of the State of New Jersey in 1899, is the largest non-ferrous metal smelting and refining enterprise in the world.

The Company, directly or through its subsidiaries, is engaged in the mining, milling, reducing, smelting and refining of copper, lead, zinc, gold, silver and other metals, and manufactures a wide variety of metals and chemical products. Its operations in the field of smelting and refining are conducted at numerous plants strategically located in the important mining districts of Utah, Texas and Arizona and at locations on the Atlantic and Pacific seaboards. The Company owns or leases and operates producing properties situated in Mexico, Peru and Newfoundland.

The Company in recent years, through substantial investments in the General Cable Corporation and Revere Copper and Brass Inc., has materially broadened its interests in the manufature and fabrication of copper rods, wire, cable and similar metal products.

Purpose of Issue

The proceeds of this issue, together with the proceeds of $2,500,000 additional authorized second preferred stock presently to be issued for cash, are to be used for the acquisition of properties or securities, the construction of additional plants and for other corporate purposes.

Capitalization

(To be outstanding upon completion of present financing)

Series "A" 5% First Mortgage Bonds due April 1, 1947	$36,601,800
7% Cumulative Preferred Stock—$100 par value	50,000,000
6% Cumulative Second Preferred Stock—$100 par value (including this issue)	20,000,000
Common Stock—No par value	1,829,940 shs.

Balance Sheet

The consolidated balance sheet of the Company and its subsidiaries, as of December 31, 1929, adjusted to give effect to this financing and after deducting all reserves and the outstanding 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock at its par value, shows net tangible assets of $123,401,312, equivalent to more than $600 per share of the Second Preferred Stock presently to be outstanding.

Net working capital as of March 31, 1930, without giving effect to the proceeds from the sale of Second Preferred Stock, amounted to $66,007,091, as compared with $67,465,642 on December 31, 1929. Cash, demand loans and United States Government Securities owned alone amounted to $25,039,662, as against total current liabilities of $22,613,064.

Earnings

Net earnings and net income of the Company and its subsidiaries, as certified by Messrs. Haskins & Sells based upon their audit of the general books and examination of reports received from plants, mines and subsidiaries, have been as follows:

Year Ended December 31	Net Earnings from Operations and Miscellaneous Sources	Net Income after Depreciation, Obsolescence, Depletion, Interest Charges and Federal Taxes
1925	$27,978,626	$15,190,760
1926	30,151,293	17,760,721
1927	27,970,606	15,477,770
1928	31,101,763	18,586,204
1929	34,462,872	21,831,583

Net income for the 5 years ended December 31, 1929, as shown above, averaged $17,769,408 or more than 3.7 times the annual dividend requirements on the 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock and 6% Cumulative Second Preferred Stock to be outstanding upon completion of this financing.

Net income for the year ended December 31, 1929, amounted to over 4.6 times such annual dividend requirements. These earnings do not reflect any benefit from the additional money to be provided by the present financing.

It is expected that the unsatisfactory conditions at present existing in industry and the low prices prevailing for refined non-ferrous metals will be reflected in the current earnings of the Company.

Equity

Dividends are being paid at the rate of $4 per share per annum on the common stock which, at present quoted prices, has an indicated market value of more than $125,000,000.

Application will be made in due course to list the Second Preferred Stock on the New York Stock Exchange

6% Cumulative Second Preferred Stock authorized and presently to be outstanding (including this issue), $20,000,000. Par value $100 per share. Dividends payable quarterly March 1, June 1, September 1 and December 1, beginning September 1, 1930. Subject to the $50,000,000 authorized and issued 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock, the 6% Cumulative Second Preferred Stock is preferred as to assets and as to cumulative dividends and entitled to payment at its par value and accrued dividends upon any distribution of assets other than profits. Entitled to equal voting power per share with each of the other classes of stock.

Redeemable, as a whole or in part, at the option of the Company on any dividend date on sixty days notice at 105% and accrued dividend.

Dividends exempt from present normal Federal Income Tax

$103 per share flat

Kenny Will Helps Community Home

Neighborhood House Is Named Chief Beneficiary in Admiral's Will.

Rear Admiral Albert Sewell Kenny, U. S. N., retired, who died May 17, left most of his estate to the Neighborhood House at 470 N street southwest, according to the terms of his will filed yesterday for probate in District of Columbia Supreme Court.

The Union Trust Co. of Washington, which is named executor, is directed to turn over to the Neighborhood House everything after specific bequests are paid. No value of the estate is revealed in the petition accompanying the filing of the will.

Albert Kenny Craven Palmer, U. S. A., retired, namesake and godson of Admiral Kenny, was bequeathed the home at 1402 Chapin street northwest, with furniture and other equipment. Several servants and friends also were remembered in the will.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

WILFLEY WILL HEAD MISSIONARY GROUP

Washington Man Elected by Society at Convention in Ballston.

MEETING ON BOND ISSUE

ARLINGTON COUNTY.
BUREAU OF THE POST.

Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Earle Wilfley, of Washington, was elected president of the Maryland, Delaware and District of Columbia Christian Missionary Society at its fifty-third annual convention held in the Ballston Christian Church yesterday. Other officers are: L. E. Cousins, of Baltimore, Md., first vice president; William M. Norment, of Hagerstown, Md., second vice president; S. Read McAlpin, of Washington, third vice president; J. A. Scott, of Washington, recording secretary; C. N. Williams, of Washingon, evangelistic secretary, and J. N. Pickens, of Washington, treasurer.

Following the election, reports were received from the following persons: Maryland woman's work, by Mrs. Herbert E. Stover; District of Columbia woman's work, by Mrs. Howard Mann. The report from the executive committee, submitted by Mr. Pickens, showed much progress during the year and included many recommendations to be considered following the national convention which meets in the District of Columbia in October.

Proposals to hold the 1931 convention jointly with the Virginia group were received and will be considered by the executive committee at a future meeting.

The convention closed with a night session held in the Ballston Christian Church, opening with devotional services conducted by Mrs. B. H. Melton. The sermon was preached by the Rev. B. A. Abbott, editor, Christian Evangelist, St. Louis.

To give the voters of Washington District first-hand information on the school and sewerage bond issues, the former for $640,000 and the latter, $2,173,089, President Julian Simpson, of the Cherrydale Citizens Associations announced yesterday that there will be a mass meeting in the auditorium of the old Cherrydale school building tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp will discuss the school bond issue while, County Engineer C. L. Kinnier will discuss the sewerage bond issue and County Health officer Dr. P. M. Chichester will speak on the urgent need of a county sewerage system and its value to the future development of Arlington County.

Clarendon Lodge, No. 1315, Loyal Order of Moose held its monthly meeting last night in the dining rooms of the Boulevard Bakery at Clarendon.

Announcement was made that the campaign for new members is meeting with much success. It was stated that reports received from James W. Davis, Secretary of Labor and director general of the Moose, that lodges are now progressing in 1,700 cities, showing a total membership of nearly 800,000.

Among the new members elected to membership in the local lodge are State Senator Frank L. Ball, Alan B. Prosise, Louis A. Schro, Edwin L. Steger, George R. Kern, William S. Harris and Joseph D. McDonnell.

The night school at the Washington-Lee High School completed its first year last night. The maximum enrollment during the entire course, according to an announcement made by S. P. Vanderslice, was in excess of 80 pupils.

Miss Kathleen Palmer, of Clarendon, was judged the star pupil. She completed a full year's work in bookkeeping, shorthand, typewriting and English. In all these classes she attained an average in excess of 95 per cent.

Invitations went out yesterday to mothers and fathers of members of the Cadet Corps of the Washington-Lee High School to attend the special drill in their honor to be held on the parade grounds tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Tomorrow night at 8 o'clock the Washington-Lee High School Cadet Corps will hold its fourth annual banquet at the school. Cadet Maj. Walter Horn will be toastmaster.

Among the speakers will be County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp, State Senator Frank L. Ball, Maj. E. W. Cushing, Thomas J. DeLashmutt, A. D. Davis, members of the county school board, S. P. Vanderslice, principal of the school, and Maj. C. S. McNeil, U. S. A., retired.

Owing to a small attendance of members of the Ashton Heights Citizens Association at its meeting held last night, the association failed to take any action on the proposed county-wide trunk line sewage system.

It was announced that plans will be made to hold a mass meeting within the next few days at which time County Engineer C. L. Kinnier will be asked to review the plans for the installation of the system.

W. J. Massie was elected delegate to the Arlington District Council of Citizens Associations to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of C. I. Kephart. Mr. Kephart recently was appointed member of the Public Utilities Commission.

C. L. Kinnier, county engineer, speaking at the monthly meeting of the Arlington-Fairfax Volunteer Firemen's Association Tuesday night at the Cherrydale Firemen's Hall, gave an outline of proposed plans for the installation of the county-wide trunk line sewage system as provided for in the proposed bond issue for $2,173,089 on which the county will vote on Monday, June 9.

The fire chiefs who have inspected the county public schools reported that the school buildings of Arlington County conform to all fire regulations. Only two of the five school buildings inspected in Fairfax County were found to conform with the fire regulations. County engineers will be asked to eliminate fire hazards at the school buildings.

The annual meeting of the ladies' auxiliary of the Ballston Fire Department will be held at the firemen's hall this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Officers will be elected.

Weather permitting, the May Day celebration at the James Monroe School will be held on the school lawn tonight at 6:30 o'clock under the joint auspices of the teachers and the Parent-Teacher Association.

At a largely attended meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Jefferson Colored School held in the school auditorium the association unanimously indorsed the proposed school bond issue for $640,000.

Mrs. President C. V. Powell presided.

Charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, James Boyd was held for the action of the grand jury by Police Judge Harry R. Thomas in police court yesterday. He was released on $500 bond for his appearance at the June term of the Circuit Court of Arlington County.

A building permit was issued in the county engineer's office to Mrs. Grace White yesterday for the erection of a building to be located at the intersection of Ballston avenue and Belair avenue. The cost will be $15,000.

The new building will join the new building recently constructed by Mrs. White in which the Ballston Post-office is located.

According to an announcement made last night by S. P. Vanderslice, principal of the Washington-Lee High School, a golf club numbering 32 members has been organized at the school. Meredith Smith has been elected president. The club is being sponsored by R. Keiferle, of the school faculty.

The Arlington County Monarch Club will hold its weekly luncheon meeting today at the Ashton Heights Woman's Clubhouse.

There will be a physical educational program presented by the pupils of the school on the school grounds tonight at 6:30 o'clock under the direction of W. A. Richardson, director of athletics in the county public schools.

The program will include dancing and singing by pupils of the first, second and third grades; mass drill by the pupils of the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades; and relay races and team games by the pupils of the fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

Mrs. Margaret S. Tapp, president of the ladies' auxiliary to the Arlington Volunteer Fire Department, announces the appointment of Mrs. George Cook, Mrs. C. P. Heins and Mrs. John A Dawkins as members of the nominating committee to select a slate of officers. The election will be held at the meeting to be held June 11, at the new firemen's hall on Buckley avenue.

POSTMASTERS MEET IN VIRGINIA SESSION

Aid of Postmaster General and William W. Mooney Make Addresses.

200 ARE IN ATTENDANCE

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., May 21.—Addresses by Arch Coleman, First Assistant Postmaster General, and William W. Mooney, postmaster at Washington, D. C., featured the morning session of the annual convention of the Virginia League of District Postmasters.

Nearly 200 postmasters from all sections of the State were present at 10 o'clock, when the convention was called to order in the clubroom of the Monticello Hotel by President R. Lee Griffith, of Hague. The visitors were welcomed formally by Representative Jacob A. Garber, of the Seventh Virginia District, and the response, on behalf of the league, was made by A. J. Sutherland, of Sutherland.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon the First Assistant Postmaster General was the guest of honor at an informal luncheon given by the chamber of commerce at the Farmington Country Club. Others at the luncheon were: Representative Garber, Postmaster Mooney, of Washington; Joseph W. Stuart, postmaster at Richmond; R. Lee Griffith, president, and Waverly S. Barrett, secretary-treasurer, Virginia League of District Postmasters; V. H. Stonesifer, national secretary of the organization; Mayor J. Y. Brown, City Manager H. A. Yancey, County Manager Seth Burnley, Roscoe S. Adams, secretary of the chamber of commerce; James L. Humbert, city postmaster; J. Edward Kinney, superintendent of mails at the city postoffice; J. H. Lindsay, editor of the Daily Progress; Dr. J. D. Newcomb, of the University of Virginia, and Ernest R. Duff, supervisor of census.

Following an address at the afternoon session by V. H. Stonesifer, secretary of the national league, the postmasters were taken on motor trips to Monticello, Ash Lawn and the University of Virginia.

The annual banquet of the league was held at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the Monticello Hotel.

The league will hold business sessions tomorrow morning and afternoon. L. T. Binns, of Providence Forge, is vice president of the league.

Man Kills Brother And Self With Gun

Third Loses Arm by Shot as Relative Goes Crazy in Clarksburg.

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., May 21.—Of three brothers who were shot, when one of them went crazy and began firing with a shotgun late yesterday, near Vegan, 9 miles out of Buckhannon, only one, Frank Burke, 56, farmer, was alive today.

Burke is a patient in a Buckhannon hospital with part of his right arm shot away and physicians said that if he recovers he will be crippled for life. The dead men are Edward Burke, 43, who did the shooting, and Thomas Burke, 49.

Edward, before he died, gave no reason for the shooting, except to say there was trouble and he "had no sense." He leaves a young wife and an infant daughter. The other brothers were bachelors.

THREE YOUTHS HELD IN JEWELRY HOLDUP

Customers and Proprietor Bound in Baltimore Gem Store.

POSTMAN FOILS PLANS

Baltimore, Md., May 21 (A.P.).—Three young bandits, trapped by police today in a Charles street jewelry store where they had bound the proprietor and two patrons, confessed to holdups in Philadelphia and Atlantic City and to one other in Baltimore, officials said after they had questioned the youths for several hours.

The trio was surprised by two traffic patrolmen. They had been summoned by a postman who discovered the bandits in the second floor store of George F. Ruoff. Jewels valued at $20,000 had been gathered and were in a paper bag on a counter.

The holdup men had entered Ruoff's place, police said, blackjacked, bound and gagged him and E. A. Elderly, a customer, and were selecting jewels and merchandise when a woman customer, Mme. Ellen De Leuenhaupt, entered. She was seized, gagged, bound with wire and thrown to the floor.

After the three, who gave their names as Alfred Herring, Charles Cramer and George Meredith, had been taken to headquarters, they admitted, police said, the Atlantic City and Philadelphia holdups, and the $2,000 robbery of an apartment here.

All three gave ages under 19 and said their home was in Jacksonville, Fla. They told police they had been living here recently.

Cumberland Gives Fund for Airport

Sum of $5,000 Appropriated by City Council for Founding Field.

Cumberland, Md., May 21.—The mayor and city council of Cumberland last night appropriated $5,000 toward establishing a municipal airport for Cumberland. The Alleghany County commissioners are also expected to make an appropriation toward the project.

The site selected is located between the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks, near North Branch, 4 miles east of Cumberland. The area comprises two farms and a part of another, consisting of about 350 acres.

The airport near Cresaptown, started by a private company last year, did not meet the requirements of the Department of Commerce inspector. The Mexico Farm's emergency field also failed to come up to the standard, but the site now proposed meets approval. The airport committee is composed of J. Milton Patterson, chairman; W. Russell Brewer, Arthur J. Weber, A. Hammond Amick and William Culland.

Virginia Pastor Accepts Call.

Welch, W. Va., May 21.—The Rev Lyle H. Youell, of Richmond, Va., has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Presbyterian churches at Vivian and Northfork in this county. He is a young man, just graduated from the Union Theological Seminary in Richmond. For some time past the Rev. W. C. Williams, pastor of the Welch Presbyterian Church, has been the only ordained Presbyterian minister in McDowell County.

DISTRICT LABOR RIFT GOES TO FEDERATION

Action at Salisbury Session Averts Split of Capital and Baltimore Factions.

OLD-AGE PENSION ASKED

Special to The Washington Post.

Salisbury, Md., May 21.—Several matters of legislative character affecting the District of Columbia were indorsed by the annual convention of the Maryland-District of Columbia Federation of Labor here today.

A resolution advocating the abolition of the post of director of traffic and subordinates attached to that office by reorganization of the Police Department was unanimously adopted by the federation. It was asserted such action would save the city of Washington "approximately $32,000 of the taxpayers' money."

The federation indorsed old age pension laws for Maryland and the District. The executive board was instructed to draft a bill for presentation to the Maryland General Assembly.

American Body Gets Split.

After 40 minutes of discussion upon Gov. Ritchie's stand on workmen's compensation, child and convict labor and prohibition, the convention adopted a resolution indorsing the Maryland executive for re-election.

The split in the federation between the Baltimore delegates, on the one hand, and western Maryland delegates was temporarily averted when the convention voted to place the whole matter in the hands of the American Federation of Labor for settlement.

The Baltimore delegation did not object when the laws committee asked that the resolution for dissolution of the federation be handled in this manner.

Senator Millard E. Tydings was commended and Senator Philip Lee Goldsborough censored for their stand on matters pertaining to organized labor.

Hamilton Is Reelected.

Baltimore was chosen as the 1931 convention city of the Maryland-District of Columbia Federation of Labor after Cumberland and Frederick, also placed in nomination, had withdrawn.

Irvin C. Hamilton, of Cumberland, was reelected president; Frank J. Coleman, Washington, secretary, and J. E. Toone, Washington, treasurer.

Vice presidents of rank in the order named were elected as follows: Newton A. James, Washington; Lee Lackey, Cumberland; R. A. Dickson, Washington; John M. Reed, Washington; Charles E. Young, Washington, James J. Brehany, Cumberland; John L. Giest, Hagerstown.

Baltimore delegates had declined to accept any nominations and only two or three were in the convention this afternoon when the convention city was selected and officers elected.

State Postmasters to Meet.

Morgantown, W. Va., May 21.—The annual meeting of the West Virginia branch of the National League of District Postmasters will be held next Monday and Tuesday in this city, bringing together a large number of Federal officials. The annual banquet will be a feature, and Harry Engle, of Fairmont, will be toastmaster.

COURT ORDER LIFTS FINE IN DRUNK CASE

War Veteran Offers to Let Car Be Sold, but Is to Serve Term Only.

DANIEL FILES FOR MAYOR

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

An unusual order was entered yesterday in the Fairfax County Circuit Court by Judge Walter T. McCarthy. Deputy Clerk Elton R. Holbrook stated there was no other order like it in the history of the court. Robert Guthrie pleaded guilty to an indictment of driving while drunk. He was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail. By his attorney he stated to the court that he had a car that was valued at $100, which he would surrender to the Commonwealth to be sold by the sheriff at public auction and the money received to be applied toward his fine and costs, subject to a lien of one-third for counsel fees. It was shown the court that he was a World War veteran and he had no other property or money. The court ordered him to be discharged on completion of the jail sentence without further payment of fine and costs.

The appeal of E. T. Kitson from a decision of Justice of the Peace John B. Dowden, where he was convicted of reckless driving, was dismissed at his own costs.

Sheriff Eppa P. Kirby stated to the court that it was necessary for him to have another deputy, and recommended that Paul J. Hermann, of Falls Church, be appointed. The court appointed Hermann and he was sworn in.

The Frick Co. was granted judgment against Eugene Rogers for $700 with interest from December, 1927, and attorney's fees and costs subject to a credit of $50. D. K. Miley was granted judgment on a homestead-waiving note against Arthur and Mamie Smith for $1,075 with interest from October, 1928, plus all costs. The Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey was given judgment for $765.29 against the Mount Vernon Airways, Inc., together with interest from August, 1929, until paid, and costs. A judgment against William and Mary M. Proctor was granted E. L. Hawse on a note for $35 with interest from March, 1930, attorney's fees and costs.

Maj. Leonard P. Daniel, of Falls Church, has filed notice with Town Clerk Thomas Probey that he will be a candidate for mayor in the town election June 10. He will oppose Capt. John F. Bethune, the incumbent, who filed for reelection earlier in the week. Daniel has served as councilman from the Third ward for two years and is president of the Northwest Citizens Association. Other notices filed for councilman are J. V. Turner, of East Falls Church, who will oppose Phillip Talbott as councilman from the Second Ward; Dr. Joseph Allison will oppose Milton E. Roberts for councilman from the Third Ward; W. T. Westcott, councilman of the First Ward, has no opposition to date.

The Houston Men's Bible Class of the Crossman Methodist Church at Falls Church will give a supper tonight in the basement of the church. The Rev. George Conner will be in charge, with Mrs. H. S. Garrison assisting as representative of the Ladies' Aid Society of the church.

The honor roll of the Herndon School for last month contains the following names: Joseph Moffett, Marie Baker, Arthur H. The representatives of the five granges of Fairfax County will meet tonight in the office of County Agricultural Agent H. B. Derr at Fairfax to discuss the proposed plans for opening a market stall in Washington for grange members' produce. Members of the grange regard this as one of the most constructive projects that they have undertaken.

The Falls Church Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution will hold its annual election today at the home of the regent, Mrs. Pierce Horne, in Washington.

The regular meeting of the West Falls Church Branch Auxiliary of the Falls Church Episcopal Church will be held this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Edna Ball.

The Vienna Volunteer Fire Department has decided to hold its annual carnival on the grounds of the Vienna School on July 4 and 5. A committee composed of Arthur W. Leonard, Leon L. Freeman and F. A. Wilcox was selected to take charge of the necessary advertising. An automobile committee composed of J Lovell Jeffries, Vernon Gowin, Lloyd E. Wright, J. Gilbert Berry and George Hummer was also selected. A report made by the special committee on motion pictures stated that beginning Saturday night motion picture shows will be given weekly under the auspices of the department.

The baseball team that is also sponsored by the fire department has been reorganized for this year. Bert Phillips was selected as president and manager, John Phillips as secretary, Lloyd E. Wright as treasurer and Garner Green as captain.

The Library Association at McLean will hold a special meeting this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Amos H. Chilcott, president of the Garden Club at Fairfax, will address the members on the formation of a garden department. According to preliminary plans the association and garden department would meet at the same time in the library, if feasible.

The Oakton Methodist Church will sponsor a motion picture on the Freiburg Passion Play, that is given every five years in Switzerland, tonight in the auditorium of the school at Oakton.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DAILY

LUELLA, giving me the final inspection before going downtown, noticed the headgear.

"Where did you get that hat?" she asked.

"That sounds like a song," I parried.

"What sounds like a song?"

"Where did you get that hat?"

"I asked a question: Where did you get that hat?"

"I heard you——"

"Well, why don't you answer——"

"Answer what?"

She grew fidgety, stomped her foot.

"Where did you get that hat?" she demanded, a tone of authority in her voice, and what could I do?

"What hat?"

* * * *

IN exasperation she snatched the bonnet from my head.

"This," she said, showing it to me. "This thing that sits on your head like a peanut——"

"A peanut?"

"It's too small for you——"

So that was the trouble with it.

"Well," I explained, "that is the hat I got at the banquet last night——"

"The banquet? Did they give out hats at the banquet?"

"Not quite that. I lost mine, and got this."

"Oh! you lost your hat——"

"Yeah, lost."

"A fine banquet that must-a been," she flashed, a look of disgust in her eyes.

IT WAS up to me to defend the banquet: "Didn't you ever hear of a man losing his hat at a banquet?" I asked, registering sarcasm.

"A man, yes," snapped Luella, "but never a woman."

"Well, I'm not a woman—So I lost my hat."

"Didn't they have a checking place at the banquet?"

"Of course they had a checking place——"

"And did you check your hat?"

"Yep!"

"Well, howdja lose it——?"

"Search me," I said, "it must-a been after the banquet."

She grew suspicious. "So! You didn't lose it at the banquet——"

"Well," I hummd and hawed, "I must-a——"

* * * *

SHE looked at the inside of the hat, saw the initials, D. S. T.

"Who's hat is this?" she asked

"I don't know. It must be some other fellow's."

She went to the phone, called up the paper, put an ad in the Lost and Found column:

"What did'y'u do that for?" I asked.

"To find your hat," she said. "I want it back——"

"Well, I don't, it's so old——"

"Well, I do!"

"Why?"

"Sentimental reasons," she said, and I loved her for it—"It's the hat you wore at our wedding."

YOUTHFUL FARMERS WILL ATTEND RALLY

Sixth Annual Gathering at V. P. I. to Draw 1,000 Virginia Boys.

MANY EVENTS PLANNED

Blacksburg, Va., May 21 (A.P.).—More than 1,000 Virginia boys whose paths incline toward agriculture will gather at Virginia Polytechnic Institute on June 17, 18 and 19 for the sixth annual rally of the Future Farmers of Virginia, announced today by Walter S. Newman, executive secretary of the organization and State supervisor of agricultural education.

One hundred and fifteen local chapters of the Future Farmers of Virginia will send delegates to the three-day meeting, which will include contests in stock and crop judging, field events and public speaking. Approximately 100 teams are expected for the judging competitions and the field events usually draw about 150 entrants.

Stock and Crop Judging.

The judging of stock and crops will take place on the mornings of June 17 and 18, and entrants will be allowed to pick four subjects and will have four required, which are hogs, dairy or beef cattle, corn and poultry.

The others may be chosen from grains, tobacco, sheep and other live stock and crop classifications.

The public speaking contests will be held on the night of June 17 and will constitute the finals to district events which have previously been held.

The winner at Blacksburg will go to Athens, Ga., on October 25, to compete in a regional event, and the winner there will take part in national contests at Kansas City in November.

Program of Athletics.

Athletic events of the field meeting will be sponsored by the V. P. I. Athletic Association. They will include races of 100 and 220 yards, half mile, mile, relay and contests in high jumping, pole vaulting, shot put and running broad-jump.

Last year the track events were won by Handley High School, of Winchester, and Mica High School, of Carolina County, captured the cup for judging.

Ernest Mapp Dunton, of Nassawadox, Northampton County, is president of the Future Farmers of Virginia and will preside at the meetings. V. P. I. is turning over to the young visitors all its facilities and the boys will eat in the mess halls and live at the dormitories while the meeting is in progress.

The third, or State farmer degree, is to be conferred on twenty outstanding members of the organization during the rally.

LABOR UNION URGES TEACHERS TO ENTER

Virginia Federation Refuses to Censure Senators for Parker Vote.

PARLEY COMES TO END

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., May 21.—The thirty-fifth annual session of the Virginia State Federation of Labor, which convened here Sunday night last, adjourned sine die today after a session of the newly elected and retiring executive boards at Hotel Petersburg.

An invitation was extended to the American Federation of Teachers to come into the Virginia Federation for the purpose of unioninzing the Virginia teachers under the American Federation of Labor. Miss Selma M. Borchardt, of Washington, D. C., vice president of the teachers' federation, probably will return to Petersburg shortly, accompanied by another representative, to organize Petersburg teachers. The resolution censuring the two Virginia United States senators for voting to confirm President Hoover's appointment of Judge John J. Parker to the Supreme Court was withdrawn.

One of the most interesting events of the session of the federation last night was when Dan S. Hollenga, business manager of the Petersburg Chamber of Commerce, was presented by the Virginia Federation of Labor with a large silver loving cup for work performed for labor for a number of years past. The cup was presented by the retiring president, R. T. Bowden.

Dr. R. Harlan, of the University of Virginia, briefly outlined the history back of labor leading to the present situation. Giles C. Courtney, organizer for the International Typographical Union, carried a personal message to the convention from President Charles P. Howard, and discussed briefly the forward movement of that organization. He announced last night that a new union has been formed at Staunton, the printers there receiving their charter today.

R. T. Bowden, retiring president, was elected delegate to the 1931 Tennessee Federation of Labor. Certain minor amendments were made in the constitution of the federation before officers for the new year were installed by E. O. Woodberry.

Resolutions adopted by the convention included the indorsement of the State insurance fund for workmen's compensation, condemnation of "canned music," opposition to the cut in naval appropriation, an eight-hour instead of ten-hour day for women, establishment of a publicity representative, introduced by President Bowden, to handle convention publicity so that matters will not be given wide publicity before being presented in the convention, indorsement of the Washington bicentennial celebration, the five-day work-week plan, Wagner bills and other labor legislation, condemnation of the use of injunctions in labor disputes and concentration against unemployment and illiteracy.

Seven active former presidents of the Virginia Federation of Labor attended the convention. Edward F. Grace talked briefly to the convention last night, urging cooperation between all organizations and giving credit to D. S. Hollenga, business manager of the Petersburg Chamber of Commerce, for the contact which the Virginia Federation of Labor has made during the last five years with chambers of commerce in the State.

Ministers Fight Sunday Baseball

Winchester Men Also Rap Movies and Conduct of Business on Sabbath.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., May 21.—Vigorous protest was made today against Sunday baseball games, midnight movies and other so-called Sabbath commercializations and desecrations by the Winchester Ministerial Association.

"We view with deepest regret," say the clergymen, "what we feel are hurtful invasions upon the sanctity of the Sabbath in this community These invasions are in the form of games, entertainments which begin at one minute after 12 o'clock Sunday nights, the employment of boys for a price on the Sabbath, exhibitions of skill displayed and carrying a price, each and all of which is a commercialization of the Sabbath and and an invasion of its quietness and sanctity."

The pastors say that "with good will toward all and malice toward none, we must respectfully enter our protest against all desecration of the Sabbath, and cordially appeal to all concerned to desist from those practices which are hurtful examples to the children and youth of our community, and which shock the spiritual sensibilities of many of the best people of this city and the surrounding country."

ORDER FRATERNAL AMERICANS MEETS

Alexandria Man Selected for State Vice President at Convention.

D. A. R. MEETING ENDED

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

William A. Wine, of Quicksburg, Va., was elected president yesterday of the grand council of Virginia, Order Fraternal Americans, at the close of their twenty-first annual convention here. Samuel T. Park, of Alexandria, was chosen State vice president; George W. Whitehurst, Norfolk, State marshal; Edgar E. Gillette, Herndon, warden; John H. McCoy, Norfolk, inner guard; J. Ray Everhart, Winchester, outer guard; the Rev. John W. Seay, Upperville, chaplain; and the Rev. Fleming W. England, Plainview; Walter J. Deans, Portsmouth, and E. A. Clements, Richmond, members of the State finance committee. Mr. Park, the only Alexandrian honored with a State office, was not in line for the position, but was chosen from the floor as next in line for the presidency. He and Thomas Simpson, of Alexandria, were delegates to the convention, representing Alexandria Council, No. 5. The State secretary, James R. Mansfield, also was appointed by the grand council. The newly elected officers were installed in the afternoon by C. H. Thomas, of Martinsburg, W. Va.

Winchester was selected for the next meeting of the grand council.

Among the acts of the council at yesterday's meeting was the indorsement of the proposition to furnish free school books in the public schools of the State. A number of committee reports were presented, including those of the officers, the good of the order and press committees.

A resolution of thanks to Col. John H. Trimyer, Fred Ebhardt and W. J. Deane, for their volunteer services as reading clerks, was offered by L. E. Lockabill, of Roanoke, and unanimously adopted. Another resolution introduced by Mr. Lockabill and adopted was that the order be actively identified with the United States and the State of Virginia in the comprehensive celebration of the bicentennial anniversary of the birth of George Washington, in 1932, and that the State board of officers, including the State secretary and treasurer, be named a committee to cooperate with National and State Commissions and other organizations in order to carry out the wishes of Congress and the General Assembly of Virginia in this regard.

With the election of officers yesterday the eighteenth annual session of the State Council of the Daughters of America closed, with the selection of Winchester, Va., as the next place of meeting.

Mrs. Minnie McLeroy, Richmond, was selected as State councilor; Mrs. Annie Truxell, Richmond, associate councilor; Mrs. Sophia T. Mann, Cherrydale, vice councilor; Mrs. Nettie Huffman, Ballston, associate vice councilor; Mrs. Ruth Seablom, Alexandria, conductress; Mrs. Mary Williford, Norfolk, warden; Mrs. Nellie T. Clayton, Richmond, inside sentinel; Mrs. Eva Powell, Danville, outside sentinel.

National representatives chosen were Mrs. Viola Dale, Vienna, who is a junior past State councilor; Mrs. Rosa Belle Stewart, Norfolk; Mrs. Amanda Pruitt, Tangier Island; Mrs. Delia Walz, Hopewell, and Mrs. Grace Tally, Richmond, an associate junior past councilor.

The officers were installed by Mrs. Naomi E. Swan, of Washington, national deputy, assisted by Miss Grace Whalen, of Fairfax, and Miss Nettie Branson, of Cherrydale.

The fifth annual flower show of the Alexandria Garden Club will feature more than 500 exhibits at the show to be held in the Armory on Friday, when the proceeds from entrance fees will be applied toward the work of the club in clearing and restoring the courtyard at Gadsby's Tavern, to be begun as soon as the restoration of the building is completed.

Among those announced as judges are: Mrs. Gari Melchers, of Falmouth; Mrs. Daniel Devore, of Chatham; Mrs. Thomas R. Boggs, of Fredericksburg; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fay Butler, of Boyce; Mrs. Thomas Fendall and Mrs. William Rust, of Leesburg. These guests will be entertained at luncheon on Friday by the local club, at the Crocker Tea House, with Mrs. D. Mauchlin Niven, president; as the hostess assisted by the first and second presidents of the Club, Mrs. Louis S. Scott and Mrs. William J. Boothe.

The local Daughters of the Confederacy and Sons of Confederate Veterans will observe Confederate Memorial Day, May 24, with the usual exercises, and all persons in the city who have flowers they will give for this service have been requested to send them to Lee Camp Hall Saturday morning, between 10 and 12 o'clock, and all members of the chapter who are to assist in placing flags on the graves of Confederates are to assemble at Lee Camp Hall on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The Green Team of St. Agnes Episcopal School has won the silver cup for the third consecutive year, and it is now the permanent property of that team, to be displayed among school trophies. The presentation was made by Miss Marguerite Chapmen, principal of the school, and was accepted by Miss Ellen Holmes, captain of the winners.

The following events were arranged for the field day exercises by Miss Martha Sinclair, of the school faculty and coach of athletics: Hoop race, suitcase race, three-legged race, sack race, running broad jump, running high jump, by high school and grade school pupils, basket ball goal throw, basket ball distance throw and baseball distance throw.

Judge William P. Woolls, in the corporation court has declared John P. Sweeney legally dead, the suit being entered by a brother, Joseph B. Sweeney, of Barcroft. The man left this city in 1914, and the last seen of him was in Norfolk, Va., in 1917, and under the Virginia law an absence of seven years is sufficient to be called legally dead.

President Robert G. Carter, of the Kiwanis Club, will preside over the meeting today at 12:30 o'clock in the George Mason Hotel, when inter-club day will be observed and visitors from clubs in Washington, Fredericksburg and Manassas will be present.

A banquet will be given tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in Odd Fellows' Hall, by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, when a 50-year honor badge will be presented to William R. Cline, of Division 317, the presentation to be made by grand officers of the organization.
